RIOTING IN WASHINGTON; BONUS MARCHER SHOT DEAD, TROOPS CALLED

U. S. FARM BOARD DENOUNCED AND UPHELD IN HOUSE HEARING HERE

Wheat-Coffee Exchange With Brazil Increased Price to American Purchasers, F. E. Norwine Tells Shannon Committee

STATIONER RESENTS U. S. COMPETITION

Other Hand J. R. Fulkerson Declares Board Simply Assists Farmer and Livestock Producer in Marketing.

The Federal Farm Board was the principal target of witnesses who appeared today when the House committee investigating Government activity in business opened a two-day session in St. Louis.

The Farm Board was assailed for its trade with Brazil, in which wheat was exchanged for coffee, and on the ground that its subsidy to co-operatives have made eligible "unscrupulous competition."

Spokesmen for railroads complained of the Government's development of waterways and highways. Other protests dealt with the sale of envelopes in postoffices, the legal forms in the Federal courts, of general merchandise at army post exchanges and with the construction, by the Government, of its own marine engines.

The question to be determined, said Jacob M. Lashly, attorney, who presided as the meeting opened in the offices of the Chamber of commerce and who introduced members of the House Committee to the gathering of about 30 business men, was "whether the people are going to run the Government or the Government run the people."

Politics, Shannon Says.

Representative Shannon of Kansas City, chairman of the committee which began its inquiry there several days ago, said the investigation had no political aspect, and that members of both major parties were represented on the committee of six. Other members present were Representative Cox, Georgia Democrat, and Representative Pettengill of Indiana, Republican.

"It is necessary to hear all witnesses," Shannon said, night sessions would be held, and if that should not afford enough time Pettengill would remain Saturday to finish the hearing.

In a prepared statement presented at the hearing began F. E. Norwine, president of Norwine Coffee Co., criticised the Farm Board's purchase of 25,000,000 bushels of wheat and 112,000,000 pounds of Brazilian coffee which made the Farm Board the largest importer of coffee in the country.

"Stumbling, Blundering."

"The stumbling, blundering Farm Board is perhaps the most outstanding failure in history", Norwine said. "American wheat, which the Farm Board sold 82 cents a bushel, was traded on the basis of 27 cents value—a terrific loss to begin with.

"Brazil coffee was accepted in exchange at 8½ cents a pound, at 3.75 cents a bag more than the market was worth, or a difference of $30,000,000." The Brazilian Coffee Exchange Committee, Norwine said, bought half of the price paid for the coffee and used its half to buy additional coffee which was destroyed, thereby boosting the price paid by American purchasers for the balance of the crop.

"Beginning in September, he said, the Farm Board will offer its coffee for sale at the rate of 62,500 bags a month for 17 months, which will inscribe a new chapter in Government merchandising."

"The United States imports and uses about 6,000,000 bags of Santos coffee a year and since the Farm Board will sell 750,000 bags, or 12½ per cent, you can readily visualize their interest in our business. This volume, while reasonable, is not the disturbing element so much as the feeling that the coffee may fall into the hands of favored groups that will completely upset normal procedure."

Defends Farm Board.

The defense of the Farm Board was presented in a statement by J. R. Fulkerson, president of the Producers' Livestock Commission Association. "The Farm Board," he said, "is not a marketing agency, and does not in any way compete with private firms or individuals in business. It simply encourages the Federal Marketing Act which assists the farmer and

FLORIDA FILIPINOS APPEAL TO HOOVER FOR PROTECTION

Colonists Willing to Leave, but Want Security Until They Can Dispose of Land Leases.

By the Associated Press.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., July 28.—Filipino farmers who were driven from their Everglades colony last week by white neighbors have appealed to President Hoover for protection until they can recover money invested in their crops and land leases.

The request was contained in a telegram sent to the President last Saturday by Camilo Osias, a member of the colony, but no reply has been received.

The colony was driven from the district by about 200 farmers who had heard 3000 more Filipinos were coming from California. The whites feared labor troubles such as occurred in California two years ago.

Manuel Rami, who described himself as leader of the colony, said all are willing to leave the district but they want protection for themselves and their interests pending harvesting of their crops and disposal of leases on their land.

N. N. Walker, a white farmer of the Everglades, accompanied the Filipinos here and confirmed Rami's statement regarding the message to President Hoover.

One cause for the evictions was reported to have been an episode of a white girl and a Filipino. The eviction order came last Friday night and the colony was permitted until Monday night to leave. Most of them left prior to that date.

HOOVER AND R. F. C. DIRECTORS IN EXTRAORDINARY SESSION

No Information Given Out on White House Meeting Which Meyer and Pomerene Attend.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—President Hoover today called an extraordinary meeting of the board of directors of the $3,800,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation in the Cabinet room of the White House.

Gathered with the President, in addition to a majority of the directors, were Eugene Meyer, former chairman of the corporation's board, and Paul Bestor, a former director.

Atlee Pomerene, the new chairman of the board, also attended the conference. No information was given by White House officials concerning its outcome.

BOILERMAKER KILLED IN FALL OF 150 FEET INSIDE OF STACK

Matthew Graham Thrown Off When Scaffold Tips at Swift & Co. Plant.

Matthew Graham, a boilermaker, was killed at 10 a. m. today when he fell 150 feet inside a four-foot metal smokestack at the Swift Packing Co. plant, Vandeventer avenue and Papin street.

Graham, who was 40 years old and lived at 1903A Benton street, was preparing to dismantle the stack with another workman when the scaffold upon which they were working tipped, and he fell inside. The other man did not fall.

SAYS THOMASSON WAS NOT UP TO PAR MENTALLY

Old Acquaintance Declares Wealthy Realty Owner Before Marriage Lived on $50 a Month.

'MUTTERED TO SELF MOST OF THE TIME'

Banker Tells of Volunteer Violin Recital but He Didn't Recognize the Tune.

Persons of long acquaintance with Hugh W. Thomasson, wealthy elderly real estate owner, took the stand today to testify regarding his mental condition, as attorneys for his second cousin, Miss Elmira Townsend, continued their attempts to show he is a resident of St. Louis and would be in the city if he had the mental capacity to return here.

The question of residence is to be considered by the jury in Circuit Judge Hoffmeister's court before it considers his sanity, according to a court ruling.

Paul Laidley, a real estate dealer of 3719 Washington boulevard, said he had known Thomasson for more than 40 years and that he was always "under par mentally."

"He used to try to impress me by always holding a newspaper in front of him," Laidley said, "but I noticed his eyes didn't follow the lines and he had no knowledge of current events. He muttered to himself most of the time and gesticulated while he muttered. I suggested that he learn to play the violin as a hobby but he was never able to play more than discords.

Ignored Friend's Advice.

"In 1925, he sold his old family home at Grand and Delmar boulevards for a record price. I congratulated him on the sale and advised him to buy Liberty bonds with the proceeds. Instead he bought second deeds of trust on the advice of lawyers.

"I suggested he go to Hotel Chase to live but he finally picked the Fairmont Hotel. He was pretty close and if I'd left him alone, I expect he'd have moved down to the neighborhood of Sixth and Walnut streets." Laidley said Thomasson probably lived on "$50 a month or less" at Grand and Delmar.

Tuneless Tune for Banker.

Edgar L. Taylor, vice-president of Boatmen's Bank, who said he had known Thomasson 30 years, described him only as "taciturn," but testified that after Thomasson's marriage in July, 1930, he had sought to get "some assistance for him in his financial affairs."

"He lived in one room at Grand and Delmar and when I told him he ought to live like a white man, he said it was his home and he was satisfied, that he knew where he wanted to live. He volunteered once to play me a tune on the violin but I didn't recognize it."

Clarkson Carpenter, real estate dealer of 4934 Pershing avenue, also an acquaintance of 30 to 35 years, told of seeing Thomasson two years ago at the Fairmont Hotel. He said Thomasson's face had "an odd expression," that he seemed "worn and dejected."

Harry Abrams, former bank teller and later a deputy Federal income tax clerk, described Thomasson as having a "wild look in his eyes and unable to speak so that you could understand him." Abrams said he had known Thomasson 25 years.

Nurse Tells of "Mutterings."

Testimony concerning Thomasson's condition more recently was given by Miss Pauline Hightower, nurse for Mrs. Thomasson following an operation last March. Relating that Mr. and Mrs. Thomasson, Wilfred Jones, Mrs. Thomasson's attorney, and three servants were living in the Thomasson home in Clayton, Miss Hightower said Thomasson entered his wife's room only once in two weeks. She described him as "acting queek, staring and muttering to himself" when she saw him about the house.

Two witnesses testified that a woman, identified as Mrs. Thomasson by a photograph, lived for four weeks last January and February in an apartment at 3645 Blaine avenue with a man not her husband. The man, whose name was given as W. F. McNelly, is a witness for Miss Townsend and was identified by one witness in court.

The principal witness yesterday was Frank Redd, 2330 Pine boulevard, former Negro chauffeur for Mrs. Thomasson, who testified to happenings on a long motor trip beginning Jan. 22, 1931, when Thomasson was supposedly seized on the street near his hotel, the Fairmont, and forced into his wife's automobile.

The chauffeur said Mrs. Thomasson arrived at his former home.

ILLINOIS GETS $3,000,000 FROM R. F. C. FOR RELIEF

Agency, Announcing 3 Pct. Loan, Says It Expects States to Meet Needs as Far as Possible.

C. A. MILLER NAMED DIRECTOR

Hoover Fills Directorate by Appointing Utica (N. Y.) Banker Who Will Take Dawes' Post.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—A relief loan of $3,000,000 to Illinois at 3 per cent interest was announced by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday and made available immediately because it "appears that relief funds will be exhausted in certain localities" of the state by Monday.

The Federal agency, agreeing to lend the money out of the $300,000,000 fund in the new $2,122,000,000 relief act signed last Thursday, said it would expect all states to meet their own needs as far as possible "and call upon the corporation only as a last resort."

Otherwise, it added, the $300,000,000 would not be enough.

Other applications for state loans are pending, but it is thought the corporation will withhold action on most of them until the new directors take office.

The board inquired into the administrative methods of the State Relief Commission. The directors emphasized that "the corporation in all cases will insist that the states and local communities furnish a substantial part of the relief needed."

Pomerene Consults Hoover.

Atlee Pomerene today discussed with President Hoover the duties of his new post as chairman of the board of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Secretary of the Treasury Mills and Charles Miller, regional director for the corporation's activities in the New York district, joined in the conference.

President Hoover today appointed Charles A. Miller of Utica, N. Y., as the seventh director of the Reconstruction Corporation, thereby filling the directorate.

The appointment followed an extraordinary meeting of the directors of the corporation in the White House.

The President said Miller would be elected president of the corporation. This post was vacated some time ago by Charles G. Dawes. Miller conferred twice today with the President.

Miller is president of the Savings Bank of Utica, and has acted as chairman of the Regional Committee of the Finance Corporation in the New York district.

"I have been happy in the practice of law and thought I was out of public life for good," Pomerene said when asked his view of the new post. "But I am ready to go to work here in earnest next Monday."

Pomerene said he would spend the day in conference with his new colleagues in the corporation, familiarizing himself with his new duties.

Oversubscription of Securities.

An immense oversubscription to the offer of Treasury securities to raise funds for the expanded operations of the Finance Corporation is announced by Mills.

He said the four-year Treasury notes bearing 3¼ per cent interest had been over-subscribed 12 times and where the Treasury wanted to raise $325,000,000, the public offered to buy $3,803,000,000 of the notes. The $325,000,000 offering of two-year 2¼ per cent notes brought total subscriptions of more than $1,703,000,000.

The issues, the first securities sold by the Treasury in the 1933 fiscal year except minor turnover paper, thus brought in a total of more than $5,500,000,000, whereas the Treasury wanted to raise only $650,000,000, of which $325,000,000 is to be used to retire maturing certificates of indebtedness. The issues will be dated Aug. 1.

President's Statement On Calling Out Troops

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 28.

PRESIDENT HOOVER late today issued an announcement that in order to put an end to "rioting and defiance of civil authority" arising in clashes between bonus seeking veterans and the police, he had asked the United States army to assist in restoring order. The text of the President's statement follows:

"For some days police authorities and Treasury officials have been endeavoring to persuade the so-called bonus marchers to evacuate certain buildings which they were occupying without permission.

"These buildings are on sites where Government construction is in progress and their demolition was necessary in order to extend employment in the district and to carry forward the Government's construction program.

"This morning the occupants of these buildings were notified to evacuate and at the request of the police did evacuate the buildings concerned.

"Thereafter, however, several thousand men from different camps marched in and attacked the police with brickbats and otherwise, injuring several policemen, one probably fatally.

"I have received the attached letter from the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, stating that they can no longer preserve law and order in the district.

"In order to put an end to this rioting and defiance of civil authority, I have asked the army to assist the district authorities to restore order.

"Congress made provision for the return home of the so-called bonus marchers, who have for many weeks been given every opportunity of free assembly, free speech and free petition to the Congress.

"Some 5000 took advantage of this arrangement and have returned to their homes. An examination of a large number of names discloses the fact that a considerable part of those remaining are not veterans; many are Communists and persons with criminal records.

"The veterans amongst these numbers are no doubt unaware of the character of their companions and are being led into violence which no government can tolerate.

"I have asked the Attorney-General to investigate the whole incident and to co-operate with the district civil authorities in such measures against leaders and rioters as may be necessary."

ONE KILLED, FIVE HURT, WHEN PLANE STRIKES SHIP IN BAY

Review of Air Fleet at San Diego, Cal., Held in Spite of Accident.

By the Associated Press.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 28.—One man was killed and five others were injured, one seriously, when a seaplane crashed into the coast guard cutter Tamaroa in San Diego Bay today a few minutes before a massed flight of 420 Army, Navy and Marine Corps planes took place.

Chief Photographer Auger was killed instantly.

The injured: Harry Allen, machinist mate first class, who may die; Lieut. (junior grade) Anderson Offutt; Third Class Machinist Mate Larrimore and Second Class Machinist Mates Uhle and Lansing.

Auger was to have photographed the planes from the air as they passed in review before Navy, Army and Marine Corps officials, members of the National Editorial Association and Amelia Earhart.

The flight was not delayed by the accident, which occurred when the plane swerved to avoid striking a sailboat. The Tamaroa, putting to sea on regular patrol duty, came into line with the plane and was struck on its bow. The plane sank, but was recovered in a few minutes.

WALKER'S REPLY FORWARDED

Won't Be Made Public Until Roosevelt Gives the Word.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Mayor James J. Walker's answer to charges of Samuel Seabury and others growing out of the Hofstadter Legislative Committee investigation of the city administration, was taken from City Hall a little after noon today by two special messengers for transmission to Gov. Roosevelt at Albany.

It was announced at City Hall that Walker's reply would not be made public until Gov. Roosevelt gave the word. Charles F. Kerrigan, assistant to the Mayor, said the answer covered 58 pages, and with exhibits and other parts of the communication contained about 27,000 words.

TWO SLAIN, 3 WOUNDED AT REVIVAL MEETING

Fight Follows Attempt to Arrest Man at Church in Kentucky.

By the Associated Press.

SOMERSET, Ky., July 28.—Two men were shot fatally when a revival meeting at the Carter Grove Baptist Church at Quinton was disrupted by a pistol fight last night. Three others were wounded. A party of officers went to the mountain church to arrest Dick East, who allegedly was creating a disturbance at the meeting.

Murphy Johnson, deputized to assist in making the arrest, was instantly killed in the fight that followed. Dick East's brother, Tom East, was fatally wounded, dying a few hours later.

Deputy Sheriff Kenneth M. Brown was so gravely wounded he was not expected to recover. Shot three times, he was brought to a Somerset hospital for an emergency operation.

Deputy Bunk Hardwick was seriously wounded and Dick East was shot in the arm.

ST. LOUIS GANGSTER SENT TO PRISON IN NEW ORLEANS

Frank Silsby Gets From 9 to 14 Years for $11,000 Bank Holdup.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, July 28.—Frank Silsby, St. Louis gangster, was today sentenced to serve from nine to 14 years in the State penitentiary for his part in the $11,000 holdup of the Ewing Market branch of the Canal Bank here April 30, 1931.

While Silsby's attorneys announced they would take an appeal, the District Attorney's office countered with the declaration that should the appeal be denied they would ask that the sentence be doubled under the second offense law. Silsby served time in Stillwater penitentiary, Minn.

Willie Martin, Willie Kelley and Joseph Greco of New Orleans were convicted with Silsby here for the bank holdup. Silsby, a few years ago had been posing as a reformed criminal.

Special Rates for Honeymooners.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, July 28.—The Italian State Railways yesterday announced an 80 per cent honeymooners' reduction in round trip tickets to Rome. The move was made by the Government to foster interest in marriages, which have been declining of late. Couples must present their wedding certificates when applying for tickets. The fares must be purchased within a week after marriage and they are good for two weeks' stay in the capital.

TEAR GAS USED BY INFANTRYMEN AGAINST VETERANS

Cavalrymen Clear Streets — Action Climax of Series of Clashes in Which in Addition to Camper Killed, One Is Wounded, and Several Policemen Are Injured.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—United States troops moved against the bonus army with fixed bayonets near the Capitol late this afternoon, after rioting earlier had resulted in two of the veterans being shot—one dead—by police.

Cavalrymen assisted by police, at 5:20 p. m. began the evacuating, under orders to use all the force necessary.

Tear gas bombs were thrown by the troops to break up concentrations of veterans.

President Hoover had ordered the troops out upon petition of District of Columbia authorities that the police were unable to maintain order.

Cavalrymen rode on the sidewalks forcing spectators into doorways or up side streets. One man standing in the door of a telegraph office refused to move. Two cavalrymen converged on him, their horses forcing him back into the doorway.

As the streets were being cleared infantrymen rushed at double quick time toward the area occupied by the marchers.

The first advance was made in less crowded area.

One company of infantry turned from Pennsylvania avenue into Fourth street dividing the bonus forces. They started to drive the bonus marchers across the foundations of torn-down buildings.

Campers Stand Fast.

Cavalrymen cleared the north side of Pennsylvania avenue. Spectators and veterans massed there dropped back to a vacant lot.

The almost solid group of veterans on the south side of the Avenue did not move back an inch.

Finally, the cavalry cleared the streets and surrounding lots of the huge throng preliminary to the evacuation move.

Police were put inside the lines of the veterans' camp as the cavalry undertook its task of getting the crowd away from possible danger.

At this point, numbers of the troops donned gas masks, presumably with the intention of flinging tear gas bombs into the ranks of recalcitrant veterans.

A company of infantry deployed to the rear of the veterans. Another company advanced down Pennsylvania Avenue to the front.

As one group of veterans was driven back into a compact mass but failed to move further, infantrymen fell back and put on gas masks.

In the upper reaches of the four-story building which has been headquarters for the Pennsylvania Avenue veterans, men could be seen folding their blankets and apparently getting ready to evacuate.

Gas Drives Campers Back.

Soon th etear gas bombs were thrown, and almost immediately the gas started rising from amongst the partly destroyed buildings. The veterans rushed backward as troops pushed forward with bayonets still fixed. Police also fled.

A blue blaze of gas hovered over Pennsylvania Avenue at Fourth street.

Down at Third street, the cavalry moved in to the ropes, scattering another crowd of spectators which spread swiftly before the clattering horses.

Trucks brought up another detachment of infantry, which immediately began a movement on another flank of the veterans.

Dropping bomb after bomb, the soldiers moved quickly through the first building standing on the corner of Four and a Half and Pennsylvania avenue.

The bombs were dropped outside in the debris of a building recently torn down. The fumes soared to the second and third stories of the building where hundreds of the veterans had been staying.

Stores along the avenue shut their doors and transoms to keep out the gas.

A bullet through the heart killed the man when police opened fire on veterans who were advancing toward them.

A group of his comrades took the man to a hospital in a patrol wagon, accompanied by two policemen. He was dead when he reached there. He later was identified as William Hashka, 35 years old, of Chicago.

Eric Carlson, 40 years old, a bonus marcher from Oakland, Cal., is in a serious condition at Casualty Hospital with a bullet wound in the back and lower abdomen. Doctors said his recovery was doubtful.

Other Veterans Injured.

Several other bonus marchers were treated for lesser injuries inflicted by brickbats. They included an Indian, Chief Mountain Heart, 42, who was cut on the chest, and John Wyndom, 39, of Cleveland, O., who was cut on the lip and cheek.

Secretary of War Hurley ordered cavalry from Fort Myer to rush into the city at fast pace, saying he had been informed by the President that "the civil government of the District of Columbia has reported to him it is unable to maintain law and order."

Troops arrived in the troubled area near the Capitol at 4:45 p. m. with orders to clear away the veterans.

The cavalry came into view first down historic Pennsylvania Ave-

WILSON, WINTER SPEAK HERE; NEAR END OF CAMPAIGNS

Democratic Candidate in Race for Governor Tells Crowd That Pendergast Never Bossed Him.

G. O. P. ASPIRANT APPEARS IN COUNTY

Lieutenant-Governor Recalls Opposition to Ralph Sewer Law—States His Program of Economy.

Two candidates for nominations for Governor, Francis M. Wilson, Democrat, and Lieutenant-Governor Winter, Republican, drew their St. Louis campaigns toward a close in speeches last night. Wilson spoke to an audience of about 3000 persons at Grand boulevard and Laclede avenue. Winter appeared at Hunter and Central avenues in St. Louis County.

Wilson spoke in a vigorous manner for nearly two hours, his speech in large measure being a defense against the campaign arguments that he was controlled by Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City, that he was "too old" to be Governor, that he was physically unfit and that he had never won an election when he had opposition.

Asserting he did not charge that his opponent, Russell L. Dearmont, was "the candidate of the Power Trust," he by indirection made the charge and repeated the utility attacks on Dearmont which have been made by Wilson speakers since the beginning of the campaign.

Didn't Ask for Support.

He asserted he had not asked for the support of Pendergast, and that neither Pendergast nor any other person had ever attempted to control his official actions in any office he ever had held.

"The way the Pendergast support came about," he said, "was this: Mr. Pendergast, Mr. Shannon and Mr. Welch looked over my record. They saw that in the 1928 campaign I led the national and State Democratic tickets in Missouri. They said that 'this fellow is a race horse and we'll get on him.' That's all there is to that."

He denied a report that he was too old to be Governor and that if elected he would be 70 years old when his term expired. He did not state his age, but his official biography shows he will lack six months of being 70 at the expiration of the term of the next Governor.

By his vigor in speaking, Wilson had the appearance of being in good physical condition. He talked both seriously and humorously on this subject. "I am in as good health as I ever was," he said. "I didn't know a Governor had to be a gymnast or a professional strong man, called upon to turn handsprings, or hang by his chin from chandeliers."

Discussing his many races for offices, in most of which he was elected and two of which he was defeated, he said that, after his nominaton for Congressman in the Fourth District in 1904 in a convention in which 1000 ballots were taken, he suffered a nervous breakdown which kept him in bed during the greater part of the campaign, and he was defeated. He pointed out, however, that a Republican landslide that year resulted in the defeat of all Democratic candidates except Joseph W. Folk.

Early in the 1928 campaign, he said, he underwent a serious operation which prevented him from making a vigorous campaign. "I hope my opponent never has to have such an operation," he said. "It would have been much more charitable for him to have said that notwithstanding that handicap I led the state and national ticket from a hospital bed."

Though he asserted that he did not charge that Dearmont was a "Power Trust and public utility" candidate, he said the Power Trust lawyers all over the state were supporting him. "I favor keeping the hands of the Power Trust off the rivers of the state," he said. "They belong to the people."

Wilson read a statement of his position on prohibition: "I wish to make it clear that the Democratic platform adopted at Chicago is my platform. I stand for every plank and declaration in it. I stand with Gov. Roosevelt for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and modification of the Volstead Act, as recommended by that platform. I want to say again, as I have said before, that if Congress should modify the Volstead Act before the eighteenth amendment is repealed, then I will recommend to the State Legislature that the State prohibition act be amended to conform to the Congressional amendment."

In his county address, Lieutenant-Governor Winter recalled to his audience that, as a member of the Legislature, he opposed the passage of the Ralph Sewer law. He advocated change in the taxation laws to permit the payment of taxes in quarterly installments as a measure of relief for taxpayers.

He outlined a program of economy in Government affairs, including collection of automobile license fees by county collectors instead of by the Secretary of State, which he said would mean a saving of $300,000 a year; audits of bills before and not after purchases were made by State departments; establishment of a Board of Standardization to prepare specifications for all State supplies; transfer of the licensing of corporations from the Secretary of State to the Attorney-General; transfer of the collection of inheritance taxes from the Attorney-General to the county collectors, and a change in the law to permit the use of voting machines in St. Louis and other large cities.

Dearmont comes to St. Louis tonight for a three days' final drive for votes, concluding his campaign with a meeting Saturday night at Grand boulevard and Laclede avenue, where Wilson spoke last night.

Dearmont will speak tonight at Spring avenue and Dodier street, at Taylor avenue and Delmar boulevard, and at Gravois avenue and Itaska street. He will deliver four speeches in St. Louis County tomorrow night, at Ferguson High School at 7:30 o'clock, at University City Hall at 8:30, at Maplewood High School at 9:30 and at Risch's Grove on Lemay Ferry road at 10 o'clock.

Wilson speaks tonight at the old city hall in University City.

Dearmont and Grover Childers, Democrats, and Winter and Lee B. Koehler, Republicans, have accepted invitations to speak at a "Governor's luncheon" at the City Club at noon tomorrow. Wilson has notified the club he will not be able to attend.

Bonus Marcher Killed in Washington Riot; Troops Called

nue in company front, with pennants flying above the prancing horses' heads. The troops marched into the affected area, accompanied by cheers from both veterans and spectators. Men from the area to be evacuated, however, still insisted they did not intend to leave. Almost 200 were massed in an old three-story building near Third street and Pennsylvania avenue.

At Sixth and Pennsylvania avenue, swords drawn, the column halted and spread in single file across the avenue. After a brief conference between Glassford and the commanding officer of the unit, they advanced at a slow trot.

Police Hold Back Veterans.

Veterans were massed hundreds deep on a corner. Metropolitan police held the veterans in check. Glassford shouted, "those who don't want to fight, move across the street."

Great crowds of curious onlookers followed the troops.

The tanks were unloaded and rumbled down the avenue, their short stock guns sticking from turrets and their caterpillars rattling over the hard asphalt.

After the first three tanks went forward another unit of cavalry, this time with sabers sheathed, moved on toward the Capitol.

Two or three groups of veterans moved on, some across the street to another excavated site. Others walked in the opposite direction to mingle with the thousands of spectators who lined the opposite curb. As the tanks rumbled up some taunts and more cheering greeted them.

Machine Gun Unit.

These were followed by another company flag, this one of a machine gun unit. The mounted machine gun unit carried guns strapped to the backs of horses.

There was little disruption of traffic, the columns dividing to permit the passage of street cars. Other traffic was diverted to nearby streets.

Next came trucks, six in all, and another mounted unit followed closely behind fully equipped, rifles pointing downward from saddle holsters.

Cavalry was first to pass the main concentration of veterans. Sabers were drawn and noncommissioned officers held pistols in the air. They, too, were greeted with boos by the bonus marchers.

More of the veterans hastily picked up bags and departed. This was not true of all, but there was every appearance of an exodus as the troops were sighted.

Crowds lined the streets all about the veterans' camp and the host of Government workers departing from their jobs for the day swelled eth tremendous group of spectators.

Some veterans broke out into "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

There was a short conference between police officials and some of the cavalry officers and then the machine-gun detachment moved in line nearer the tanks. The advance guard of the troops was followed by still another detachment, also heralded by cheers from the spectators.

Soldiers almost directly opposite the buildings to be evacuated dismounted and erected their machine-gun equipment.

After hearing a report from Officer George Shinault, who said he fire dthe first shot, Pelham D. Glassford, Police Chief, said the shooting was "justified."

Several policemen were injured during the day. One, Patrolman Webb Scott, was seriously hurt when struck onthe head with a flying brick in the clahh in the morning. At the emergency hospital, after reports had circulated that he had died, it was said Scott had a chance to recover.

Glassford, who was a witness to the shooting, continued an immediate investigation of it with a view to turning his information over to the District Attorney's office. Seated astraddle his motorcycle in the street, the Police Chief took the depositions of police officers and bystanders who had witnessed the fray.

Shinault told Glassford he had fired only after it appeared that he wold be seriously injured by the veterans advancing on him. He said he fired one shot.

Other witnesses told Glassford they heard several shots but were indefinite about who had fired them.

Glassford said that in the midst of the fight to keep the storming veterans back he had seen a civilian "pull a 45-caliber revolver from his pocket."

On being shouted to by the police chief to put the firearm away, however, the civilian pocketed it without firing, Glassford said.

"I was far more interested in stopping the shooting than in seeing who did it," Glassford said.

200 Men, Five Tanks.

There were about 200 men, five tanks, and one machine gun troop in the military at the White House under the command of Maj. A. D. Surles. Maj. Surles was expecting the third battalion of the Twerth Infantry to join his outfit at any minute.

First of the army contingent to arrive on the scene of the actual trouble was an army ambulance. It was parked in the middle of the street.

Attorney-General Mitchell arrived at the White House, meanwhile, to consule the President. Secretary Hurley joined the conference later.

Secretary Hurley gave publicity to the order for troops following a series of conferences with his chief of staff, the Adjutant-General and other officials, which continued throughout the period when the first clash of the bonus veterans with police occurred.

The greatest secrecy was maintained at the War Department despite the fact that it was known some time in advance that troops were being held in readiness throughout the Third Corps area, which embraces Washington. About 15 minutes before Hurley called in newspaper men, Gen. MacArthur had doffed his white Palm Beach civilian suit for his uniform.

All prisoners will be turned over to civil authorities, Hurley pointed out, saying this brushed aside the question of martial law.

Infantry from Forts Humphreys, Howard and Washington, and some from Fort Meade were ordered to Fort Myer as a reserve unit.

Orders to Clear Area.

Brigadier-General Miles had orders to clear the area between Third and Sixth streets and Pennsylvania avenue and Missouri avenue, a wide area, "using such force as might be necessary."

In late afternoon the veterans and police waited at the scene of the shooting for the expected arrival of troops. Police kept the veterans behind the lines which cut off the first zone that had been cleared in the morning.

Policemen who attempted to keep a group of the veterans within building marked "Sixth Regiment headquarters," were brushed aside.

The outbreak occurred when police reinforcements started lining up on the east side of a Government building in which the veterans had been allowed to remain.

Bricks were thrown from the floors above on the police.

About eight shots had been fired in all. Once a period of comparative calm was reached, police made great efforts to divide the men belonging to the Pennsylvania avenue camp army from veterans from other parts of the city.

A while before Glassford, who had the eviction order called off for awhile had told a gathering of the veterans, "I suppose you know one policeman is dying."

This apparently had little effect on his debraggled band of listeners, as they stood behind police lines—some scowling, some laughing.

Glassford had been moving on the principle of keeping the ground gained today, in which several veterans had been forced from one building and a line strung up for a cleared area to some extent around. He said he knew of no plans to call troops, but he understood that troops were ready in the vicinity to head toward the scene if need be.

A crowd of veterans soon afterward formed on the sidewalk in front of the building. In a threatening mood, these sought to rush the police lines drawn up in front of them. The police, much outnumbered, closed in to hold them back.

Just as the veterans with upstretched hands moved to rush forward, Glassford addressed his men from the second floor of the building, ordering them to fall back.

The police did. Shouts and jeers rose up from the throats of the veterans.

Several of the bonus seekers were grabbed by police and hurried away in patrol wagons.

Glassford himself came down from the second floor soon afterward, chasing two or three veterans before him. He then went to the rear of the building where more trouble seemed imminent.

The Earlier Clash.

In the earlier clash a group of veterans resorted to violence after being evicted from the building on lower Pennsylvania avenue. They chased police for some distance by throwing bricks at the officers.

Apparently without any reason the fighting broke out near the assembly ground of the veterans after they ahd been removed from their shelter.

A thousand or more of the bonus seekers had arrived on the scene from Anacostia and had broken through thin police lines around the block.

This developed after Glassford had ordered every officer available for that purpose to the site to guard against trouble.

Earlier, the Government in a statement through Attorney-General Mitchell had ordered the immediate evacuation of all veterans from Federal property.

Quick reinforcements were rushed into the area and the brick throwing veterans soon subsided so far as actual violence was concerned but continued yelling and beoing and shouting "let's run them out."

Meanwhile police reserves from every precinct in the District of Columbia arrived on the scene.

Veterans were moving on the Pennsylvania avenue area from all directions and gathering bricks and stones on the way.

The lot on which the veterans have been living was covered with brick and debris from buildings which have been demolished.

Policemen sought quick refuge from the brick attack when it started and a few officers drew their pistols. None fired, however. Glassford was less than a half block away when the trouble began and promptly went to the scene He moved among the veterans urging them to desist from violence and pay attention to their leaders.

Officials of the Treasury present said the entire area probably would be evacuated at once regardless of the consequences.

Plunging into the center of the fight, Glassford succeeded in stopping the rush at police hopes. Several police and several veterans were injured and Glassford was hit by a brick and his badge was torn off. Later it was restored by a veteran.

He stopped the men and asked to confer with company leaders. One small veteran, apparently the leader of the attack, attempted to urge the men on again. He had been struck with a brick on the right side of his face. Police seized hi mand put him in a patrol wagon. One of the policemen injured, Edward G. Scott, was reported in a serious condition from a fractured skull. Another had a skull injury.

Waters told the police chief the men were out of his control. Some of the former soldiers were reported to have pulled revolvers but none had been fired.

Police said the brick throwers had come across the street from an adjacent ball park. Waters said they were followers of John Pace, Detroit, twice arrested leader of the radical wing of the bonus seekers.

Police reinforcements poured in constantly, motor sirens screaming, and officers were ready for action with their clubs. No tear gas bombs were used in the first clash, officers fighting the veterans off with their sticks.

With the arrival of police reserves, Glassford maneuvered them in such a way that the veterans' army was broken up into several sections, some on the lot to be cleared and others across the streets. Night officers who had been off duty but a few hours were roused from bed and hurriedly sent to the scene in the mobilization order.

Following a conference with Treasury officials, Glassford told leaders of the veterans that there would be no further evictions today from Pennsylvania avenue Federal property.

Within less than an hour after the first man had been led out, every veteran in the brick structure had been removed. The last to go was a man on the roof who had been waving an American flag.

The veterans were grouped a few yards up Pennsylvania avenue from a structure that had just been vacated. Police were holding the crowds back when one man struck at an officer. Others rushed in. One huge Negro began to fight and it took six officers to subdue him and put him in a patrol wagon.

Some of the other veterans attempted to interefere with the arrest but were forced back as officers were reinforced and ordered the crowds to scatter.

Mitchell's Statement.

Mitchell declared "there is no longer any excuse or justification for the assemblage in Washington of these men."

"They are trespassers on government property, much of which is immediately needed for erection of public improvements," he added.

"Many of them are violating the laws of the district by holding unlawful assemblies in the street, obstructing traffic, disorderly conduct, begging and other acts. Their refusal to leave government property and resisting removal is an offense against the law, punishable by fine and imprisonment.

"It is high time this conduct should end. There is no reason why these men should not obey the laws of the district just as every resident of the district is expected to do. In removing them from Government property entirely lawful methods are available. Under the law it is not necessary to resort to the court for ejectment decrees. Methods are legally prescribed for the summary removal and the necessary steps will be taken accordingly.

"In addition to the steps looking toward their eviction because of their trespassing on Government property, steps are being taken to co-ordinate the work of arrest and prosecution for any and all violations of the law.

"Arrest will be made for all violations, and arrangements have been made for co-operation between the District Attorney's office and Prosecuting Attorneys in the office of the corporation counsel to expedite these cases, present them to the courts, and to urge substantial sentences and to arrange proper prison accommodation in the district jail, the Occoquan workhouse and the prison at Lorton for any number of persons who may be convicted.

"No one has any disposition to be unduly harsh in these matters, but it is hoped that these men and their leaders will realize that the illegal possession of Government property and other unlawful conduct cannot be longer tolerated and that they will yield to the inevitable and obey the law."

Balked for a time in beginning destruction of the building by refusal of the veterans to leave, the Treasury employes early in the day began operations on the ground floor of the three-story structure. They walked up to a group of veterans standing in the doorway, took one by the arm and marched him off the property. The man put up no resistance and smiled at his escort.

"Arrest any man that resists," Glassford ordered.

The Treasury officials intended to repossess the building so that after occupants were removed a wrecking crew could go to work. The building is a block from the Capitol grounds. After it is torn down several others will be demolished to make way for a Government building program. The veterans have been living in them temporarily.

While the first men were being led off, others on the upper floors and on the roof waved American flags and cheered. Many other veterans crowded about and watched the proceedings.

The ground floor was cleared without difficulty amidst considerable howling from veterans on the upper floors and on the roof.

The only way to get to the second floor was up a ladderlike stairway. When the Treasury agents arrived on that floor they met their first resistance. A large Negro declared he was unable to walk down the stairway "because the height makes me dizzy."

After his refusal the Treasury agents started to pick him up bodily. When he resisted he was arrested.

Walter W. Waters, leader of the bonus seekers, was addressing a mass meeting of his followers on the site when the order arrived from the Treasury. He promptly informed his men of what was taking place and told them to govern their actions with great care or they would be in conflict with the Federal Government.

After reading the Treasury order to his men Waters continued his speech.

When the message from the Treasury was delivered the immediate vicinity was patrolled by many extra police.

Waters last night informed police he was willing to evacuate the area peacefully in view of the fact that "friends" had provided a camp site and money for barracks elsewhere.

Waters said he did not desire to make any veteran act against his own will and based his plea on the argument that it would benefit the bonus force in the long run to evacuate and form a permanent camp.

"I knew we wouldn't get our bonus in this last Congress," he said. "I knew we would have to stay a long time. That's why I have been planning this permanent camp."

A meeting of the men occupying the building marked for destruction was called. They voted, 15 to 5, against vacating the structure, and one of this number took an American flag and climbed up on the roof, where he sat waving it. Though only 23 voted on this proposition, bonus leaders said the building was occupied by 135 men.

A few veterans gathered up their belongings and left, but the others stuck tight for the time being.

Large crowds were gathered along Pennsylvania avenue and police had difficulty in keeping traffic moving.

About 40 former soldiers crowded into the building to be demolished after its regular occupants had voted not to get out.

A Texan stood at the front of the building and shouted: "Come on, all you bums, and let's stay in here. What difference does it make if you do get hit with a brick? Do you expect to live forever?"

There was one woman in the building. She took her place on the ground floor.

"I am Mrs. Mary Brown of Los Angeles," she said in reply to questions. "Yes, I have children but none here. I am going to stay."

Letter of Commissioners Asking Hoover to Call Out Troops.

President Hoover this afternoon made public the following letter from the commissioners of the District of Columbia:

"The commissioners of the District of Columbia regret to inform you that during the past few hours circumstances of a serious character have arisen in the District of Columbia which have been the cause of unlawful acts of large numbers of so-called 'bonus marchers,' who have been in Washington for some time past.

"This morning, officials of the Treasury Department, seeking to clear certain areas within the Government triangle in which there were numbers of these bonus marchers, met with resistance.

"They called upon the metropolitan police force for assistance and a serious riot occurred. Several members of the Metropolitan police were injured, one reported seriously.

"The total number of bonus marchers greatly outnumbered the police; the situation is made more difficult by the fact that this area contains thousands of brickbats and these were used by the rioters in their attack upon the police.

"In view of the above, it is the opinion of the Major and Superintendent of Police, in which the commissioners concur, that it will be impossible for the Police Department to maintain law and order except by the free use of firearms, which will make the situation a dangerous one; it is believed, however, that the presence of Federal troops in some number will obviate the seriousness of the situation and result in far less violence and bloodshed.

"The Commissioners of the District of Columbia, therefore, request that they be given the assistance of Federal troops, in maintaining law and order in the District of Columbia."

The letter was signed by L. H. Reichelderfer, President of the Board of Commissioners.

WAR SECRETARY'S ORDER CALLING OUT TROOPS TO SUPPRESS DISORDER

WASHINGTON, July 28.

FOLLOWING is the instructions of Secretary of War Hurley to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff of the army, after Federal troops had been called out today following fighting between the unemployed war veterans and the police of Washington:

"The President has just informed me that the civil government of the District of Columbia has reported to him that it is unable to maintain law and order in the district.

"You will have United States troops proceed immediately to the scene of disorder. Co-operate fully with the District of Columbia police force, which is now in charge. Surround the affected area and clear it without delay.

"Turn over all prisoners to the civil authorities.

"In your orders insist that any women and children who may be in the affected area be accorded every consideration and kindness. Use all humanity consistent with the due execution of this order."

PLANE EXPLODES IN AIR IN ENGLAND, 3 PERSONS KILLED

Mrs. Alfred C. Bossom, Wife of Noted Architect, Her Son and German Prince Are Victims.

MACHINE FALLS INTO MANY PIECES

Young Bruce Bossom, Whose Engagement Was Recently Announced, Was Piloting Craft.

By the Associated Press.

FARNHAM, SURREY, England, July 28.—Mrs. Alfred C. Bossom, American wife of the noted British architect, her son, Bruce, and their friend, Prince Otto Erback Furstenau of Germany, were killed last night in the explosion and crash of their airplane, near here.

Mrs. Bossom, formerly Emily Bayne, daughter of Samuel G. Bayne, president of the Seaboard National Bank of New York, was in her way from Heston Airdrome, Middlesex, to Southampton, when the plane appeared to explode and crashed in splinters. Bruce, who was 21 years old, was piloting the plane.

The plane was over Hankley Commons in the vicinity of the country homes of David Lloyd George and Viscount Snowden, when, according to a few chance onlookers, it suddenly appeared to break to pieces and crash to earth with a terrific explosion.

Spectators rushed to the scene and found the three bodies scattered in the commons and the plane in so many pieces, the cause of the crash probably will never be known.

The bodies were so mutilated they were almost unrecognizable, but were identified by young Bruce's aviation license and a cigarette case belonging to the Prince. The bodies were taken to the Farnham mortuary, where the elder Bossom formally identified them.

Young Bruce was an experienced amateur airman, holding all the necessary certificates. His engagement to Odette Herald, daughter of a fashionable London dressmaker, two weeks ago, brought him into the limelight because his parents objected to his marrying so young, especially since he was planning dangerous foreign flights. He had planned a long-distance trip either across the Atlantic or to South Africa or Australia. The engagement was not broken, however.

Bruce had a narrow escape in May, when his plane crashed in Cheshire and burst into flames. He was slightly injured, but immediately obtained another plane and continued his flight.

Prince Otto was 23 years old and a member of an aristocratic family. He was making his first visit to England as a guest of the Bossoms.

The elder Bossom is one of the world's most famous architects. He undertook the restoration of Fort Ticonderoga, N. Y., in 1908, and planned industrial villages for various American munitions plants during the war, when he also was supervising architect for the United States Shipping Board. He was the architect for Magnolia Petroleum Building at Dallas, Tex., the Seaboard National Bank of New York and the Liberty Bank of Buffalo.

Bossom also founded the co-operation in arts contests for development of the distinctive American art, and the Alfred C. Bossom traveling scholarship for travel in the United States to study architectural economics. The Bossoms were married in 1910.

3000 ILLINOIS MINERS PLAN FIGHT ON NEW WAGE SCALE

Leaders at West Frankfort Meeting Urge Workers to Reject Latest Proposal.

By the Associated Press.

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., July 28.—Illinois coal miners, at a mass meeting here yesterday, made plans for a State-wide campaign against acceptance of the new wage scale agreement reached in Springfield Monday by representatives of the miners' union and operators. Union officials in charge of the meeting estimated more than 3000 miners attended, with every sub-district in the State represented.

Speakers condemned the new agreement, based on a $5 basic wage scale, and appealed to miners to reject the proposal. An organized movement to defeat adoption of the agreement was urged.

The latest agreement reached by the operators and union representatives was attacked as a whole, as was in the campaign of opposition which resulted in defeat of the previous compromise wage agreement the leaders stressed that they termed "lost conditions" which they said would have resulted from adoption of the previous proposal.

FARM BOARD ATTACKED AND DEFENDED AT HOUSE HEARING HERE

livestock producer in marketing his own products."
William J. Kennedy, president of the stationery company of that name, protested against the Government selling stamped envelopes and against the practice of the Federal Courts in supplying printed bankruptcy forms to attorneys. He urged also that merchandise carried at army post exchanges be limited to the actual needs of officers and enlisted men. Shannon, during his appeal in Congress for authority to conduct the investigation, had exhibited to the House a pair of pink silk pajamas purchased at an army post exchange.
Edward K. Love, real estate dealer, argued against the practice of the Government in requiring that special real estate taxes be charged to capital account instead of income. Unless the practice was changed, he said, there would be many more foreclosures than there are now, and "there are too many now."
Col. Albert T. Perkins, president of the People's Motorbus Co., asked the committee to make a careful study of "certain governmental conditions, economically unsound," which affect the railroads.
Identifying himself as a small stockholder in five or six railroads and as one active in the transportation business for 45 years, Col. Perkins argued that the Government, by pursuing these policies, "is going far toward confiscation, impairing the efficiency of the railroads, putting thousands of trained men out of work and drying up at the source a great tax revenue."
He mentioned the fostering of waterways, highways and "the failure of the Interstate Commerce Commission to carry out important provisions of the transportation act." The last point was not developed.

Perkins Tells of Railways' Plight.

Perkins told reporters, after he had finished his statement, that he had in mind the failure of the commission to provide a rate structure which would insure the railroads an adequate return. This and other points would be developed, he said, at a hearing to be held by the committee next month at South Bend, Ind.
Of waterways, he said they had been constructed at enormous cost to the Government. Government barges operating over them paid no taxes, and there was no effective control of rates. Great fleets of trucks and busses operated over highways built by the State and National Governments, Col. Perkins said, "and make no adequate payment for the facilities used even in gasoline taxes and license fees." Here, too, he said, there is no real supervision of rates.

Diesel Engines and the Navy.

There has been no progress in the design of Diesel engines in this country, Edward B. Pollister told the committee, since 1920, when an American navy officer, returning on a German submarine, "fell in love" with its Diesel engine.
Pollister, president of Busch-Sulzer Bros. Diesel Engine Co., said the navy then decided to build its own engines, "and started with a model which was obsolete in 1920." The policy since then, he said, has been to copy European developments, but this, he said, would prove disastrous if war should make European models inaccessible.
As typical of the failure of Government builders to keep abreast of developments, Pollister mentioned the new German "pocket battleship," powered by Diesel engines of 50,000 horsepower. American designers, he said, cannot compete with those of Europe unless the Government makes possible the necessary research work by placing orders with private industry. In the seven years before 1920, he added, his company built $7,000,000 worth of Diesel engines for the Government, but has had no orders since then.

Competition in Seed Sale.

T. M. Scott, president of Cornell Seed Co., and A. H. Mangelsdorf, of Edward F. Mangelsdorf & Co., presented a joint statement criticising "unscrupulous competition" in the sale of seed by co-operatives financed by the Federal Farm Board.
They told of one co-operative which quoted blue grass seed at $7.50 a hundred pounds this week. This price, they said, was 40 cents under the cost of this year's crop and $4 under the cost of last year's much of which is still on the market.
Scott, who said his company had been in business 86 years "without help from the Government," declared "such tremendous losses would not and could not be considered by private business."
W. J. Britton, Memphis cotton broker, said his chief complaint was that the Government was using the money of taxpayers to destroy marketing machinery which had been built up through the years, and mentioned that cotton is selling, as a result, at the lowest price in history. "I have no quarrel with farmer-owned and operated co-operatives," Britton said, "so long as they are not subsidized by Government money."

Waterways Journal Complaint.

Don T. Wright, publisher of the Waterways Journal, protested about the publication of bulletins by Government crews engaged in river work and the sale of advertising in them. He said one instance of this sort had been stopped as soon as he complained.
Representative Cox asked if he did not favor development of waterways, and Wright replied that he did, heartily. Cox expressed the opinion that in time waterways would make Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans the greatest cities of the country, but said he doubted the advisability of the Government operating barges on them at a loss.
E. J. White, general solicitor of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, advocated withdrawal of the Government from operation of the Federal barge lines as one step in getting the Government out of competition with private enterprise.
"The use of Government money for the operation of the line is in effect a diversion of trust funds," White asserted. "The money of the taxpayers should not be so spent. Furthermore, the rates of the barge lines should be regulated, as our rates are, so that the management could not cut its charges and break down the credit of the railroads."

Further Hearing at South Bend.

White opened his statement with an argument of legal trend calculated to prove that the Government was going beyond the constitutional provisions and violating the fundamental doctrine of state's rights in engaging in commerce.
At the close of White's testimony it was announced the committee would go further into the barge line question at a hearing to be held by Congressman Pettengill at South Bend on Aug. 22.

Resents "Government Meddling."

W. A. Moody, president of St. Louis Livestock Exchange, and Elgin T. Cash, president of the Order Buyers' Association at National Stockyards, referred to the dispute between old line firms and Farm Board sponsored co-operatives which provoked boycott charges two years ago. The National Order Buying Co., allied with the Farm Board's marketing organization, has since withdrawn, and a suspension order against old line firms has been lifted.
Moody said that in 1929, when the Farm Board's organization first entered the St. Louis market, the old line firms were handling 57 per cent of the business. Now, he said, they had 66 per cent.
He demanded that the Farm Board be abolished, that the Agricultural Marketing Act be repealed and that the Packers' and Stockyards' Act of 1921 be repealed or amended so as to limit the powers of the Secretary of Agriculture. "Let us have price regulation," Moody said, "by competition, and not by Government meddling or interference."
William R. Gentry Jr., attorney and Charles M. Wardan, president of Wardan Manufacturing Co., protested against the manufacture and sale to army officers of shirts by the Philadelphia Quartermaster's Depot. The Quartermaster's Depot, they said, paid no taxes, distributed its sales literature under Government frank, and sold the shirts at a loss, although its prices were no lower than those of a private business.

I. C. C. EXAMINER CALLS FOR CLOSING OF O'FALLON CASE

Recommends That Railroad Give U. S. $295,275 Under Recapture Clause of Transportation Act.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 28.—An Interstate Commerce Commission examiner today recommended that the much litigated St. Louis & O'Fallon Railway valuation case be ended with a decision that the railroad had an income of $590,550 in excess of a fair return from 1920 through 1927.
The report by Examiner P. A. Conway, which still must be passed on by the commission, would require the railroad to turn over $295,275 under the recapture clause of the transportation act. He recommended that the commission find that the Manufacturers' Railway, a subsidiary of the O'Fallon, did not have any recapturable income.
The St. Louis & O'Fallon was the first excess income case carried to completion by the commission. Several years ago it directed the O'Fallon to pay into the United States Treasury half of its excess income.
The company took the case to the Supreme Court. The commission was overruled because the court had not considered replacement values for the line.
The case was of vital importance to railroads because it was intended to determine the method of valuation on which the rate of income would be based.

4 YEARS FOR $25,000 THEFT

By the Associated Press.
GREENFIELD, Mass., July 28.—Walter N. Snow, former president of the Interstate Mortgage Trust Co. of Greenfield and Parsons, Kan., convicted of larceny, was sentenced today to serve four years in the House of Correction. An appeal was taken and bail was set at $5000.
Snow was accused of larceny of $25,000 from 23 persons in Western Massachusetts, Vermont and Southern New Hampshire who had placed funds in the company's hands for investment in mortgages.

Clear Night for Meteor Display; 115 in Four Hours

Webster Groves Observer Says About 80 Seemed to Radiate From Constellation Aquarius—Colors White and Yellow.

With unusually favorable weather conditions last night, the Delta Aquarids, a minor meteor swarm, made a particularly creditable showing in their annual return, according to J. Wesley Simpson of Webster Groves, a member of the American Meteor Society, who with two companions observed 115 "shooting stars," of which about 80 were classified as Aquarids, between 11 p. m. and 3 a. m.
The most interesting individual display, Simpson said, occurred at 11:02 p. m. when a brilliant yellowish-white stationary meteor appeared in the southeastern sky. "Bright as a star of the second magnitude, it hung in the heavens like a firefly for more than a second," he said.
"After that," Simpson related, "the meteors increased in frequency until they reached a maximum between 1:30 and 2 a. m., when they appeared at the rate of about 25 an hour. The Aquarids, so-called because they seem to radiate from a point in the Zodiac constellation of Aquarius, "the Water Bearer", near the star Delta Aquarii, were white in color and fairly brilliant, generally describing arcs of about 15 degrees almost parallel to the horizon. They moved slowly in the early night and later were rather swift."
With a clear sky that, until about 1 a. m., was moonless, other casual meteors were visible, Simpson said, particularly some of the early Perseids, bright yellowish meteors, which will put on their annual show Aug. 11 and 12.
The unusual pageantry of the sky was enhanced by a faint auroral arc which appeared above the northern horizon at 10:45 p. m. and faded at midnight, and the orange sickle of the moon rising after midnight.
Simpson expects that the Delta Aquarids, which appear each year between July 27 and 31 as the earth crosses their path, will provide a better show tonight, or more accurately, early tomorrow morning.
He requests observers to send to him at 639 Locksley place, Webster Groves, reports of their observations, numbering the meteors by hourly periods and giving information on obstacles to vision, such as trees, houses and lights.
Meteors, generally speaking, are bits of fragmentary evidence of a disintegrated comet. They are composed largely of iron, nickel and cobalt, are usually about the size of a small pea and become luminous from friction upon entering the earth's atmosphere. Only rarely do they strike the earth before being burned up.

SAYS THOMASSON IN MENTALITY WAS NEVER UP TO PAR

3014 Pine boulevard, early in the morning of Jan. 22, 1931, and said, "I've got him! Let's go to Kansas City." Redd said they averaged more than 60 miles an hour, arriving in Kansas City shortly after noon, then immediately went on to Carthage, Mo.
During the trip, the chauffeur testified, Thomasson attempted to get out of the automobile, demanded that the chauffeur take him to "Rogers" (Stephen C. Rogers, his former attorney), and told his wife, "You're kidnaping me! You'll pay for this!"
Redd said he disregarded Thomasson's protests when Mrs. Thomasson said, "Don't pay any attention to him. He's crazy!"
At Carthage, according to the chauffeur, Thomasson refused to go to a room in a hotel and his wife had him put in the automobile for a return trip to Kansas City, where they arrived late at night.
On the return trip, Redd testified, Mrs. Thomasson insisted that her husband sign a letter dismissing Rogers and promised to dismiss her attorney at that time, Edward W. Foristel. A suit brought by Thomasson to annul their marriage in July, 1930, was pending.
Threatening Thomasson with "You'll sit out on the highway all night if you don't sign," Mrs. Thomasson, according to Redd, told him to leave them alone in the automobile. He said he returned to the machine after an hour and found she had obtained the signature.
At Kansas City, the chauffeur said, Mrs. Thomasson promised to let her husband mail the letter dismissing Rogers but gave him only an empty envelope to put in the box.
The trip continued to Chicago the next day, where Thomasson was held under guard by two women, and ended a few days afterward, when they returned to St. Louis by way of Cape Girardeau, Mo., arriving here at 4 a. m. in order to avoid newspaper reporters, according to the chauffeur.
"Thomasson gave me a letter to take to Rogers," the chauffeur said. "It had something in it about 'get me out of this mess.' I never delivered it, for it was stolen from my pocket. Later Mrs. Thomasson and Jones (Wilfred Jones, one of her attorneys) told me if I went to see Rogers he would have me taken away."

Denies Earlier Statement.

The witness was confronted with a typewritten statement which he was said previously to have made to the Circuit Attorney. The statement told of a trip which included Cairo, Ill., Poplar Bluff, Mo., Springfield and Carthage, and said that it was made at Thomasson's orders and that he enjoyed it greatly. Redd said he had made the statement at Mrs. Thomasson's instruction and that it was untrue.
On examination by Randolph Laughlin of counsel for Thomasson, the chauffeur admitted he at present was employed by Taylor R. Young, an attorney for Miss Townsend, to mow his lawn and wash his automobile.
Laughlin indicated by his questions that Mr. and Mrs. Thomasson are in Chicago, although they have a home at 56 Broadview drive, Clayton. Thomasson owns $750,000 worth of property at Broadway and Washington avenue and at Euclid and McPherson avenues. He and Mrs. Thomasson were married twice, once in July, 1930, and again in February, 1931, although not divorced at any time.

AMNESIA VICTIM

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.
MRS. CLAUDIA STEPHENS FARRELL.

MOTHER IDENTIFIES WOMAN SUFFERING WITH AMNESIA

Mrs. Claudia S. Farrell Taken to Hospital in Dazed Condition, Regaining Memory.

A woman, who was found in a dazed condition at Benton street and Garrison avenue last night was identified at City Hospital this afternoon as Mrs. Claudia Stephens Farrell, 19 years old, of 1711A South Eleventh street.
Mrs. Farrell, whose husband, Robert, is unemployed, was identified by her mother, Mrs. Lucy Stephens, of the South Eleventh street address, who heard the police description of her daughter broadcast over the radio at 2 p. m.
Mrs. Farrell, whom physicians had pronounced suffering from amnesia, recognized her mother, and subsequently declared that her memory was clearing. She said she recalled leaving home about 7 o'clock last night to meet her husband, and suffered a dizzy spell after alighting from a street car in North St. Louis.

RE-ELECTED TWENTIETH TIME

Maurice J. Cassidy was elected to his twentieth term as recording secretary of the St. Louis Building Trades Council at the annual election last night. He was unopposed.
Other officers of the council were re-elected as follows: Charles J. Eisenring, president; Henry P. Koenig, vice-president; Charles T. Webster, treasurer; John J. Church, financial secretary; Joseph Cullinane, Sergeant-at-arms. John J. Havey and Frank J. Lahey were re-elected trustees. Joseph J. Brice was elected trustee to succeed E. J. Canty, who is no longer a delegate to the council.

SAYS SLAYER ASKED HER TO PROTECT HIM

Young Woman Held as Witness in Killing by California Youth.

By the Associated Press.
SAN JOSE, Cal., July 28.—George Douglas Templeton Jr., 20 years old, begged her to shield him from the consequences of a knife assault which killed his aunt and wounded his uncle, Claire Burnette said when detained last night. She was booked by police as Claire Chapman, 28 years old. She said Templeton sought her aid as an alibi witness after he stabbed his aunt, Mrs. Lillian Babcock, of Manila, and wounded his uncle, William Rider Babcock, wealthy Philippine exporter.
She also said she was engaged to the youth, a former University of California student. He had sought to have her accompany him to Los Altos where the attack took place early Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Walter Buckish, a sister of Mrs. Babcock, Miss Burnette asserted. She was arrested in Oakland as a material witness.
The young woman said she was a Vassar College graduate of three years ago and her father, whose name she refused to give, was a New York banker.
The parents of the youth, Maj. George Douglas Templeton, retired army officer of Berkeley, and his wife, insisted their son had always been a "good boy."
In a purported confession, the youth declared: "My father had been cheated of a considerable sum of money by Mr. Babcock and I thought that with my killing him and his wife, insurance and property would go to my father."

FOUR DROWNED IN RAPIDS

Four Saved, One Missing in Boat Upset in Ontario.

DEUX RIVIERES, Ontario, July 28.—Swept into True Rapids when their boat capsized, four men were drowned yesterday and a fifth is missing. Three others clung to the overturned boat and reached safety and another swam to shore.
The nine river drivers were trying to break a log jam. Their boat suddenly was drawn into the backwash of the rapids. The dead: Earl McCullough, 28 years old, Matawa; Clarence Desmoreau, 17, Crest, Quebec; Joseph Berard, Mackey's Station, Ontario, and George Ducharme, 22, Sturgeon Falls.

SIX NEW RIVER PROJECTS TO PUT 1000 MEN TO WORK

Contracts for Work in Missouri and Illinois Let to Lincoln, Neb., Firm.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 28.—Contracts for six Government construction projects on the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers were received yesterday by Woods Bros. Corporation of Lincoln. The work, in connection with projects to make the streams navigable, represents an aggregate cost of $431,000 and is expected to give employment to 1000 men. The contracts were awarded by the St. Louis and Memphis officials of the War Department. Work will be started at two sites in Illinois and at Caruthersville, Bell's Point, Pinkney Bend and Herman Reach, in Missouri.

By the Associated Press.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., July 28.—Lewis Y. Smith, president and treasurer of the Isaac Smith Woolen Mill in Bridgeport, near here, last night announced that, effective next Monday, several hundred employes at his plant would be returned to full time shifts, after a four-month layoff.

By the Associated Press.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 28.—The Middletown Silk Co. will operate on a 24-hour basis starting Aug. 1, officers announced yesterday, because of increased orders. One hundred employes will be added to the 30 now working.

CANDIDATES ANSWER QUERIES ON ECONOMY

Replies of Office Seekers Are Sent to Members of The Public, Inc.

The Public, Inc., business men's organization striving for lower governmental costs and reduced taxes, has sent to its members a booklet containing replies of Missouri candidates for Congress to a set of questions bearing on the issue of economy. The members are asked to keep the booklet and check up later on those elected, as to fulfillment of their pledges.

Of 10 questions put to the candidates, some were so framed as to admit only an affirmative answer, such as "Do you commit yourself to control of governmental functions and elimination of waste?" and "Should we eliminate unnecessary costs regardless of political considerations?" Two questions related to veterans' relief and the immediate payment of the soldier bonus.

Of the candidates for the Senate who answered the questionnaire, Kiel, Priest and Bozell, Republicans, and Byrnes, Democrat, did not favor immediate payment of the bonus. Abernathy, Negro Republican, favored immediate payment, and Kratky, Republican, said he stood "with the American Legion" on this subject.

Of candidates for the House of Representatives, those favoring immediate payment of the bonus were Archdekin, Burroughs, Cox, Graff, Holliway, Hudson and Payne, Democrats; and Hart, Jones and Stewart, Republicans. Others qualified their answers in various ways, some saying they favored payment if possible without unbalancing the budget or requiring a bond issue.

The question, "Do you favor restriction of Federal expenditures to reasonable and adequate relief of veterans for disabilities incurred while in service?" was answered in the affirmative by the senatorial candidates replying. Of candidates for the House, Congressman Cochran replied in the negative, saying that he favors care for the widows and orphans of veterans. Johnston, Republican, replied that he knew of cases of non-service disability which warranted compensation. Graff and Hudson, Democratic candidates for the House, also answered in the negative.

Farmer Found Slain in Bed.

HOPKINS, Mo., July 28.—Edward Elefritz, 55 years old, a farmer, was shot and killed along a road three miles south of Hopkins last night. The body was found early today by John Houston, another farmer.

RELIEF FUND COMMITTEE NAMED IN UNIVERSITY CITY

Group to Consider Means of Raising Money to Care for Jobless Next Winter.

A committee of 30 residents of University City was appointed by Mayor Ruth last night to consider means of raising funds for unemployment relief. Ruth said the city at present is able to care for those in need, but that the committee was chosen to deal with problems which may arise next winter.

A gasoline tax of a half cent a gallon is one means of raising funds which will be considered by the committee when it meets next week. This, it is estimated, would produce about $15,000 a year.

Members of the committee are Charles Banks, Louis Blair, Claude H. Britton, Wade H. Bush, Gilbert F. Close, Eugene L. Crutcher, A. S. Dexheimer, Edward T. Eckhoff, David Eiseman Jr., Alfred Fairbank, Edward Hafner, George M. Hager, Jacob Heilrung Jr., Alfred H. Kanter, Rev. R. W. Kassebaum, Sam Kober, Dr. Heriuf G. Lund, Edward B. Meissner, Fred G. Peters, J. W. Pyle, David L. Remley, Jackson Rhodes, W. J. Riley, Arthur Schuessler, Lloyd T. Smith, Louis Strauss, Orville C. Sutter, John M. Travis, Robert M. Webb and Harry A. Wellington.

G. O. P. SPEAKERS ADMIT OUTLOOK IS NONE TOO BRIGHT

Former Judge Grimm at Republican Woman's Club Advises Putting Best Foot Forward.

The specter of possible defeat for the Republican ticket in St. Louis in November loomed up at a pre-primary luncheon of the Republican Woman's Club at Hotel Statler yesterday. Numerous Republican candidates for local offices addressed the club.

Former Circuit Judge J. Hugo Grimm, who is seeking a nomination to return to the Circuit bench, said:

"If we are going to win this fall, we'd better put our best foot forward and put up the best ticket we can find. Who are the best men to nominate, who will be the most credit to the party? At the election four years ago Al Smith carried St. Louis by 14,000, at a time when the country was prosperous. Now we are in a depression and the party in power is going to be blamed. Even four years ago the Republican ticket lost three of nine candidates for Circuit Judge to the Democrats. The three who were not indorsed by the bar were defeated in the election. We had a similar experience in 1920.

"If you think I'll lend strength to the ticket, I ask your suffrage."

Three to Be Chosen.

Judge Grimm resigned from the bench in 1925 to run for Mayor but lost the nomination to Mayor Miller. Three Republican nominees for full terms as Circuit Judges are to be chosen at the primary next Tuesday. The St. Louis Bar Association referendum indorsed Grimm and Judges Killoren and Rosskopf, incumbents.

The meeting was addressed briefly also by Judges Rutledge, Rosskopf and Killoren, who preceded Grimm. Police Judge Blaine, running for an unexpired term as Circuit Judge, also spoke, although he is unopposed for the nomination.

A youthful political worker, speaking in behalf of Marshal Duffy, a candidate for Sheriff, echoed Grimm's warning. "He said: "Strengthen the ticket to stop that landslide." This speaker had remarked to companions previously: "Canvassing for the ticket is a hard job. I'm getting tired of having South Side wet Republicans slam the door in my face and say, 'Franklin Roosevelt.' You have to try to get back to them and take 15 minutes to persuade them to vote the Republican ballot in the primary and scratch as they please in the election."

Park Commissioner Pape, chairman of the Republican City Committee and a candidate for Sheriff, drew a ripple of laughter when he said: "There's only one reason I'm a candidate and that is because I want to be Sheriff." He continued:

"I've been induced to run by a number of friends, political and otherwise; I'm in the race to win. I have made thousands of friends in my time and feel it is not a disgrace to have held office. There is nothing any one can say about me. One or two candidates have been trying to besmirch my record just a bit. When they begin that they've got darned little to say for themselves."

Another candidate for Sheriff, Charles Hertenstein, and a representative of still another one, Oscar Mohrstadt, also spoke.

A Business Man Candidate.

Robert C. Duffin, one of the two aspirants for Public Administrator, told the club he was running in the belief that business men ought to interest themselves in politics. His opponent, Anton Schuler, incumbent, described his own career in public and party offices.

State Senator Frank B. Warner, seeking re-election, after 20 years in the Senate and four years in the House, remarked: "I believe women could run some of our State offices a good deal better than some of those fellows up in Jefferson City running the government."

State Representative Louis C. Hehl recalled that he had been voting the Republican ticket straight since 1879. He explained: "My father was a Union soldier, one of Gen. Fremont's bodyguard. He called us boys and told us always to vote the Republican ticket. He said, 'It's the best you've got.'"

Albert J. Appelbaum, a former Representative, seeking to return to the House, reminded that South Side voters are interested in the beer question, and indicated that he would vote to legalize beer. He advocated devoting some State road funds for maintenance of main thoroughfares in St. Louis.

Among others speaking were Richard Nichols and Carl H. Goener, running for State Representatives; Police Judge Foster, Francis G. Sebek and Shepard R. Evans, running for Court of Criminal Correction; Dr. T. L. Carriere and Dr. Henry F. Westphaelinger, running for Coroner, and Mrs. John J. Hurley, wife of another candidate for Coroner; A. H. Steinbeck of Union, running for State Treasurer, and a number of candidates for the Republican City Committee.

FUND FOR INDICTED POLICEMEN

Committee to Seek Subscriptions for Defense at Mineola, N. Y.

MINEOLA, N. Y., July 28.—The "police defense committee" was formed here yesterday to raise money by public subscription for the defense of the 13 Nassau County policemen indicted in the fatal beating of Hyman Stark, robbery suspect. George W. Loft, former candy manufacturer, was chosen chairman. He issued a statement praising the past record of Nassau County police and decrying the ruthlessness of the criminal element.

"If you let down the bars and kiss these gangsters on each cheek and offer them pink tea," he said, "our women and children will not be safe."

$5,178,400 INCREASE IN U. S. GOLD STOCKS

Latest Shipments Send Total Gain in Last 10 Days to $17,500,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 28. — A net gain of $5,178,400 reported in the nation's monetary gold stocks yesterday gave rise to belief that the gold movement is veering from Paris to New York.

Yesterday's increases consisted of $2,974,000 imports received here, a shipment of $1,284,000 received in San Francisco and a decrease of $1,000,400 in the amount of gold held under earmark for foreign account.

The New York imports consisted of a $1,479,700 "mystery shipment" from London and $1,494,300 received from Canada. The San Francisco shipment came from China.

The shipment from England was sent to the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York and was originally from India. Until now most Indian gold received in London had been relayed to Paris. New York has drawn little of it. Bankers expressed the belief that the Indian shipment via London may presage a fairly heavy flow of Indian and South African gold to this country.

Authorities on gold attributed the increase in United States imports to the recent firmness of the dollar in the foreign exchange market. The dollar was higher again yesterday in terms of the English pound sterling, Holland guilders and French francs. Leading foreign gold currencies were quoted at prices not far above their gold export points, the figures at which it becomes more profitable for them to ship gold to this country than to buy dollars in the foreign exchange market.

The Belgian belga was described as the first foreign currency to hint at the possibility of dipping the gold export point. It was quoted at 13.86 cents, only a slim fraction above its export point of 13.84 cents. Belgas for delivery three months hence were offered at 13.83 cents.

Throughout May and June, gold exports for this country to other nations averaged more than $50,000,000 a week. Last week, the United States reported an increase of $10,000,000 in its monetary gold stocks and in the first three days of this week gold imports of $6,056,000 have been received in New York and $1,583,000 in San Francisco, while there have been no offsetting exports.

CHILDREN'S BUREAU RELIEF

6 Per Cent Drop in Funds Distributed Reported for May.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 28. — Reports showing a decline of 6 per cent from the previous month in the amount of relief distributed to the needy in May were made public yesterday by the Children's Bureau. They came from 928 agencies in 126 cities, representing 56 per cent of the country's urban population.

The bureau noted that the drop is "less striking than the sharp seasonal downturn of April when 16 per cent decline from March followed a continuous rise of seven months." Private wage relief, it was pointed out, dropped 55 per cent from April to May, "owing largely to the stringency of funds of a single agency —the Emergency Work Bureau of New York, which reduced its payrolls by nearly $800,000."

SINCLAIR FIRM MAKES $22,250,000 OIL DEAL

Buys Assets of Richfield Co., in Receivership—Others May Still Bid, However.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—Henry Lockhart, New York banker, yesterday announced the sale of the assets of the Richfield Oil Co. to the Consolidated Oil Corporation, a Harry F. Sinclair organization, for $22,250,000.

Lockhart said the Consolidated's offer was formally accepted by a committee representing the Richfield bondholders, Pan-American bondholders and unsecured creditors of the Richfield company, which has been in receivership. The negotiations have been in progress three months.

The offer was accepted two hours before the expiration of the time limit set by the Standard Oil Co. of California on its offer of $17,000,000 for the Richfield company's assets.

The Consolidated offered $17,500,000 in 5 per cent, 15-year Consolidated Oil debentures, $2,500,000 in cash, 200,000 shares of Consolidated common stock, $500,000 for committee expenses and up to $5,000,000 to satisfy dissenters.

The deal will be submitted to individuals concerned by a committee consisting of Jefferson Chandler, representing unsecured Richfield creditors; Alexander MacDonald, representing Richfield bondholders, and Robert C. Adams, representing Pan-American bondholders.

Unverified reports were in circulation that both Shell Union and Cities Service Co. contemplate outbidding the Consolidated Oil Co.'s offer for the assets of the Richfield company. The reorganization committee reserved the right to consider other bids submitted within the next 45 days.

FREED OF BANK CONSPIRACY CHARGES AT WAUKEGAN, ILL.

William H. Miller, Chicago, Indicted With Four Others After Closing.

By the Associated Press.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., July 28.—Presenting a defense constituted largely of character witnesses, William H. Miller, former Chicago banker, yesterday was acquitted of charges of conspiracy in connection with the closing of the Waukegan State Bank a year ago. He was the second to be freed, charges against State Auditor Oscar Nelson being dropped some time ago. Three others still face trial.

Miller was an officer of the Chicago National Bank of the Republic which took over the Waukegan bank prior to its closing. George Woodruff, another National Bank officer, Norman O. Geyer, president of the Waukegan institution, and J. Murray Connors, cashier of the Waukegan bank, will be tried next month.

The State charged the men named in indictments permitted the bank to operate after they knew it to be insolvent.

Beaten and Bound by Robbers.

By the Associated Press.

BENTONVILLE, Ark., July 28.—Forced to reveal where he kept $115 hidden in a tin can, Sam Cantrell, 77-year-old farmer, who lives alone, was beaten into unconsciousness and left tied to the manger in his barn by a masked robber, he reported to authorities yesterday. He regained consciousness and freed himself.

LAND NATIONALIZATION GAINS FAVOR IN SASKATCHEWAN

Public Ownership Advocated at Joint Farmer-Labor Party Convention.

By the Associated Press.

SASKATOON, Saskatchewan, July 28.—Public ownership of land is the policy of the joint Farmer-Labor Party of Saskatchewan. At a joint political convention of the United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, and the Independent Labor Party here yesterday, the cause in the farmer political platform favoring "nationalization" or "socialization" of land was indorsed despite fears of some delegates it would alienate farmer votes.

The land policy declares for security of tenure for "the worker in his home and the farmer on his land," by the adoption of a system of usehold tenure. Substitution of the usehold system for the present system would in all cases be voluntary with the owner or occupant of land.

Where the owner wants to change to the usehold his land would be valued and all mortgages, tax and other charges would be written down to conform to the actual, not the speculative value of the land. The Government would then issue non-interest paying bonds for the value of the land which would be apportioned among the persons holding interests in it. This done the occupant of the land would be confirmed in perpetual possession on the usehold tenure while the title rested in the Government.

UNION ELECTRIC PERMITTED TO SELL $15,000,000 BONDS

To Reimburse Treasury for Money Spent for Plant Additions and Improvements.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 28. — An application by the Union Electric Light and Power Co. of St. Louis for authority to issue and sell $15,000,000 in general mortgage 5 per cent bonds, to reimburse the company treasury for money expended for plant additions and improvements, was approved yesterday by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The bonds are to be sold at not less than 90 plus accrued interest. They will be dated April 1, 1932, and will mature April 1, 1937.

In a hearing before the commission, the Union Electric made a showing that it had expended $39,535,659 within the last five years for plant extensions, improvements and other company purposes against which no securities had been issued.

SENATE GROUP BEGINS FARM BOARD INQUIRY

Experts to Examine Records—Public Hearings Start in Fall.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—A Senate investigation into the loans and other activities of the Farm Board began today, but apparently is scheduled to move along quietly until after the fall elections.

Chairman McNary of the Senate Agriculture Committee, after a conference at the White House, reported he had informed President Hoover that special investigators and auditors had started their inquiry into the Farm Board's transactions and affiliations.

McNary said, however, that public hearings of complaints against the board would not be heard before next fall.

"We expect to go over all the transactions of the board," McNary said, "looking over all its loans and examining in detail its activities as well as those of its affiliates. We want to find out the amounts lent and the amounts repaid."

McNary told Mr. Hoover arrangements had been made with the office of Comptroller-General McCarl to audit the accounts of the Farm Board.

Chairman Stone of the Farm Board reiterated the board would welcome the investigation if the committee would also examine the cotton and grain exchanges. The board already has turned over a voluminous bundle of papers to the committee.

McNary told newspaper men it was the intention of the committee to "see how far we can go into the grain exchanges," but that he was doubtful how complete an investigation could be made.

KILLED IN MINNESOTA TORNADO

Farmer Crushed When Barn Falls In; 12 Persons Hurt.

By the Associated Press.

DASSEL, Minn., July 28.—August Nikka, 75-year-old farmer, was killed and 12 persons injured late yesterday in a tornado which wrecked numerous farm buildings in a 20-mile area northeast of here. Nikka was crushed to death in his barn when the structure collapsed. Mrs. Nikka was seriously injured.

The storm, first was reported near Kingston at the home of Magnus Johnson, former United States Senator. A windmill on the Johnson farm was blown down.

FEES REDUCED BY $3000 IN YOUNG BANKRUPTCY

Allowance of $43,654 of $52,087 Assets Leaves Creditors 5c on Dollar.

Fees and expenses of $12,654 were allowed by Referee in Bankruptcy Coles today to the receiver and trustee and attorneys in the case of the bankrupt brokerage firm of W. H. Young & Bros., Inc. The applicants had asked for $16,752.

"As creditors of the firm were defrauded in being persuaded to turn over money and good securities for worthless securities, they should receive the highest equitable treatment in Bankruptcy Court," the Referee said when the applications were presented.

John C. Tobin, who had asked for $12,500 as attorney for the trustees, received $10,000. Francis E. Williams received $961 for services as trustee and $798 additional for services as receiver. The compensation to Williams was based on statutory provisions. He had already received $259 on account as receiver.

A fee of $1500 and expenses of $142 were allowed to the law firm of Abbott, Fauntleroy, Cullen & Edwards and Walter L. Metcalfe, as attorneys for petitioning creditors. They had asked for $2142. A Kansas City law firm received $354 for services to the receiver.

As Williams had $52,087 in cash on hand as of June 30, deduction of the fees of $13,654 will leave $38,433, plus certain "insignificant" assets, in the estate for distribution among general creditors with a claim aggregating $768,000. This would indicate a payment of about 5 cents on the dollar.

The fact that bankruptcy schedules listed liabilities at $2,268,000 would indicate that creditors with claims totaling about $1,500,000 did not file them within the legal period. Thus the ultimate loss to creditors may be estimated to exceed $2,200,000.

William H. and Fred C. Young, brothers, are serving six-year terms in Leavenworth penitentiary for fraudulent use of the mails in the conduct of the brokerage business.

PATENT SUIT DECISION UPHELD

Insulite Co. Loses Appeal in Action Against Celotex Agency.

A decision by the Federal District Court of Minneapolis holding that Celotex board was not an infringement on patents held by the Insulite Co., was affirmed in an opinion by the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals filed yesterday.

The suit, which was brought by the Insulite Co. against the Reserve Supply Co., a sales agency for Celotex, asked for a permanent injunction and accounting. The Insulite Co. contended that a type of lapped joint and a groove for the reception of plaster, used by the firm, infringed on Insulite patents.

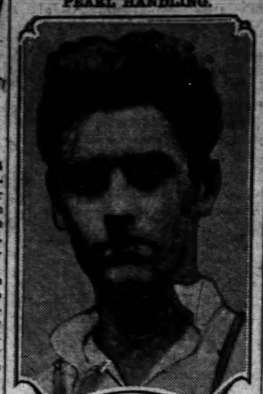
SHOT BY VAGRANT

PEARL HANDLING.



FRANK PERRY.

TWO ALTON YOUTHS SHOT AND ROBBED ON TRAIN

Attacked by Vagrant While on Missouri Pacific Freight Bound for Colorado.

Pearl Handling, 17 years old, and Frank Perry, 19, both of Alton, are in serious condition at a Kansas City hospital with abdominal wounds suffered early yesterday when they were shot and robbed by a vagrant while riding on a Missouri Pacific freight train near Bucyrus, Kan.

The youths left Alton last Monday, intending to hike and catch rides to Denver, Colo. Handling is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Handling, 704 Miller street. Perry, who has an artificial arm, due to an accident in a laundry, lives at the home of Harry Roloff, 1713 Clawson street.

According to reports from Kansas City, the vagrant, who appeared to have been drinking, started a quarrel with Handling, Perry and a third man described as Eston Wood, after boarding the train at Kansas City. He shot all three and, after taking $56 from Handling, jumped from the train and fled. Wood suffered wounds in the foot and hip.

HERMAN F. REIN, 37 YEARS IN BANKING BUSINESS, DIES

He Was Assistant Cashier of the First National; Funeral Services Saturday.

Herman F. Rein, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, and connected for 37 years with St. Louis banking institutions, died today at his home in Lindell Tower apartments, after several months' illness, of heart disease.

Mr. Rein was 53 years old and a native of St. Louis. He went to work at the age of 16 for the German Savings Bank, and went with that bank through successive consolidations, being with the Liberty Bank, Liberty-Central Trust Co. and finally the First National. As a paying teller he made a record for rapid handling of business.

He is survived by Mrs. Rein and a daughter, Miss Florence Rein, also by his mother, Mrs. Johanna Rein, and two sisters, Mrs. P. S. Perry and Miss Caroline Rein. The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Alexander undertaking chapel, 6175 Delmar boulevard.

JAMES A. REED TO SPEAK

Former United States Senator James A. Reed will speak at an informal luncheon at Hotel Jefferson at noon tomorrow, discussing the Democratic national platform.

Lee Meriwether is chairman of the committee arranging the meeting and Walter C. Guels, secretary.

HOW TO CAST BALLOT AT PRIMARY TUESDAY

Voting Early in Day Advised by Chairman of Election Board.

Details of how to vote in next Tuesday's primary election have been explained for the electorate by Miss Emma J. Bobb, chairman of the Election Board. She advised voting early in the day to avoid congestion at the polls. The 670 precincts will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m.

Miss Bobb said:

"Every one who presents himself to vote must be a qualified, registered voter of the precinct. When you go to vote, give your name and address to the judge, who compares it with your registration record. If it is correct he will ask you which ballot you desire to vote. You can have only one ballot at the primary. It is a nominating election and you cannot vote for candidates other than those printed upon the ticket you select.

"Your name is written on the poll book by one of the judges. You then take your ballot, go into a booth, alone, and vote it. You scratch the names of those for whom you do not wish to vote, leaving open and unerased the name or names of those for whom you desire to vote. Run a pencil line through the names. Do not use a cross mark, or a check, as that is not a vote at a primary.

Deputy Commissioners.

"The board will appoint Deputy Election Commissioners in quite a number of precincts. They will be placed in the various precincts to see that every voter entitled to vote is permitted to do so and to see that anyone who attempts to vote illegally is turned over to the police. They are there to see that the votes are counted as cast and the election squarely, honestly and impartially conducted.

"A report has come to us that the judges and clerks, either themselves or through other sources, will watch the ballots of city employes, such information to be held over them as a threat in retaining their positions. No such check is permissible and anyone giving such information, or permitting it to be secured, will be prosecuted. We have every confidence in our judges and clerks and feel sure that they will do all within their power to give us a clean, honest election.

"If you are a visitor in our city and reside elsewhere in the State and desire to vote, go into any polling place and ask for the ballot you desire to vote. The oath of an absentee voter will be administered to you.

"In compliance with the law, the board has made a strict rule, of which they will permit no violation, that all judges must count all ballots. We will not permit the Republican judges to count theirs alone, or the Democratic judges to count theirs alone. The four judges must count all ballots and the two clerks must do the tallying.

Policemen on Hand.

"You will find police officers stationed at the polling places and they are there to keep the peace. The judges and clerks have no right to remove an officer. He can only be removed by the Election Commissioners. These officers must arrest any person guilty of disorderly conduct, who interferes with the progress of the election, or attempts to vote illegally.

"It is so important that I repeat with emphasis 'go early' to vote.'

"Keep at it before noon. The vote will be heavy and if you go late, you will have to be crowded in line and there is a possibility of your being crowded out at the polling place.

"Be sure to see that the judges place on the back of your ballot the number which appears opposite your name on the poll book. Likewise, that they initial your ballot, for a ballot without a number is not a vote and you have simply wasted your time in coming into the polling place. Do not permit the officials, through hurry or carelessness of any kind, to disfranchise you by not placing a number on the back of your ballot. And last but not least, do not leave the polling place until your ballot is in the box. Stay there and insist upon it being put in before you leave. Vote early and you can vote with care.

"If you have any question about which you are in doubt, do not hesitate to call the election office (MAin 5560) for information. We are here to be of assistance to you.

STABBING CORNS

GET RID OF INDIGESTION IN A FEW MINUTES, OR Get Your Money Back

"Pi-eath" and milk of magnesia only make your indigestion worse in most cases, for they weaken the digestive acid in your stomach, so it cannot digest your food properly.

Pepto-Bismol does not upset your stomach. It relieves indigestion gently in a few minutes by stopping the souring of food in your stomach and the gassy feeling of food in your bowels. The medicines in Pepto-Bismol which stop upsetting and decay, are four of the finest medicines known to physicians. Read them on the bottle.

Also, Pepto-Bismol is not a potent medicine. It is a prescription by The Norwich Pharmacal Company, whose Unguentine and other fine medicines have held the respect of physicians, surgeons, hospitals, nurses and druggists for nearly 50 years.

If Pepto-Bismol does not get rid of your indigestion, distress after eating, heartburn and sour, acid stomach, in a few minutes, get your money back from your druggist. Dollar-size Pepto-Bismol is harmless. Price 50c.

But don't be absent-minded and merely ask your druggist for "something for indigestion". Ask him for Pepto-Bismol by name. Look for the name Pepto-Bismol on the bottle. Refuse the unfair offer of "something just as good" which may hinder, instead of help your digestion. Ask for Pepto-Bismol by name and get what you ask for.

RAY R. KARRAKER, CASHIER OF BANK, DIES AT 41

Succumbs to Acute Appendicitis After Illness of 10 Days—

Funeral Tomorrow.

Ray R. Karraker, cashier of the St. Louis National Bank, died yesterday at De Paul Hospital of acute appendicitis after an illness of 10 days.

Mr. Karraker, who was 41 years old, and lived at 5161 Cabanne avenue, had been cashier of the bank for 14 years and was connected formerly with the Central National Bank. He worked in banks at Carbondale and Chicago before coming to St. Louis. He was treasurer of the Osage Country Club and a director of the Children's Guardians of St. Louis.

Besides his widow he is survived by three sons, Richard, Robert and John. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Alexander funeral establishment, 6175 Delmar boulevard.

SHOT DEAD BY HOLDUP MEN

Oklahoma Officer Killed as He Tries to Arrest Three.

By the Associated Press.

PICHER, Ok., July 28.—Jim Steele, 45 years old, Justice of the Peace and a night watchman at Quapaw, died in a hospital here today from a bullet wound received when he attempted to arrest three filling station robbers.

The filling station attendant, Ed Slate, his wife and a youth were robbed of $80, kidnaped and their automobile stolen by the robbers. Running out of gasoline near Quapaw, two of the robbers left the third man guarding the captives and went in search of gasoline. As the pair returned, Steele arrived and attempted to arrest the three. One of the men fired at the officer, the bullet entering his chest. The robbers then abandoned their captives and fled in Slate's car.

COURT SETS ASIDE DIVORCE GRANTED BY DEFAULT

Investigator Finds Wife Was in State Asylum When Papers Were Served.

A divorce granted July 19 to Harry Harris from Annabelle Harris was set aside yesterday by Judge Landwehr, who had issued the decree.

Gilbert Weiss, investigator for the Court of Domestic Relations, informed the Court that at the time Mrs. Harris was served with a copy of the divorce proceedings she was a patient in the State asylum at Farmington, Mo., and was incapable of grasping the full significance of the suit. Although Mrs. Harris, who lives with her mother at 859 Westgate avenue, was released from the institution July 4, she was not informed of the setting of the divorce case, Weiss said.

Harris, a dress cutter, obtained the divorce by default on grounds of general indignities. The marriage took place last Aug. 2, and in December Mrs. Harris was placed in the asylum. They formerly lived at 5635 Clemens avenue.

HAY AND CLARK IN SPEECHES TAKE UP PROHIBITION

Former in Talk at New London Defends Position as Dry Favoring Submission of Repeal.

Prohibition was a leading subject in speeches last night by Charles M. Hay and Bennett C. Clark, candidates for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

Hay, speaking in New London, Ralls County, defending his position as a dry favoring submission of a repeal amendment, said:

"The drys, realizing that I can be a Democrat without surrendering my convictions, and the wets knowing that I can be a dry and still vote as a Democrat and an American to give the people a chance to determine their national liquor policy for themselves, are both supporting me and refusing to join in the 'stop Hay' movement."

Clark, speaking in Cape Girardeau, said:

"When Mr. Hay thought that I was in third place in the race he constantly proclaimed that the race was between me and himself. Now that I have definitely assumed leadership in the race, he claims that it is bewteen Hay and Howell. Well, the race is between Hay and Howell—for second place.

"It is of course to be regretted that Howell's large investment in the race prevents his withdrawal and so present a straight contest between Hay and myself on prohibition. Hay is a straight prohibitionist. I am a straight anti-prohibitionist. Howel is neither a straight wet nor a straight dry."

Clark asserted it was "an impudent assumption on the part of Mr. Hay in his Louisiana speech that he was an intimate friend of my father." "My father had no sympathy with the virulent fanaticism and intolerance of the prohibition crusades which were then Mr. Hay's stock in trade," he said.

Hay will speak tonight in Montgomery City, and Clark will tour Jackson County tomorrow, returning to St. Louis for a mass meeting Saturday night on the courthouse lawn in Clayton.

Brewery Workers' Wet Slate.

Speakers at Clark meetings tonight will be Sam B. Jeffries at Itaska street and Morganford road, D. Calhoun Jones at 4400 North Second street, Judge Anthony Hochdoerfer at 3105 Lemp avenue, and Lee Meriwether at 4022 Westminster place.

A "wet slate" was issued yesterday by the Brewery Workers' Joint Local Executive Board. For Republican nominations it includes Henry W. Kiel for United States Senator, Leo E. Koehler for Governor, William T. Findly for Secretary of State, George E. Hackmann for Auditor, Alroy S. Phillips for Judge of Division No. 1 of the Supreme Court. For Democratic nominations it contains the name of Bennett C. Clark for Senator, Francis M. Wilson for Governor, J. T. O'Brien and Dwight H. Brown for Secretary of State, Forrest Smith for Auditor and Ray McKittrick for Attorney-General.

GOV. ELY OF MASSACHUSETTS TO STATE STAND ON ROOSEVELT

Pre-Convention Leader for Smith Calls on Governor and Promises to Talk Later.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 28.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is preparing a radio speech which is expected to pave the way for an announcement Monday by Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts concerning his position on the Democratic national ticket.

After his conference with the Presidential candidate yesterday, Gov. Ely, a pre-convention leader of the Alfred E. Smith forces, when asked by newspaper men whether he would support the Governor, said: "I'll tell you all about that next Monday." Roosevelt was sitting beside him as he made the promise.

Ely added that Roosevelt's scheduled radio speech for Saturday night, in which the candidate has said he would "discuss the whole platform," would have a common note with Monday's announcement.

The Saturday night speech, although political in nature, is not seen as marking the opening of Roosevelt's major speaking campaign. The Governor's big guns will not be used until Aug. 20 when he goes to Columbus, O., to address the Democratic State convention. Seven days later he will speak at Seagirt, N. J., where a Democratic rally will be held.

GIRL, 4, FATALLY INJURED WHEN DRAGGED BY A MULE

Falls From Mount Near Centerville Station, Ill., and Becomes Entangled in Reins.

Geneva Louise Ross, 4 years old, was fatally injured last evening when she fell off a mule on her father's farm at Centerville Station, south of East St. Louis, and was dragged 400 feet before the animal stopped.

A number of children had been taking turns riding on the mule while Geneva's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Ross, were preparing supper. Geneva, witnesses said, was riding in front of Charles Castleberry, 14 years old, when the mule started to gallop toward the hard road, Highway No. 13. Charles was thrown off and Geneva fell a moment later.

The boy was not hurt but Geneva was entangled in the reins, was kicked and dragged before the mule stopped near the Ross barn. Unconscious, she was sent to St. Mary's Hospital, where she died a few minutes after her arrival. Her neck was broken and her skull fractured.

Shot by Woman, Dies.

Henry Young, 40 years old, a Negro, died at City Hospital No. 2 yesterday of a bullet wound in the abdomen suffered on July 19. Police are holding Elizabeth Braxton, a Negress, describing herself as Young's common-law wife. She stated, according to officers, that she fired at Young in self-defense when he beat her during an altercation, which started after she discovered that Young had pawned some of her apparel. The shooting took place at 2125 Wash street, where they lived.

INDIAN FIGHT REPORTER DIES

U. S. Lippincott Sent First News of 1890 Battle.

SOUTH MANCHESTER, Conn., July 28.—Ulysses Grant Lippincott, who as a newspaper reporter in 1890 gave the world its first news of the Indian battle of Wounded Knee in the Bad Lands of South Dakota, died yesterday after a long illness. He was 63 years old.

Lippincott had been sent to report an Indian ghost dance when the battle between the redmen and soldiers led by Gen. Nelson A. Miles took place. He was the only reporter to get back to Sioux City, Ia., with the story, as the others, fearing an attack, left earlier.

Don't PESTER Mosquitoes

KILL THEM

JUST because mosquitoes pester you, that's no reason why you should only pester them. Give them the quick-death treatment with Black Flag. Just spray the air full of fine, clean Black Flag mist and the skeeters will die in mid-air. Use it for flies, too. A marvelous substance made from rare flowers gives Black Flag this strange death-power over insects. It can't hurt people or house pets.

★★For crawling insects, like roaches and bedbugs, Black Flag Powder gives best results, because you can leave it in the cracks where they hide. It works the same as the spray.

Every good grocer, druggist, hardware or general store sells Black Flag. It kills quicker—and costs no more.

CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION BACKS SUITS AGAINST POLICE HERE

Will Help Those Who Were Shot in Demonstration at City Hall.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Damage suits against the St. Louis police who on July 11 broke up an unemployed demonstration of Communists, with tear gas and revolvers, shooting four demonstrators, will be backed by the American Civil Liberties Union, according to an announcement from its national headquarters in New York today.

The offer to the victims to bring such suits, together with offers of aid in appealing convictions for disorderly conduct where the facts warrant appeal, were sent by the national office to the St. Louis Civil Liberties Committee, headed by Dr. Albert E. Taussig. Suits also were authorized against policemen accused of beating prisoners after arrest.

The Civil Liberties Union characterizes the St. Louis clash as "one of the worst in the two years of unemployment demonstrations due to the utter tactlessness of the police in handling a crowd which was getting unruly. No excuse whatever can be offered for indiscriminate shooting to break up such an assembly. . The police could have cleared the street without the use of a single weapon, or by a little tact, as has often been done elsewhere. St. Louis joins such communities as Dearborn, Mich., and Melrose Park, Ill., in a shameful record of police violence against hungry men and women determined to get relief. Most of the crowd were not Communists—and Communists or not, they had a perfect right to voice their grievances at the City Hall. In some slight recognition of their demands, the city has since granted $200,000 for emergency relief and opened a relief station."

Warning to U. S. Employes.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Posters carrying in big black letters the words—"Warning: Political Activity of Classified Officers Prohibited"—were sent yesterday to Federal buildings throughout the country. The Civil Service Commission explained it was merely following an old election year practice.

The most INEXPENSIVE WAY to buy an ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

A statement by G. C. BOHN
President of
BOHN REFRIGERATOR COMPANY
Makers of quality refrigerators for 35 years

EVERY family that thinks of buying an electric refrigerator must face one of two choices. You can consider all electric refrigerators alike. Then pick the lowest price tag. Or you can face the facts . . . realize that quality and value vary tremendously. Then buy on the basis of lowest cost per year.

Right now many refrigerators are being offered to the public at "cheap prices." Manufacturers from other lines have set up over night as refrigeration specialists. They claim "highest quality . . . at the price of 'cheap' refrigerators." . . . There "ain't no such animal." Never was. And never will be.

We have no quarrel with the family that wants to get an electric refrigerator as inexpensively as possible. That's as it should be. Nor the family that wants to pay only a small amount down. That's why we offer the Bohn Electric for as little as 25c a day. We have no quarrel with the reputable manufacturers of good refrigerators, who ask an honest price and deliver honest value.

But we are against hoodwinking people into believing that any refrigerator sold at a cheap price will give them everything that the honestly made, honestly priced refrigerators will deliver.

And we still believe that the $50 overcoat that lasts three winters is a better investment than the $25 "bargain" that wears out in one.

For the guidance of people who really want to know how to look for value in a refrigerator, we set down the way Bohn measures up . . . .

CABINET—A custom built combination of 18 gauge steel and finest imported British Columbia spruce. In 35 years of making fine refrigerator cabinets, we have yet to find a combination that produces a longer lasting, more efficient cabinet.

CABINET FINISH—Elastic porcelain—a development of 28 years of porcelain making. So far as we know, we are the only manufacturers of refrigerators who make their own porcelain. The Bohn cabinet has elastic porcelain inside and out. Will not mar, peel or crack. Won't turn yellow with age—the interior lining is stainless and acid-resistant.

OPERATING UNIT—Simple rotary type. Only five moving parts. Mounted on springs to cut vibration and noise to a minimum.

FAST-FREEZING—In impartial University tests Bohn Electric froze ice cubes faster than four leading refrigerators tested under identical conditions. The Bohn Electric made ice cubes 20 minutes faster than its nearest competitor and five hours and 20 minutes faster than the slowest.

FOOD STORAGE SPACE—The smallest Bohn model has four cubic feet of space for food storing and a shelf area of 7 square feet. PLEASE MAKE A CAREFUL NOTE OF THIS. Midget refrigerators which do not give ample space for food are no bargain at any price.

NUMBER OF ICE CUBES—The smallest Bohn Electric model makes 30 ice cubes, or about 4 pounds of ice. Because Bohn's fast freezing produces ice cubes so quickly you can always have available plenty of ice cubes.

HARDWARE—We chromium plate our own brass hardware (hinges, door fastener and trim), so that we may be sure it is properly done.

DOOR—Special easy closing catch on door fastener. Doesn't stick when opening, doesn't have to be banged shut. Tests made by a leading magazine show that in the average home the refrigerator door is opened and closed 66 times a day, so an easy working door is a real point to consider.

GUARANTEE—Unit and cabinet of every Bohn Electric Refrigerator is fully guaranteed for three years. It is guaranteed by a company that has specialized in making fine refrigerators for 35 years.

The Bohn Refrigerator Company has Factory Service Departments that offer immediate attention. When you buy a Bohn there is no danger of buying an "orphan" refrigerator on which you may not be able to get service, no danger of expensive and annoying repair bills.

This is the value Bohn Electric delivers, honest dollar for dollar value. But to make all this mean something very desirable to you in terms of the electric refrigerator you will put in your kitchen, we ask earnestly that you at least see a Bohn Electric before you decide to buy.

Any of our floor people will be glad to show you the Bohn Electric point by point and let you form your own opinion. If you wish, we will have a representative call, but we suggest that you actually see the Bohn yourself at any of our convenient show rooms.

There you can also find out how much the Bohn Electric will cost you per year, a figure that will naturally depend on the size of the model you select. Compare that cost with the similar cost of any other refrigerator in which you may be interested, and we will rest confidently on your judgment as to which is the least expensive refrigerator for you to buy.

CONTINUO HITS 3 CHURCHES

Makes Course on Spire of Riverside Edifice in New York.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Lightning struck three church steeples last night.

A marble cross was toppled from the spire of the Rockefeller-sponsored Riverside Church at 122d street and Riverside drive. Another bolt sent a shower of bricks tumbling down from the steeple of Grace Protestant Episcopal Church, on City Island. The Zion Methodist Episcopal Church, 129th street and Seventh avenue, also was struck. A fourth bolt struck a flagpole in the grounds of the Catholic protectory, in the Bronx, snapping it in two.

$5 FOR 500 SHOE WORKERS

St. Louis shoe factories have put more than 500 men back in permanent jobs since the American Legion's employment campaign began 10 weeks ago, it was said today by H. L. Gilhaus, executive secretary of the campaign committee.

Pledges of 93 jobs were reported yesterday, increasing the total to 2218, of which 2836 are classified as permanent.

RECORD PLURALITY FOR DEARMONT IN HOME AREA LIKELY

Estimates of Cape Girardeau Attorney's Margin in 16 Southeast Counties Range Up to 30,000.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., July 28. — The 16 Sotuheast Missouri counties will return a far larger plurality for State Senator Russell L. Dearmont for the Democratic nomination for Governor in the primary Tuesday than they ever have given any candidate. Enthusiastic supporters of Dearmont put the margin at nearly 30,000. It is conceivable that it might reach 30,000.

Except for a few closely circumscribed neighborhoods, the Dearmont sentiment is overwhelming, and it would not be surprising if he should receive 75 per cent of the vote. In some counties the percentage will be even higher.

Dearmont has resided in this section since he was a small boy, and has practiced law in nearly all the counties. His popularity was shown four years ago when, as a candidate for State Senator, he carried seven counties in the Twenty-first Senatorial District by 2032 in the same election in which his present opponent for the nomination for Governor, Francis M. Wilson, lost the district to Gov. Caulfield by 2307.

Record Vote Expected.

Southeast Missouri probably is more clannish than any other section of the State, and it stays by its own in an election.

For these reasons it is the expectation that all of the counties will poll unprecedentedly large votes in the primary, and Dearmont will receive an unprecedentedly large proportion of the votes.

Usually in these 16 counties approximately 33,000 votes are cast in the Democratic primary. The Dearmont supporters here estimate that his candidacy will result in a vote approaching 50,000. On that basis he might get a 25,000 plurality, but it is probable a total of 45,000 is nearer the maximum vote that may be expected.

As an evidence of the Dearmont strength at home, his supporters cite the Dearmont picnic near New Madrid last Friday, which was attended by an enormous number of persons, estimates of the crowd running as high as 25,000. Even politicians not friendly to him placed the size of the crowd at 15,000.

An official count of automobiles showed between 5800 and 5900, including runabouts occupied by two or three persons, larger cars with from four to seven and many busses with 15 to 20. In addition there were many farm wagons which brought whole families.

Whatever the number of persons in attendance, 108 head of cattle, sheep and hogs were slaughtered to serve them and 50 men worked at the serving from noon until 3 o'clock, at which time several thousand who had not been reached broke down the barriers and helped themselves.

In estimating the vote to be cast, Dearmont leaders express the opinion that the primary vote will not fall short of the Democratic vote in the general election of 1928, when Smith for President got 52,158.

If this section gives Dearmont a plurality of 20,000 or upwards, it will go quite a ways in cutting down the much larger plurality which the Pendergast organization will give Wilson in Jackson County.

Hay Favored for Senator.

These counties in 1928 were carried by Charles M. Hay for the nomination for United States Senator by a plurality of 13,830, and it appears likely that he will virtually duplicate that performance this year.

Most of the counties are heavily Democratic and the Republican vote is comparatively small. Secretary of State Becker has a strong following in several of the counties and there is a possibility he will run Lieutenant-Governor Winter rather a close race here. However, the stronger Republican counties, Cape Girardeau and Perry, likely will give a plurality to Leo E. Koehler, as also, probably, will Ste. Genevieve County, which normally is Democratic unless a wet of Koehler's pronounced views is running on the Republican ticket.

There is little discussion here of the Republican senatorial race, but the majority sentiment appears to favor Henry Kiel, though a considerable number of the counties are in the Fourteenth Congressional District, in which Dewey Short, one of the candidates against Kiel, made two races for Congress and was elected for one term.

FARM MORTGAGE MORATORIUM

Iowa Plan Would Bar Foreclosures Until 1935.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 28.—A legislative plan to halt farm mortgage foreclosures until 1935 has been worked out and approved by Iowa farm organization leaders for presentation at the next session of the General Assembly.

A. L. Rule of Mason City, author of the plan, is a former State Senator and now a Republican candidate for a seat in the next General Assembly. The principal provisions are that no Sheriff's deed to property shall be issued until July, 1935, and that the owner of the farm shall be appointed receiver and shall lease the farm to the person in possession which may be himself.

Mexican Railway Director Quits.

MEXICO CITY, July 28.—Javier Sanchez Mejorada, director of the National Railways of Mexico, has resigned. No reason for his act was made public. His attempts toward railway economy recently have been severely criticised by the workmen, who several times have threatened a general strike.

MR. ZERO HELD FOR FRAUD

Benefactor of Poor Indicted for Passing Bad Check.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Urban J. (Mr. Zero) Ledoux, benefactor of the poor, was arrested last night at the request of Atlantic City (N. J.) police on a charge of passing a worthless check.

Police at Atlantic City telegraphed New York police that Ledoux had been indicted. Ledoux was taken while raising supplies for the bonus force, in connection with which he was recently arrested in Washington.

Cape Girardeau Foundry to Close.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., July 28.—The Cape Girardeau Foundry Co. plant will be closed August 1, according to B. E. White, vice-president. The closing was necessary because the company has changed from the basis of cast-iron manufacture to malleable iron work, for which the local plant is unsuited.

Cleveland Symphony "Experiment."
By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, July 28.—The contract of Nikolai Sokoloff, conductor of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, will not be renewed in 1933, it is announced by the Cleveland Orchestra Co. The orchestra's future, the statement said, could be better planned if the directors were "free to investigate and experiment without the restrictions implied by a fixed contract with a single conductor." The 1933 season, it is thought, will be so arranged that several guest conductors will be brought to Cleveland.

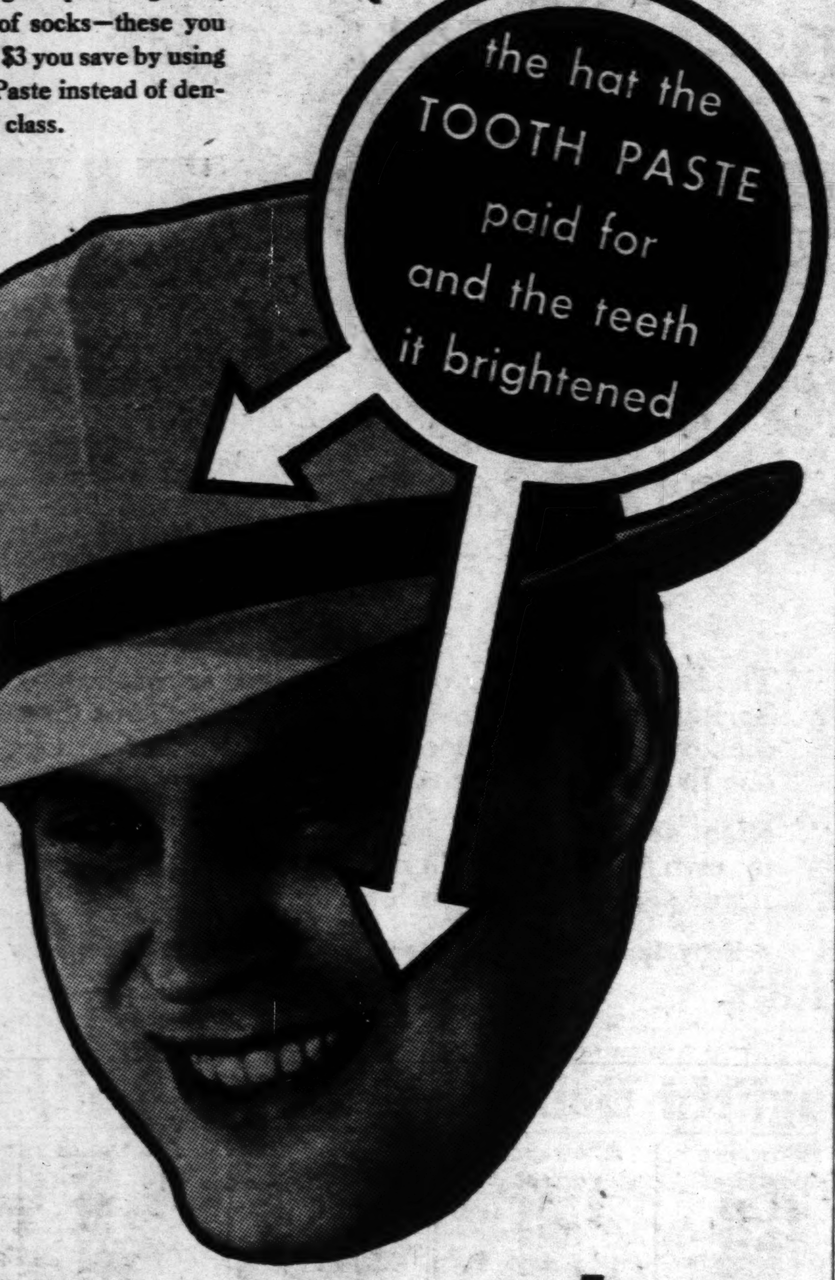
A hat, a scarf, a good pair of gloves, or several pairs of socks—these you can buy with that $3 you save by using Listerine Tooth Paste instead of dentifrices in the 50¢ class.



Try one Tube and Judge by RESULTS alone

Listerine Tooth Paste has passed the greatest test that can be put to a dentifrice.

Tried by more than 2,000,000 American people, the most critical buyers in the world when health and value are involved, it has won their enthusiastic acceptance. Old favorites at a high price have been discarded in favor of the new one at 25¢.

In order to win such approval, Listerine Tooth Paste had to establish its gentleness and absolute safety in actual use. It did so—on millions of teeth of varying degrees of hardness—and never was precious enamel harmed.

It had to show quick and thorough cleansing. Not merely front and back of the teeth, but between them. It had to disclose ability to remove stains, discoloration, and unsightly tartar, quickly, certainly. And show power to preserve the lovely natural lustre of sound beautiful teeth. Millions now comment on how ably it performs these tasks.

The fact that Listerine Tooth Paste sells for 25¢ the large tube, effecting an average saving of $3 per year per person over tooth pastes in the 50¢ class, is another point worth remembering.

Get a tube of Listerine Tooth Paste today. Use it a month. Judge it by results only. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

CANVASS QUESTIONS 7034 REGISTRATIONS

Measures Taken to Prevent Fraudulent Voting at Primary Tuesday.

Attempts at fraudulent voting will be dealt with severely, Miss Emma J. Bobb, chairman of the Election Board, announces as a result of canvasses of the registration. Canvass by the police of 52,942 names on the registration books and by the board through the mail of 17,184 names has produced a list of 7034 questionable names, in 11 wards.

The police canvass was based on the supplementary registration of June 16 and the board's inquiry on the old registration lists. The number of questionable names is about 8 per cent of the total registration in the following wards: Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-second and Twenty-third.

Letters were mailed to the 17,184 persons in the board's check, with arrangements for the postoffice to note reasons for non-delivery at the residence addresses given. Of these letters 3358 have been returned, with the following explanations: Addressee has moved, 1866; not found at address given, 1280; no such address, 153; dead, 45; buildings wrecked, 12; address is place of business, 2.

Results of the police canvass have been announced previously. It produced 3676 questionable names. A supplementary police canvass in the Nineteenth Ward, covering 821 names, failed to find 583 of these persons.

Following the usual practice, the Election Board will furnish precinct judges and clerks, Deputy Election Commissioners and the policemen on duty at polling places with lists of the doubtful names. If any one attempts to vote under one of these names he will be challenged and charged with attempted fraudulent voting if there is evidence. It is not thought that wholesale frauds are in contemplation, as experience has shown there always are some voters who register and afterward move away and cannot be found.

There will be more than 500 deputy election commissioners on duty in the primary next Tuesday. They will act as special guards against fraud.

HAND LABOR USED IN COUNTY ON TWO GRADING CONTRACTS

By This Means 590 Men Are Employed Three Days a Week at 30c an Hour.

Hand labor is being used by St. Louis County in two road grading jobs, as a means of giving relief to unemployed residents of the county. One undertaking, started a few days ago, is the extension of Forsythe boulevard, from Ladue road, Clayton, to the intersection of McKnight and Old Bonhomme roads, University City.

The other, started July 1, is the extension of Delmar boulevard, from Old Bonhomme road, University City, to Price road, Olivette. Extensive grading has been done already on this street, which requires high fills. The work will be finished some time in September probably. The American Legion job finding committee advocated the use of hand labor.

On the Delmar work 330 men have been employed and on the Forsythe, 260. They work three days a week, as two crews are employed in order to spread the relief. The pay is 30 cents an hour for an eight-hour day. Grading of Hanley road, between Page avenue and St. Charles road, and of several minor roads in the southern part of the county has been done by hand labor, and the County Court plans to use the same method on the extension of Brown road from St. Charles road to the intersection of Page avenue and Woodson road.

The practice is to award contracts in the usual way for concrete paving of the roads. This is done by a combination of machinery and hand labor.

UNION MEN SAY JENNINGS MET THEM WITH PISTOL

Two Tell Police of Visit to Casa Loma to Find if Non-Union Help Was Employed.

Michael Walsh, business agent for Carpenters' Local Union No. 73, and Harry J. Hagen, representing the Lathers' Union reported to city detectives today that they were threatened with a pistol by Orville E. Jennings, international vice-president of the Brotherhood of Electricians, when they went to Jennings' farm last Tuesday to investigate a report that non-union men were being employed on a slaughter house which Jennings is constructing.

Jennings' country place, known as Casa Loma Farms, is located near Marshfield, Mo. Walsh and Hagen, who were accompanied by several other union business agents, told police that Jennings obtained the pistol from an automobile and threatened them "for interfering in my business." Others placated Jennings, who then permitted the business agents to inspect the building project, Walsh and Hagen related.

NURMI CASE TO COME UP FOR A VOTE TOMORROW

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—The final trial of Paavo Nurmi on charges of receiving money for a German barnstorming trip last year in excess of his expense allowances, today came as a climax to the most widely debated topic in connection with the Olympic games.

The Executive Council of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, which suspended Nurmi last April despite the clean bill given the famous runner by Finland's A. A. A., prepared to reconsider the case and file its recommendations to the full congress of the I. A. A. F. tomorrow.

It was a foregone conclusion the council would recommend Nurmi's disbarment from the Olympics and seek adoption of new rules giving it authority to deal with such cases. The real battle, centering around this rules proposal, was looked for in the congress, with Finland's delegates supported, at least on technical grounds, by the United States. Both sides claimed they would win the floor fight.

Finland claims the suspension of Nurmi was highly irregular and the evidence against him is "second-hand" and inconclusive. I. A. A. F. officials believe they have "the goods" on Paavo.

European athletic jealousies have been bitterly stirred by the fight within the Federation, with the Swedes, Germans, British and French leading the attack on the Finns.

The Finnish leaders have the authority to withdraw their entire team, if Nurmi is not reinstated, but they are not expected to exercise this no matter what the decision.

ALLISON WILL MEET COCHET IN DAVIS CUP PLAY

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 28.—Wilmer Allison today was selected to take the place of Frank Shields as singles player on the United States Davis Cup team and will play Henri Cochet in the second match of the challenge round with France tomorrow.

Ellsworth Vines Jr., United States No. 1, will meet Jean Borotra in the first match.

Bernon Prentice, American team captain, decided to replace Shields with Allison after the former had failed to reach his top form in the play at Wimbledon and against Germany in the interzone final last week-end.

Allison thus will play the same program as Cochet, two singles matches and one doubles, as he will pair with John Van Ryn against Cochet and Jacques Brugnon in the doubles play Saturday.

The draw assures a probable thrilling climax to the play on Sunday when Vines plays Cochet in the last match of the round. It is generally agreed Vines will beat Borotra tomorrow and Cochet will beat Allison. The doubles is a tossup. The result, therefore, is expected to hang on the last two singles matches.

Vines and Cochet have never met, but Allison has faced the French star in doubles and defeated him in singles at Wimbledon in 1930 in the semifinal round.

Tilden to Play Kozeluh in Pro Meet Semifinal

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 28.—William T. Tilden II of Philadelphia and his old rival, Karl Kozeluh of Czecho-Slovakia, survived hard battles yesterday to enter the same semifinal bracket in the world's professional tennis championship.

Tilden had the easier fight of the two, defeating Albert Burke, French professional champion, in straight sets, 6—0, 6—4, 9—7, but Kozeluh required four sets to dispose of Emmett Pare of Chicago, 6—2, 8—6, 3—6, 6—3. Tilden and Kozeluh will meet in the semifinal of the upper bracket Saturday.

Roman Najuch, the 200-pound German star, who upset Vincent Richards the previous day, will meet the winner of the quarter-final match between Hans Nusslein and Bruce Barnes in the other semifinal.

PIRATES BOMBARD NEW YORK PITCHERS FOR ANOTHER VICTORY

CARDINALS LOSE FIRST GAME TO BROOKLYN, 9-6

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BROOKLYN, July 28.—Tex Carleton and Allyn Stout were pounded by the Brooklyn Dodgers this afternoon and the Cardinals lost the first game of the doubleheader, 9 to 5.

The only encouraging thing about the game from the Cardinals' standpoint was the fine relief pitching of Sylvester Johnson. He replaced Stout in the sixth, and Rosenfeld's homer was the only run scored off the big Swede in three innings.

Jimmy Collins, playing first base in place of the injured Jim Bottomley, hit a home run in the seventh.

LOTT IN CANADIAN TENNIS SEMIFINALS

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 28.—George Lott of Chicago today gained the semi-final round of the men's singles in the Canadian tennis championships to give the United States two representatives in the final hour. Frankie Parker of Milwaukee, preceded Lott into the semi-finals.

Lott defeated Leo Doucher of Montreal, in a hard-fought four-set match, 6—3, 2—6, 7—5, 6—4.

Warneke Makes It Nine in Row And 16 for Season

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 28.—Lon Warneke won his sixteenth game of the season for the Chicago Cubs today, defeating the Boston Braves, 4 to 1.

It was his ninth straight victory. Warneke has lost only three games.

Boxing Bouts Postponed.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Rain early last night forced postponement until Friday of the Ebbets Field boxing program featuring a 10-round heavyweight battle between Charley Retzlaff of Duluth and Isadoro Gastanaga of Spain.

THE CRANE, 7-1 SHOT, IS WINNER AT EMPIRE

NEW YORK, July 28.—A slow track prevailed at Empire today as a result of heavy overnight rains. The third race, a jaunt of a mile and 70 yards for platers of three years and upward, attracted eight starters. The winner turned up in The Crane, a 7 to 1 shot, owned by Mrs. J. E. Nagle, which lasted to beat Regal Flag by a nose. Please, the favorite, finished third and might have won with better handling. The time was 1:46. Jockey R. Whele, who rode Please, had his mount in trouble most of the trip, the gelding being in many a pocket before getting clear in the stretch, then he did not have enough left to catch the leaders.

Whileaway set the pace in the early running, while Dancing Mack and The Crane followed right at his heels. The Crane assumed command around the bend and was joined by Regal Flag entering the final furlong. It was a stirring finish with The Crane gamely holding a slight advantage. Please was an easy third.

RED SOX MAKE IT THREE IN SUCCESSION

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Behind tight pitching by Ed Durham, the revived Boston Red Sox won their third straight victory over the White Sox today, 2 to 1. Durham allowed nine hits, but was tight in the pinches behind perfect support. Lyons worked for Chicago.

U. S. SPRINT STARS ARE SEEDED FOR FIRST OLYMPIC RACES

METCALFE WILL MEET CANADIAN IN 100-METERS QUALIFYING TEST

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—With the draw for preliminary heats before them, 34 nations lined up their track and field forces for the first skirmishes of the tenth Olympiad starting here Sunday.

Uncle Sam's speedsters fared exceptionally well in their positions in the first races of the 100 and 200 meters. Ralph Metcalfe, ranking sprinter, was spotted in the fifth heat of the 100-meter event, where apparently Birchall Pearson, Canada's latest school boy sensation is his chief opponent.

America's three dash men were seeded in both the short races, with Eddie Tolan drawing Frederick Reid, Great Britain and Andre Theard, Haiti, among his opponents in the 100 meters.

George Simpson has in his 100-meter heat Andrej Engl, Czecho-Slovakian, and Ernest Page, Great Britain.

Opposition Is Unknown.

In the 200 meters, Metcalfe has virtually no known opposition, with the list including Harold Wright, Canada, and China's one-man team, Cheng-Chun Liu.

It was quite a different story for the United States in the other events. Bill Carr, seeded in the fourth heat of the 400 meters, drew such rugged customers as George Golding of Australia and Crew Stoneley of Great Britain, with the first three to qualify.

Ben Eastman's competition at this distance appeared to lie in Joubert, Joachim Buechner of German and Hjalmar Johannessen, Norway.

America's 800-meter men drew a nest of trouble. Eddie Genung faced Paul Keller of France and Dr. Paul Martin, Switzerland, in the first heat, with three qualifying. Charles Hornbostel had Dr. Otto Peltzer, Germany, world half-mile record holder, and Alex Wilson of Canada, to contend with. Ed Turner had Sera Martin, France; John Lovelock, New Zealand, and Hampson in his race.

400 Athletes to Compete.

The best four qualify in the three 1500-meter heats, which may save the three Yankee entrants for another day.

With more than 400 athletes entered, the track and field events promise to be on a par with previous Olympiads. Some 300 are participating in the track events and more than 100 others will engage in the field sports.

America's team of 68 tops the list, while Brazil runs second with 43 and Germany, Japan and Mexico third with 27 each.

The honor of taking the Olympic oath for the entire assemblage of world athletic stars, during the opening ceremonies for the games Saturday, will go to Lieut. George C. Calnan, U. S. N., for years a national fencing champion and now on the American Olympic fencing team for the fourth time.

Taylor Will Carry Emblem.

The American Olympic Committee also selected F. Morgan Taylor of Quincy, Ill., 400-meter hurdles competitor, for the third straight time, to carry the national emblem in the parade of nations. Taylor originally was slated to take the Olympic oath but yielded to Lieut. Calnan on the ground of seniority in Olympic competition.

In a unique exchange of national headgear for the parade, the entire American delegation will wear berets while the French wil' wear straw hats. Previously the straw hat has been an almost exclusive American article of apparel in Olympic dress rehearsals. The French adopted it this year and the Americans decided to return the courtesy by going in for continental headgear.

Blue and white will be the main color scheme in the American uniforms.

Coats have been prescribed for the officials and sleeveless jerseys for the athletes.

Starting Blocks Banned.

Olympic officials, holding their first clinic yesterday in preparation for the world championship battle starting Sunday, compromised on innovations by banning all use of starting blocks but approving, semi-officially, the new Kirby photo-electric timer, used successfully this season in the American championships and final tryouts.

These decisions were reached by the Record and Rules Committee of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, of which Avery Brundage of Chicago, head of the American Olympic delegation, is chairman.

They will be put before the congress of the I. A. A. F., for final action tomorrow.

The use of starting blocks has been under discussion ever since the last Olympics, but the device has yet to win international approval. The new timer or "camera clock" will be used through the Olympic track events, experimentally for the most part, but also for the official settlement of any disputed placings in the races. The I. A. A. F. committee adopted its use officially for timing track events of the decathlon or all-around championship.

Gustav Sets New Mark.

W. Gustav set a new high run record of 10 in winning from Grove, 50 to 17, in the feature of the redball billiard tournament match at Peterson's yesterday.

WHILE we would not asseverate
That they are champion clouters,
Those Brownies are, we're here to state,
The champion in-and-outers.

Although the flag they may not win
The Browns are not dejected;
When due to take it on the chin
They pull the unexpected.

The story of their rise and fall
Is more or less surprising,
And any moment Owner Ball
May look for an uprising.

UPSETS FEATURE IN MUNY TENNIS TOURNEY PLAY

By Davison Obear.

Play in the annual Municipal women's tennis championship was resumed yesterday afternoon when all third round singles contests were completed. A number of doubles matches were also decided.

There were two upsets in the singles and one in the doubles. In one of the singles upsets, Frances Jacobson, Carondelet Park, defeated Mrs. Ella Dietz-Felbinger, Forest Park, while in another, Bernardine Lutz, Carondelet, won from Mrs. Violet Furlong, O'Fallon. Mrs. Dietz-Felbinger was seeded No. 7 and Mrs. Furlong No. 8.

The Forest Park team of Violet Eaton and Sibley Merton gained a surprise victory over Mrs. Johanna Bensiek and Verona Lindemann, O'Fallon Park pair, in a second round match. The O'Fallon team was seeded No. 8 and lost in three sets, 4—6, 6—4, 9—7.

Miss Jacobson, recent winner of the Carondelet Park women's title for the second successive year, smashed her way through the first set against Mrs. Dietz-Felbinger, but found stiff opposition in the second set. In taking the first set 6—2 Miss Jacobson had good control of her fast drives and gained a number of points on net play. The Forest Park player, however, opened up the second set with accurate deep court placements and gained a lead of 3 to 1 in games. Miss Jacobson then evened the score and the players battled on even terms until the score reached 6-all. The Carondelet player proved steadier and won the next two and the set.

Miss Lutz, finalist to Miss Jacobson in the recent Carondelet Park tournament, defeated Mrs. Furlong, 9—7, 6—1. As the score indicates the first set was a battle from start to finish. Miss Lutz made many surprise returns of her opponent's shots. After the long first set Mrs. Furlong appeared tired and did not play as consistently as in the opening set.

Yesterday's Results.

WOMEN'S SINGLES. THIRD ROUND.

Mrs. Virginia Baer Ducker, O'Fallon, defeated Louise Rauch, Forest, 6—1, 6—1; Frances Jacobson, Carondelet, defeated Ella Dietz-Felbinger, Forest, 6—2, 9—7; Wilma Benson, O'Fallon, defeated Rosalind Werner, Forest, 6—2, 6—3; Bernadine Lutz, Carondelet, defeated Mrs. Violet Furlong, O'Fallon, 9—7, 6—1; Mercedina Weiss, Forest, defeated Mrs. Ethel Baer Schneider, Oakland, 7—5, 6—2; Mrs. Ann Lindemann, O'Fallon, defeated Elvera Weber, Fairgrounds, 7—5, 6—4; Lottie Haremeyer, Forest, defeated Evelyn Caporal, Marquette, 2—6, 6—0, 6—1.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES. SECOND ROUND.

Violet Eaton and Sibley Merton defeated Mrs. Johanna Bensiek and Verona Lindemann, 4—6, 6—4, 9—7; Mrs. Virginia Baer Ducker and Mrs. Ann Lindemann defeated Frances Jacobson and Mrs. Leda Humes, 6—2, 6—3; Mrs. Florence Probert and Mrs. Grace Brocker defeated Mrs. Bee Slater and Ruth Moehlenkamp, 6—1, 6—2; Billie Peer and Eleanor Frederic defeated Mrs. Violet Boll and Mrs. Louise Wiebe, 6—3, 6—4.

Freeman Scores Kayo.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 28.—Tommy Freeman of Cleveland floored Tiger Joe Randall of Elizabeth, Pa., eight times in six rounds last night for a technical knockout. The bout was carded as a 10-rounder, but Randall had no chance after the second. The former welterweight champion spilled the Negro twice in the third round, once in the fourth, four times in the fifth and sent him reeling again as they came together for the sixth.

Thormahlen Tries Comeback.

Herb Thormahlen is trying a comeback with Montreal. He retired at the start of the season, but later changed his mind.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Kid Atlas.

OLD ATLAS himself, staggering under the burden of carrying the world on his shoulders, didn't have such a tough job. The old boy was just a Greek weight-lifter, doing a journeyman's job. All he had to do was spread his legs apart and grunt.

VINES.

But take the case of Ellsworth Vines — there's a lad who is shouldering a national responsibility; and we'll bank on that to outweigh the earth. Kid Vines, at this time, hasn't said good-morning to his 21st birthday anniversary. Still, it is up to him to do what the greatest veteran tennis player the United States ever produced, William T. Tilden II (thank you, Bill) failed to do in four or five tries. That is, bring back the Davis Cup from France.

This isn't a task that requires just agility, power and speed—attributes possessed by a lot of youths. The job this year demands courage of an unusual sort, extreme skill and that particular complex which makes some men do everything better, the greater the obstacle to be overcome.

• • •

Gallery Will Be Hostile.

ALL Vines has to do is this: Defeat Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra in both singles matches of the Davis Cup challenge round.

Play better than he has ever played in his life, despite a hostile gallery.

Considering that no player has beaten Cochet in Davis Cup singles since Tilden defeated him in his first effort in 1927, and considering that all the United States is looking to Vines to bring back the cup, Vines can easily be excused if he staggers under the load of his responsibilities.

• • •

Not the Staggering Kind.

HOWEVER, Kid Vines is not the wobbly kind. For a young man he is fairly hard boiled. His tournament play last year shows that the harder they come the better he likes it.

He has something of the Tilden temperament without Bill's fluffy ruffles. When he has to bear down, he can. The crowd can whistle and catcall without making him flinch. Like Tilden, he only comes back harder when they try to kid him or disconcert him.

With this in mind, one can be certain that when Vines goes on the courts for his singles matches, it will not be any gallery claque that will beat him, but superior playing.

And right here, we wish to go on record as saying that we give Vines an even chance to beat Cochet, and figure him a sure shot to defeat Borotra.

We may add that, conceding an even chance in Cochet's case, makes it necessary to concede the American Davis Cup team an even chance to bring back the trophy.

• • •

How It Shapes Up.

THERE are several reasons why Vines appears to have a better chance than Tilden had to help bring back the bowl to America. In addition to the almost uncanny stroke ability of Tilden, and nearly equal service power, Vines has youth and stamina and his opponent is getting along.

Then there was the "draw" which seems to have resulted happily for the Americans in that Vines will take on Borotra and Allison will oppose Cochet in the opening singles matches.

This is the most favorable break that could have happened, for it is almost certain that Vines will open the round with a victory for America.

Few expect Allison to defeat Cochet; but he did defeat him once, at Wimbledon, and he may extend Cochet enough to weaken him for subsequent matches.

The American doubles team, Van Ryn and Allison, is strongly favored to win from Cochet and Brugnon, the second day of play. And for the third day, the Americans will have two strings to their bow. Allison has a good chance to defeat Borotra, who has not played much and did not expect to be called upon to defend the cup. Also Vines will be meeting a Cochet who presumably will have been weakened by two successive days of hard tennis, while Vines will have had a day of rest.

Cochet may stand up under the strain, but it is even money that he won't.

A Tough Hombre.

WE are not kidding ourselves about this Cochet, a great master. It is not the first time he has represented France in all three matches. On four occasions he has won two singles matches for his country; and in the same four years he played in doubles, too. Three times he was successful in doubles and the only time he lost at doubles was in 1930, when Allison and Van Ryn defeated Henri and Borotra—after the Davis Cup already had been successfully defended and there was nothing at stake but an exhibition victory.

Furthermore, two years ago Henri Cochet and Brugnon, this year's Davis Cup doubles team, defeated Allison and Van Ryn in doubles.

However, we still think the wear and tear of years and the improvement of Allison will make the doubles a sure point for America.

That puts it up to Vines to beat Cochet, or Allison to beat Borotra.

• • •

The Crowd Handicap.

HOSTILE spectators who are not muzzled by good sportsmanship, can make it hard for a visiting athlete.

In France the tennis crowds correspond to our baseball gatherings, we are told. There is an exception in that most baseball remarks are mere kidding or wise-cracking. In France they mean everything.

France always holds out for its own officials at Davis Cup matches. In America we take pleasure in letting the visiting nationals select some of their own countrymen for linesmen or other official duties.

It was plain throughout the European zone final that America was the pariah of the Davis Cup struggle. But hard words don't win contests and there is a really good chance that Vines and company will bring back the Davis Cup, from France, where it has been since 1927.

In that year the classic team of Big Bill Tilden and Little Bill Johnston began to crack. Little Bill, with his 130-round dynamo, was burned out and Tilden was not able to carry on alone.

In that year, too, Rene Lacoste beat both Tilden and Johnston. Tilden defeated Cochet, but Lacoste found the tired Tilden for a victory—and the bowl went across the water to stay.

HOOGERHYDE RETAINS U. S. ARCHERY TITLE

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 28.—Roger Hoogerhyde of Pinehurst, N. C., today retained his national archery championship by virtue of a gross score of 1296 for a double york round, three points better than the existing record. The defending champion scored 696 yesterday in the concluding day of the national tournament.

GERMAN OLYMPIC BOXERS DRAW IN CHICAGO BOUTS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Big blond Heinrich Kohlhaas, bred in Muenster, occupied a place among Germany's fistic heroes today.

The Teuton Olympic boxing team lost four of the first seven matches against Midwest amateurs fighting for Chicago in Soldier Field last night. Then in the heavyweight class, last to be decided, Kohlhaas overwhelmed Duffy Dvonch, a sailor from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, and gained a draw for his country over the evening's route.

Kohlhaas rushed Dvonch from the first bell, floored him twice in the opening round and forced Referee Dave Barry to stop the slaughter in the second.

His victory kept Germany's slate in international matches clear of defeat. Its men were rated the best in Europe. They left today for Los Angeles to compete in the Olympics.

The invaders started out to make a show of the defenders, winning the first three matches on points with Werner Spannagel, Hans Ziglarski and Josef Schleinkofer of Munich.

Henry Rothier, Moline, Ill., lightweight; Tony Sutton, Nichols, Ia., middleweight, and Adolph Wiater of Green Bay, Wis., the Midwest light heavyweight, then outpointed their rivals. The home team took the edge when Johnny Phagan, Chicago Negro welterweight, knocked out Eric Campe, a Berlin policeman, in the first round of their bout.

A crowd of 45,000, largest ever to witness amateur fights in America, watched the spectacle.

Douda Is a Real Star.

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—Frantisek Douda, Czecho-Slovakian shot putter, gave evidence that he will be the man to beat in the tenth Olympiad here when he tossed the 16-pound weight 53 feet 5 inches in practice yesterday. Emil Hirschfeld's world's record is 52 feet 7½ inches. Lee Sexton, the United States' chief hope, did 52 feet 8 inches in the American final trials.

Shooting Stars Victors.

The Shooting Stars gained a 12 to 4 victory over the Skyrockets as the Girls' Indoor Baseball League season ended last night. The other scheduled contests were forfeited. Kingdom House, with a 7—0 record, won the title.

WYKOFF'S 9.4 MARK APPROVED BY TRACK BODY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 28.—Fourteen new world track and field records, including Frank Wykoff's time of 9.4 seconds for 100 yards, made at Los Angeles in 1930, are due to be put on the books.

They have all been approved by the rules and records committee of the International Amateur Athletic Federation and will be put before the Congress of the I. A. A. F. tomorrow for final adoption.

Only four other American names are on the individual list. They are Paul Jessup, recognized for his world record discus throw of 169 feet 8¾ inches, made at Pittsburgh in 1930; Steve Anderson, equaling 120-yard high hurdles record of 14.4 seconds, and Ben Eastman and Vic Williams, equaling the 440-yard record of 47.4 seconds.

Jules Ladoumegue, the French star recently declared ineligible by the French Federation, is down for two records, 2:23.6 for the 1000 meters and 3:49.2 for 1500 meters.

Paavo Nurmi, the celebrated Finn, also is listed for two more marks—six miles in 29:36.6 and 20,000 meters in 1:04:38.4, both made in 1930.

Other approved records: Broad jump, 26 feet 2⅛ inches, Chuhei Nambu of Japan; 20,000 meters walk, 1:36:34.4, Armando Valente of Italy; 25,000 meters walk, 2:03.49, by Valente of Italy; javelin throw, 239 feet 3¼ inches, Matti Jarvinen of Finland; decathlon, 8255.475 points, Akilles Jarvinen of Finland, one mile and 16,000 meter relay, 3:12.6, by Stanford (Shove, A. Hables, L. Hables and Eastman).

Conspicuously missing are all of the startling feats of American stars this year. Their marks must be passed on by the national convention of the Amateur Athletic Union, held in November, before being submitted to the I. A. A. F. Ben Eastman clipped a full second off the 440-yard mark this spring by covering the distance in 46.4. His conqueror, Bill Carr, did 47 flat for the 440 and 46.9 seconds, also bettering a world mark, for 400 meters.

Tred Avon Ranks With the Leading Fillies of Year

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Take it from a flock of Arlington Park railbirds, that old gray mare, Tred Avon, "ain't what she used to be."

She's even better.

Sporting the silks of Sylvester W. Labrot of Annapolis and lugging top weight of 122 pounds, she conquered seven of the speediest fillies of America at Arlington Park yesterday to win the $10,975 Matron Handicap by the handy margin of a length and a half. Although in trouble during the back stretch run, she reeled the mile distance in 1:37 2-5 and could have gone better if necessary.

The victory, which saw her outfoot such fillies as Con Amore, French Duchess, Evening, Risque, Flag Trick, I say and Betty Deer, made her one of the heaviest winners in the filly ranks, second to Top Flight.

One more rich stake, the $65,000 futurity Saturday, remained on Arlington's rich card.

AMELIA EARHART FORCED DOWN

Takes Auto From Taft, Cal., to Los Angeles.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—Amelia Earhart Putnam, thanks to an automobile, is in Los Angeles to receive the distinguished flying cross and citation from Vice-President Charles Curtis. Mrs. Putnam, who flew solo across the Atlantic ocean, was forced down yesterday at Taft, Cal., while on her way from New York to receive the congressional honor tomorrow afternoon. Explaining faulty gasoline pressure had terminated her air trip Mrs. Putnam abandoned her plane and took an automobile for Los Angeles.

The award of the citation will be made preliminary to the dedication of a new state building here. Vice-President Curtis will be in Los Angeles to open the Olympic games Sunday.

Kills Husband of His Ex-Wife.

By the Associated Press.

TISHOMINGO, Ok., July 28.—Mert Lane, 45 years old, of Springfield, Ill., was held in jail today for the slaying of E. S. Schrader, 55, near here last night. Lane, who married Schrader's first wife after his divorced wife had married Schrader, admitted the killing. He said he fired in self-defense after he had gone to the Schrader home to prevent Schrader from beating Mrs. Schrader. Lane was visiting his daughter, Lola, also the daughter of Mrs. Schrader. The daughter married a son of Schrader.

POSTMASTER SAYS HE STOLE $1200 TO EQUIP OFFICE

Manito (Ill.) Embezzler Pleads Guilty and Begs Court for Clemency.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 28.—An ambition to give Manito, Ill., "the best equipped third-class postoffice in Mason County," led Postmaster William L. Beebe to embezzle more than $1200, he told Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle yesterday.

Pleading guilty to the charge, the Postmaster begged for clemency "not for myself but for my wife and five children." He said none of the money was used for personal needs.

"The people of Manito had seen well-equipped postoffices in other towns and said I should get rid of the old furniture and get some new stuff," he explained. He added that he bought the original furnishings when he became Postmaster, more than 10 years ago, from his predecessor for $500.

Beebe, whose salary was $2000 a year, faces a maximum penalty of five years' imprisonment or a $5000 fine. Sentence was deferred pending disposal of a petition for probation.

HONORED YEAR AFTER FLIGHT

Boardman and Polando Receive Flying Crosses From Hoover.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 28. — Two Trans-atlantic flyers walked from the White House today with distinguished flying crosses, authorized to them by Congress and pinned upon their breasts by President Hoover.

They were Russell Boardman and John Polando, both of Massachusetts, who a year ago today took off on a flight that carried them over 5000 miles of ocean and land to Istanbul, Turkey. In making the presentation, President Hoover said:

"I want to express not only my own appreciation, but the admiration of the whole American people for your daring exploit."

CHILDREN'S CAMP UNDER WAY

Boys' Club Helping Construct Buildings Near De Soto.

Construction of buildings at Happy Land Camp for handicapped children, near De Soto, is being done partly by a group of boys from the Boys' Club. When the camp is completed accommodations will be available for about 40 children.

Although the camp, promoted by St. Louisans, has not opened officially 15 children are there now. The camp has a waiting list of more than 60. Materials for the buildings have been donated by St. Louis firms.

ATTEMPTS TO CORRUPT JURY IN COL. LEA'S TRIAL ALLEGED

By the Associated Press.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 28.—Affidavits alleging attempts to corrupt jurors who convicted Col. Luke Lea of Nashville, his son, Luke Jr., and Wallace Davis, of Asheville, last August of violating the bank laws, were presented at a hearing for a new trial here yesterday. The defense quickly entered a denial that it sponsored them. Judge Clements today overruled the motion for a new trial, but granted the right to appeal and continued bond.

Solicitor Zeb V. Nettles presented to Judge J. H. Clement, during argument of the petition, an affidavit from W. C. Flynn, a juror, saying he had been offered "every inducement" to impeach his verdict. Flynn did not say who offered him the inducements. Other affidavits said financial offers were made in an effort to influence a juror in behalf of the defendants during the trial and to learn how a juror "stood" while the trial was under way.

None of the affidavits connected Col. Leo directly with any attempt at corruption of the jurors. In one, however, Mrs. Lottie Justice, whose husband, Hurt Justice, was foreman of the jury, said her father-in-law, H. L. Justice, and Wiley Nolan told her Col. Lea's attorneys had let it be known he would pay $500 to each of them to learn how her husband "stood."

Col. Leo, his attorneys and counsel for the younger Lea and Davis all entered denials they had made any attempt to bribe jurors or unlawfully influence the jury.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Ind., July 28.—Five persons were killed last night when a train struck their automobile at a Pennsylvania grade crossing two miles southeast of here.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rossman and infant child, Columbus, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rossman, Decatur, Ind. View of the tracks is obstructed by corn fields.

WOMAN ON PORCH HIT BY ONE OF 10 SHOTS FIRED FROM AUTO

Mrs. Helen Ogonoski Sitting With Husband When Man Begins Shooting at Them.

Mrs. Helen Ogonoski, 42 years old, 1010 Pennsylvania avenue, East St. Louis, suffered a flesh wound of the right leg when two men in an automobile fired at her and her husband, Adam, as they sat on the front porch of their home yesterday afternoon. Ogonoski said about 10 shots were fired. Three bullet holes were found in the porch.

Ogonoski told police the two men drove past his house, then turned around a short distance away and returned. As the car drew abreast the house one man began firing. When he ceased the driver speeded up and the car disappeared.

Police are searching for a man who Ogonoski said was the driver of the auto. They believe that the shooting is a sequel to an altercation between John Ogonoski, 23 year-old son of the pair, and six men last Wednesday. The youth was arrested for assault after striking one of the men with an automobile crank.

U.S. BUSINESS MEN TO PRESENT VIEWS TO BRITISH PARLEY

Outsiders at Conference Will Point Out Unofficially the Disadvantages of Certain Proposals.

ENGLAND TRYING FOR A SHOWDOWN

Wants to Learn What Its Industry May Expect in Return for Tariff Favors to Canada.

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 28.—United States interests, watching the British Imperial economic conference closely in an effort to protect their trade advantages in Canada, began today to draft an unofficial statement of views.

The Americans, although outsiders at the conference, planned to indicate the disadvantages that might result to Canadian-American trade if certain proposals before the conference were agreed to.

At the same time Great Britain sought diplomatically to force Canada's hand and to learn what favors British industry might expect in return for preference tariffs favoring Canada.

From the outset Great Britain has made it clear that it cannot act on dominion requests for export advantages until it knows what to expect in return.

Dominions Must Agree First.

Conference procedure provides that the various nations agree among themselves on trade bargains before Great Britain discusses separately with each what favors it must claim. The various delegations, representing the numerous units of the British Empire, are inclined to delay actual bargaining until Canada, titular leader of the conference, indicates what it intends to offer in return for what it hopes to receive.

Canada, on the other hand, has appeared to be waiting to see what Great Britain intends to do.

The interest of the United States, Argentina and other non-empire nations centers around Canada's hand. These outside nations are especially concerned as to what Canada will offer Great Britain in connection with the list of 8000 industrial articles proposed by Premier Bennett of Canada as a bargaining basis.

The first plenary session of the committee on customs administration attracted special notice today from the United States. This was because under the Canadian tariff act of 1930 the powers given to the Minister of National Revenue include virtually arbitrary control over imports.

Under the act, if a Canadian manufacturer complains that a United States producer is underselling him, the Minister of National Revenue may instruct the American firm to increase the selling price above the Canadian manufacturer's, or keep his product out of Canada.

14-Cent Cigarettes Are 55.

Trade experts blame this law for the fact that a cigarette selling in the United States for 14 cents retails here for 55 cents, compared with 25 cents for a comparable Canadian brand.

There was the possibility that the Committee on Customs Administration might discuss duties outside as well as within the empire. If so, United States exporters would get some definite idea of what to look for in Canadian trade.

The semi-official United States view today was that the empire preferences might not be as costly as had been anticipated. It was pointed out that there was in Canada a long cultivated taste for American food products and long familiarity with manufactured articles from the United States. Also considered was the fact that empire competitors would find it difficult to compete in price and quantity with United States concerns.

It would take nations seeking the United States' share of the British fruit markets eight to 10 years, it was argued, to acquire sufficient apple orchards to supply the demand. Even then, there would be the question of whether the trade would be directed from American preference.

The matter of empire parity was before today's session of the Committee on Currency. It was indicated that those parts of the empire most heavily in debt to gold standard creditors would take the lead in opposing any movement for inflation.

No monetary reform is expected by most delegates without an international agreement including non-empire nations.

No monetary reform is expected by most delegates without an international agreement including non-empire nations.

Southern Rhodesia, which produces livestock, agricultural products and citrus fruits in considerable quantity, today followed Canada's lead by offering Great Britain increased tariff preferences.

Similar advances will be made to such other empire countries as are willing to reciprocate. The proposal was made by H. W. Moffatt, head of the Rhodesian delegation.

There was another statement today from Stanley Baldwin, head of the Delegation from the United Kingdom, but it contained no indication of what Great Britain's policy on tariffs would be in the future.

"Representatives of the United Kingdom have entered this conference with the intention of making their full contribution to further extension of empire trade," said Baldwin, "they have put frankly to the dominions the articles on which they will welcome an equally full statement of the corresponding advantages which the dominions seek in British markets."

HITLER PREDICTS EARLY END TO DEMOCRACY IN GERMANY

Tells Berlin Followers Period of Decadence Is Near Its Close—Posters Refer to Him as "Oliver Cromwell."

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 28.—Democracy in Germany was given only a few more days of life today by Adolf Hitler, fiery National Socialist leader.

Winding up an airplane campaign for next Sunday's elections with a speech at Berlin Stadium last night, Hitler brought thunderous cheers from 100,000 of his followers when he said:

"July 31 must remove the rule of democracy and of Marxism and its vassals from Germany and restore a regime of discipline, national conscience, honor and power."

"We aim," he continued, "to sweep the 30 political parties out of the country. We Germans must be a united people. We are on the eve of great historical decisions. The 13 years of decadence (the life of the Republic) are nearing an end."

"We don't believe in the possibilities for international aid, but only in aid founded on our own strength."

The Tuesday night radio speech of Gen. Kurt von Schleicher continued to stir up a furore throughout the country. The Bavarian Courier, organ of the Southern Volkspartei, said the General's reference to strengthening Germany's military power was hardly reconcilable with Chancellor von Papen's efforts for conciliation with France.

Von Schleicher's indorsement of Adolf Hitler's theory that the Reichswehr (army) alone is responsible for Germany's defense also aroused criticism.

The Munich Post, Socialist newspaper, observed that the day might soon come when von Schleicher would be "woefully disillusioned."

"Germay's Oliver Cromwell."

Hitler's campaign posters today set him up as "Germany's Oliver Cromwell" and referred to Cromwell's words, uttered as he dissolved the British Parliament and established his dictatorship nearly 300 years ago—"take away that bauble!"

The National Socialist Premier Roever of Oldenburg, where a Nazi state government is in control, went one better than Hitler, who has said that "heads shall roll" when the Nazis come into power in the nation. In a speech at Kassel, referring to the opponents of the Nazis, Roever said: "I guarantee that these Schweinehunde will be hanged and we'll leave their bodies swinging until the crowd have finished with them."

The Nazis won a victory yesterday when they succeeded in having the Prussian State Ministry, now under the dictatorial control of Chancellor von Papen, repeal the long-standing order which barred National Socialists from holding civil office.

Hans Kerri, Hitler leader and president of the Prussian Diet, demanded that the Chancellor's decree of June 3 taxing civil servants 2½ to 5 per cent of their salaries be rescinded.

Dr. Alfred Hugenburg, Nationalist leader, called for the repeal of the emergency decree of June 14 taxing every German with a job.

In political circles these demands were looked upon as an attempt by the Hitlerites and the Nationalists to square themselves with their followers.

Chancellor von Papen's reply to the demands was guarded. He pointed out that far-reaching financial reorganization would take place after the elections and he said the administrative apparatus would be simplified.

Three deaths and a number of injuries were recorded in political clashes last night. Police shot and killed one man in a group of unemployed at Ruhla after a fight in which three policemen were stabbed.

One Nazi was stabbed to death and another mortally wounded in a political dispute at Oberwiehl, near Cologne.

Three persons were seriously wounded in a fight between Nazis and Iron Fronters (war veterans) at Boinsdorf, near Brunswick.

Economy in Prussia.

The Federal Government, under its dictatorial powers over the state of Prussia, went ahead with its housecleaning of the state administration. Fourteen additional high officials were removed and the Government announced 58 small counties would be joined to larger ones, thereby greatly reducing administrative expenditures.

Franz Bracht, Deputy Commissioner, administering Prussia, announced that a number of county courts would be abolished and that at Berlin economies would be effected by simplifying the administrative apparatus and possibly by amalgamating some ministries, deposed as Prussian Interior Minister Bracht is using a plan drawn up by Dr. Karl Severing, who was later when the dictatorship was set up.

HARVARD MAN IN CONGRESS RACE TALKS TO HARVARD CLUB

Eugene A. Hecker, a Republican, Opposes High Tariffs, Favors Entering League of Nations.

Eugene A. Hecker of Ferguson, candidate for a Republican nomination for Congressman-at-large, spoke yesterday at Hotel Statler to the Harvard Club of St. Louis, of which he is a member, on economic and international questions. He expressed opposition to retaliatory high tariffs, and urged that the United States should formally enter the League of Nations, since it now exercises the functions of membership informally.

Reduction of military expenditures must be simultaneous among the larger nations, Hecker said. The United States, in the meantime, must be ready to repel any attack, for "there is always the possibility that a nation may suddenly, like Japan, lose its reason and strike without warning." He said that a policy of isolation is no longer possible. "The automobile," he said, "is impossible without those essential parts which come from the Orient, Peru and Canada."

The speaker urged strict enforcement of the anti-trust laws, saying that the presumed greater efficiency and economic value of super-business and great mergers had proved to be myths.

Von Papen on Radio Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Franz von Papen, Chancellor of Germany, is to address radio listeners of the United States tomorrow evening at 5 o'clock, St. Louis time, in a rebroadcast from Berlin. He is expected to discuss international matters. The WEAF chain of the National Broadcasting Co. will transmit.

DESIGNER OF ASSOUAN DAM IN EGYPT DIES

Sir William Willcocks Declared Garden of Eden Was North of Bagdad.

By the Associated Press.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 28.—Sir William Willcocks, British engineer and projector and designer of the noted Egyptian Assouan Dam, died today of pneumonia. He was 80 years old.

He was former adviser to the Turkish Ministry of Public Works and created a sensation a number of years ago by declaring the Garden of Eden was situated north of Bagdad.

In 1914 he was retained by the United States Government as consulting engineer for the reclamation service.

ECLIPSE EXPEDITION TO TEST EINSTEIN LIGHT PREDICTION

Georgetown U. Astronomers to Look for Bending of Star Rays During Totality.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—An experiment that may shed light on Albert Einstein's idea that space may be "curved" is planned during the eclipse of the sun Aug. 31 by a Georgetown University expedition that left here yesterday for Maine.

The scientists will try to discover whether light rays from stars beyond the sun are bent as they pass near the sun, said Dr. Paul A. McNally, S. J., leader of the expedition. Einstein predicted that the rays would be bent in this way in accordance with his theory of relativity. During past eclipses some scientists said they found this distortion, while others have found no evidence of it.

An unexplained increase of light at the height of totality of the eclipse will be measured and studied by the expedition. This increase comes when the moon is directly over the sun, and supposedly should be blotting out its light most completely. The expedition will set up an observing station near Fryeburg, Me.

14 in Anglo-French Pact.

LONDON, July 28.—Greece and Austria announced today that they would adhere to Anglo-French consultative pact. This brings to 14 the number of European nations now participating in the arrangement.

BRAZILIAN FEDERALS DEFEAT REBELS AT SEVERAL POINTS

Prisoners Captured and War Equipment Seized; Bombing of Hospital Denied.

By the Associated Press.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 28.—The Government's offensive against the Sao Paulo rebels in the Parahyba River Valley was successful today, it announced. The Federal forces captured 149 prisoners and also took a great deal of war equipment, the announcement said.

Troops from the State of Minas Geraes under Col. Amaral invaded the northern region of Sao Paulo and drove the rebels out of the towns of Sao Joao and Daboavista, capturing a quantity of munitions. The Government denied radio reports from Sao Paulo that Federal airplanes had bombed a hospital. Only proclamations were dropped over the cities, it said.

Gen. Waldomiro Lima's Federal force of 8000 men swung to the north 125 miles above Itarrare, the Government announced, and defeated a rebal force, capturing a battalion of 353. The General radioed that the rebels attacked the Federal vanguard 20 miles north of Faxina, in Sao Paulo State. Twenty of his troops were wounded in the battle, he said.

DECREE SEEKS TO PROTECT FRENCH AGAINST U. S. FILMS

Order Signed by President Designed to Safeguard Morals and Producers.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 28.—Close inspection of motion picture films from Hollywood and elsewhere to protect French morals and French producers was ordered today in a decree signed by President Lebrun.

The decree will be effective for one year. It provides certain agencies of control which may be used against practices considered harmful to the French film industry or morals, but apparently there is no fixed license or quota scheme.

"Certain countries by their methods of production or the extent of their market," says a summary, "could annihilate or at least compromise the French industry if the Government did not reserve the possibility of safeguarding French producers."

WIDOW OF PRINCE LEOPOLD OF BAVARIA DIES AT 75

Former Archduchess Gisela of Austria and Daughter of Late Emperor Franz Joseph.

By the Associated Press.

MUNICH, Germany, July 28.—Princess Leopold of Bavaria, the eldest daughter of the late Emperor Franz Joseph of Austria and Empress Elizabeth, died here yesterday after an apoplectic stroke on May 24. She was 75 years old.

Princess Leopold was formerly Archduchess Gisela of Austria. She was the wife of Field Marshal Prince Leopold of Bavaria, uncle of the present Crown Prince Rupprecht, who died two years ago at the age of 85. They celebrated their golden wedding in 1923.

GRAIN PROJECT IN ARGENTINA

Nation to Spend $38,000,000 on Chain of Elevators.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 28.—The Argentine Information Bureau yesterday reported the Argentine Government was planning a $38,000,000 chain of country and terminal elevators for that country's grain trade.

The bureau received a cable saying a draft of a proposed law had been submitted by the Government to the Argentine Congress in a "far-reaching program to bring about a complete modernization and systematization of Argentina's grain trade." The plan provides for financing the undertaking through an issue of 150,000,000 pesos, or about $38,000,000, of 6 per cent bonds, either externally or internally.

ANCIENT HAREM UNCOVERED

Hall of Hundred Columns Built by Xerxes' Son.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Members of the Persian expedition of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago have uncovered the Hall of a Hundred Columns, a harem built by Artaxerxes I, son of Xerxes.

They also found beneath the harem of the palace an old Persian cuneiform inscription of 40 lines recording the life, ancestry and accession of Xerxes.

U. S. AMBASSADOR TALKS TO HERRIOT ON DISARMAMENT

That, Says Edge, Is Basis for Co-Operation Between French and American Governments.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 28.—Disarmament constitutes the basis for co-operation between the United States and Europe, Ambassador Walter E. Edge told Premier Edouard Herriot yesterday when he paid a courtesy call on his return from Washington.

The Embassy announced that the conversation between the Ambassador and the Premier covered Franco-American relations generally, but did not include war debts.

Americans feel keenly about disarmament, Edge told Herriot, and if Europe wants American aid disarming would be good preparation for it.

"Mr. Edge, upon his return from the United States, paid a courtesy call on Mr. Herriot accompanied by Norman Armour, counselor to the Embassy," said an official communique.

"The Ambassador told the Premier of his pleasure at the results obtained at Lausanne and Geneva.

"M. Herriot expressed satisfaction at having had an opportunity to work in the spirit of loyal co-operation with the American delegation at Geneva to give the greatest possible practical effect to the specific desires of President Hoover."

"Mr. Edge was pleased to recognize in the work already accomplished an encouraging indication of the helpful effect which active and mutually confiding collaboration of the two peoples could have in the future."

High French officials had been awaiting Edge's return and, although it was officially stated that war debts had not been discussed, the opinion was expressed that this problem could not be avoided much longer.

American representatives have been anxious to prevent any impression that action by Washington on war debts was dependent on further disarmament. They considered this an improper way of carrying on negotiations. But the belief exists that French leaders understand the American people would be more favorable toward war debt action if disarmament and outstanding commercial questions were advanced toward solution.

Edge will resume negotiations for a commercial treaty, he told Herriot, and as the new Franco-British accord provides for a commercial understanding between France and Great Britain a Franco-American treaty also would seem to be a logical development.

From French sources it was learned that the Premier assured the Ambassador the Franco-British accord was in no sense aggressive.

The belief was expressed that no official negotiations with Washington on the question of war debts were likely until after the American elections.

Senator Watson Says Disarmament Must Precede Conference.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Actual disarmament by Europe was demanded yesterday by Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, as a preliminary to any world economic conference on war debts and reparations.

"It is unthinkable," said Watson, "that we should permit them (the European nations) to keep the money they owe us to enable them to build up larger military establishments, and as far as we can see that is their plan and purpose."

Administration interest in the international situation and Senator Borah's proposal for a world economic conference was manifested by a conference Tuesday night between Secretary Stimson and Borah. Stimson called the meeting and Borah's proposition was discussed. While there was evidence that he had received encouragement, Borah declined to comment on the talk and so did Stimson.

Watson said he had not talked with President Hoover on the Borah plan.

Meanwhile, Ambassador Mellon reached the White House from his London post. He emphasized that an international conference would be almost impossible before autumn because of the British conference now in progress at Ottawa.

Mellon made a report to the President and Secretary Stimson on the European situation.

HOOVER CALLS CONFERENCE ON FIVE-DAY WEEK

Representatives From Recent New England Meeting to Consult Him at White House Monday.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—President Hoover will undertake next Monday to promote the plan to spread employment throughout the nation by means of a wider use of the five-day week in industry.

He issued a call yesterday to representatives of a recent New England joint conference on re-employment to meet with him at the White House for a discussion of "what further co-ordinated steps can be taken" to shorten working hours.

Gov. Winant of New Hampshire last week telegraphed to Mr. Hoover requesting that such a conference be held. White House officials said the President originally intended to hold the meeting today, but changed his plans for the convenience of the conferees. No mention was made of the number to be present.

The chief executive already has instructed the departments of labor and commerce, to re-survey the industrial and employment fields to determine how the shorter work wek is spreading and the possibilities for its further use.

He has not disclosed whether he intends to call again such a series of conferences as he held two years ago with employes and labor leaders to gain assurance that wages would be maintained and employment spread.

In a resolution adopted by the New England conference it was concluded that "co-operative national action to achieve job security by job sharing seems imperative."

A Catholic on Father Cox.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

CERTAINLY, thousands of Catholics, like the writer, have read with varying reactions the statements attributed to the Rev. James Cox of Pittsburgh, reprinted from the newspaper Tevere in the Post-Dispatch of Sunday, July 17. There he announced, in connection with other departures from the proper functions of a clergyman, his candidacy for the presidency of the United States, as the self-acclaimed champion of the Jobless-Liberty party.

These same Catholics, I dare say, await in uniform accord and confidence, a repudiation from the authoritative voice of the Catholic Church to direct this demagogic preacher of errant political conceptions, back to the harvest of souls for which he was instructed and ordained.

"Render therefore unto Caesar, the things that are Caesar's, and to God, the things that are God's." These divine words have sounded down through the centuries from St. Mark, proclaiming to the world Catholicism's amicable detachment from government and materiality. Again, from St. John, the magnificent words of Christ, in the ordeal of His Passion and Cross—"My Kingdom is not of this world"—are further manifestations to this follower of Christ that he has neglected his noble calling to encroach upon lay prerogatives.

"Either my party or Communism" prates the gentleman, and then announces his intention to take all the wealth of the country, consolidate it into a state fund and assume the administration of banks. No intelligent differentiation can be drawn between his doctrines and Communism—yet Communism is avowedly atheistic and diametrically opposed to all religion as an invention of the upper class to placate the masses with fallacious hope of heaven and immortality, while exploiting them under the iron heel of capitalism. To know how Father Cox reconciles his duality would be enlightening indeed.

With the Roman Catholic laity, I denounce political clergymen of any denomination. We recognize, in the political creed of Father Cox, a palpably Red and calamitous structure. Vigilant adversaries of the Catholic Church will readily misconstrue his utterances as official, and accordingly fertilize the field of religious bigotry and traditional hatred.

That Father Cox solemnly dedicate his future efforts to the spiritual welfare of mankind, reserving unto the laity the pathology of their political and economic interests is the prayerful hope of many.

Less Than a Dollar a Day.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ALLOW me to comment on your recent editorial concerning the proposed miners' wage scale. Is it your advice that the miners should go to work under any condition or wage that the operators offer? Did you ever figure out the wages per day of a miner in one year under the old scale? Do you know that, under this widely advertised $5 per day scale, a miner's actual earnings per day in one year would be less than a dollar a day?

Years ago the standard of an American family of five was set at $3000 or $3200. Where are we today if we cannot earn a dollar a day?

A Monroe Doctrine for the Far East.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHILE the Kellogg pact was being ratified, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee reported: "Each nation is free at all times and regardless of the treaty provisions to defend itself, and is the sole judge of what constitutes the right of self-defense and the necessity and the extent of the same. The United States regards the Monroe Doctrine as a part of its national security and defense. Under the right of self-defense allowed by the treaty must necessarily be included the right to maintain the Monroe Doctrine, which is a part of our system of national defense."

A month ago, Viscount Ishii, Japan's wartime Ambassador to Washington, proclaimed for the Far East what James Monroe asserted for the Western Hemisphere 109 years ago.

A minor portion of American opinion indicates some hesitancy in accepting the Ishii Doctrine. Such hesitancy does not seem to be warranted by wisdom which approves of the American conception of the Monroe Doctrine as a part of the system of national defense.

It is imperative that the Ishii Doctrine for the Far East be sustained and upheld with fervency and impetuosity, if the Monroe Doctrine is to retain its prestige for the Western Hemisphere. Each one of these doctrines is inspired by one and the same leit motif—a system of national defense. The Ishii Doctrine shall be the eternal light to direct the destiny of the Far East. It has been firmly and securely woven into the fabric of international life. It is a doctrine which neither time nor circumstances can ever destroy. Esto perpetua.

The Tragedy of Politics and the War Debts

It is evident that the administration desires to keep the war debt question out of the campaign. This is despite the conversion of Senator Borah, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, to some amelioration of the situation, and his warning that delay is hazardous.

The administration apparently intends to postpone action until the election is out of the way. In the meantime, it will adhere to its stated position: the reparations settlement is purely a European matter. It is no concern of ours. It has nothing to do with the problem of war debts. We shall resist any united action by our debtors looking toward a reduction of their obligations. They may, however, approach us individually and independently to request reconsideration. We will not cancel. But we will consider revision on the basis of capacity to pay.

Such is the official attitude. There are many proponents of debt reduction who believe a satisfactory settlement can be obtained in this way. They point out that we have already made one reduction in these obligations while officially maintaining our intention to collect them in full. By reducing the rate of interest and postponing the date of maturity, the post-war debt-refunding operations resulted in cuts which ranged all the way from 25 per cent in the case of Great Britain to 75 per cent in the case of Italy. And this was done without formally relinquishing our purpose of complete collection. If it was done once, it is argued, it can be done again. The President has refused to consider cancellation. But he is still free to negotiate a settlement which will involve the acceptance of a lump sum so small as to amount to virtual cancellation while still preserving the fiction of collection. And this is to be done between the time when Congress again convenes on Dec. 5 and the date when the next payments are due, Dec. 15.

If we pursue this policy, of course, we will pretend one thing while we intend another. We will do the decent thing in the most indecent possible manner. We will make concessions, but we will make them with bad grace. We will play the good Samaritan in the habiliments of Shylock. We will grant Europe what we must, but we will do so with such apparent reluctance as to gain nothing in good will.

It would be dangerous, admittedly, to pursue any other course at the present time. If the administration were to act promptly and frankly, it might throw the whole question into the political campaign. Congressional hostility toward our debtors has demonstrated that they would be denounced from the stump for conspiring against us, insulting us and holding a club over our heads. Each of the nations with which we were associated in the war would be charged with bad faith.

To say this, to be sure, is to express a certain cynicism toward democracy. But we must recall that the Republicans omitted any reference to the war debts from the platform this year, that the Democratic platform declares against cancellation, and that Gov. Roosevelt personally has said he opposes letting our debtors off. Such is the obscurantism of the Republicans, and such is the power of Hearst in the councils of the Democrats. It is a tragedy of the gravest nature, one of the terrible prices the American people pay for freedom. We are better off in the end for being able to govern ourselves, but there are times when we could not be governed worse.

The policy of postponement, on the other hand, is not without its dangers. It will unquestionably delay European economic recovery. The final settlement of reparations waits upon our action. It will not take effect until it is signed by Germany's creditors. It will not be signed until these creditors obtain favorable action on their debts to us. If we eventually refuse to act, the whole problem will revert to its pre-moratorium status. The Young plan will be nominally restored until another conference is called for further consideration. Until we act, the whole situation will be clouded with uncertainty. The three billion dollars which our citizens have invested in Germany will be endangered. If defaults occur, as they probably will, confidence will be further impaired. If our Congress takes no action looking toward settlement in the 10 days preceding Dec. 15, the payment of war debts will also be in default. Continued refusal to act might even drive Europe to repudiation. Any one of these developments would destroy international amity and impede business recovery. Senator Borah said in his radio address of last Saturday night, in which he proposed an international economic conference:

> I know of no way to bring about or bring into effect a program such as would justify the reduction or cancellation of the debts and bring about a better condition, economically and financially, than by means of an economic and monetary conference, a conference which would be permitted to deal with reparations and debts, disarmament, the re-establishment of the gold standard (31 nations now being off the gold standard), the stabilization of silver in the Orient, and possibly other questions. I do not overlook tariffs, but these will, in my judgment, have to be adjusted through the action of the respective Governments which will be made possible after the adjustment of other problems. Enlightened self-interest will urge such a course upon the part of the respective Governments after the other problems are out of the way.

The stakes are tremendous. Delay is hazardous. Sixty days of depression in the latter part of 1932 will be more devastating than six months in the latter part of 1930. If the upward trend does not start before the cold winds of December, conditions will be nothing less than appalling. We should enter such a conference where there is so much involved without any limitation and with no other objective than to aid in the preservation of modern civilization.

This is the risk which we will run in delaying action, notwithstanding the reiteration of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's warning upon his return from Europe this week that every interest of the American people requires that we act quickly in reference to the war debts. For at least five more months we shall keep alive this impediment to industrial revival. This is the course upon which the administration has embarked. Our real tragedy is that we might have been spared these dangers. For the past decade, American political leaders have made of this issue a vehicle for facile appeals to popular prejudice. They have lacked the honesty or the courage to interpret its complexities to the people in their true light. They have wholly ignored the great trading value of the war debts as a means to disarmament and peace. It is this default of responsibility which has launched us upon the hazardous course we must now pursue.

Senator Reed's Obligation

Former Senator Reed is to be entertained at luncheon tomorrow by his St. Louis friends when, it is expected, he will discuss the primary election. Up to now Mr. Reed has maintained a strict neutrality as between two of his party's candidates for the nomination for United States Senator, Col. Bennett C. Clark and Charles M. Howell. His explanation is that they are both his personal friends. He has fired a broadside at Charles M. Hay whom he does not like at all. So it is a necessary inference that our former Senator's attitude towards contestants for the high office he himself occupied so long and brilliantly is determined solely by his personal likes or dislikes.

Such deportment does Mr. Reed no honor. Here is a great office. It is important, not only from the standpoint of the State, but for the welfare of the nation, that a man of the first rank be chosen for it. Ability and character are pre-requisites, together with a record such as opportunity has permitted the aspirant to make, plus a political philosophy in tune with the pressing needs of this difficult, transitional period. There may be honest differences of opinion as to how adequately some of the contenders measure up to the requirements, and in such instances the citizen's choice, or hesitancy to choose, is properly respected. But where a candidate's career has disqualified him for such solemn public trust, as in the case of Mr. Howell, opposition to such a candidate seems to us a binding obligation. Particularly is this obligation binding on a man who has been so signally honored as Mr. Reed has been, and whose preference presumably influences public opinion.

Mr. Reed's neutrality in the present contest is indefensible. It is indefensible for the reason that it commits him as pronouncing Mr. Howell worthy to represent Missouri in the Senate. That commitment is not the truth. And while friendship is an admirable attribute, no fair construction of it can justify friendship in compounding such a deception as certifying to the senatorial caliber of Mr. Howell.

James A. Reed is no longer in office; but he is, and to the end will continue to be, in public life. He wears a mantle of leadership he cannot discard. That mantle of leadership, in our opinion, demands that he speak as counsel to his party and as a matter of good faith to his State and to his country.

Yielding to Mr. Short

We yield to the Rev. Dewey Short of Galena, former Congressman and now Republican candidate for the United States Senate:

> Mr. Short (at the St. Louis City Club): I am the only Republican senatorial candidate running on the prohibition plank of the Republican national platform. My St. Louis opponents, Messrs. Priest, Kiel and Kratky, have adopted the Democratic plank, and my Kansas City opponent, B. F. Beazell, takes an extreme dry stand.
>
> Mr. Short (speaking recently in the basement of a church at Marionville): Despite the fact that I am known as a wet candidate, I want you to know I am a dry. If anyone tells you that Dewey Short is wet, tell them to go jump into the river.
>
> Mr. Short (in announcing his candidacy last June 4): In the name of decent living and good government, I feel a change is now imperative. I am convinced the eighteenth amendment should be modified, permitting self-determination by states. The blatant and insidious evils of prohibition must be eradicated if our Government is to endure.

Thus, the gentleman from Galena is wet in the city, dry in country church basements and, we presume, moist in the suburbs. Thus variously does he interpret the liquor plank in the Republican platform.

Chicago, Illinois and the Election

Chicago is being laughed at widely because in its effort to collect back taxes and assessments it auctioned off for $34 the home of a city employe whose unpaid salary amounted to $850. An Eastern newspaper goes so far as to say that the incident likely will rank in history with Mrs. O'Leary's cow. Such a transaction is assuredly lamentable, but there are many tragedies in Chicago's heroic struggle out of one of the worst tax muddles in municipal history.

It is no easy task, that of repairing a revenue structure which broke down five years ago and has not functioned since. Any city treasury would be drained, its employes and school teachers unpaid, if its source of income was shut off indefinitely. As the result of a decision by the Illinois State Supreme Court, handed down this week, back taxes amounting to $70,000,000 are now legally collectible. Judgment ordering paid the delinquent sums of 1928 and 1929 validates the assessments since those dates.

What Chicago has reaped and is still reaping is the cost of its fling with Big Bill Thompson. A taxpayers' strike was not the way out. That only served to aggravate the evils which followed in the wake of municipal bankruptcy. Chicago's mistake was in allowing Thompson to return to the City Hall in 1927, after it had at length ousted him four years before. As for the efforts of Mayor Cermak to bring order from the chaos, the word of the Chicago Daily News, a Republican newspaper, may be taken as typical of the attitude of the city's substantial citizens. Says the Daily News:

> Not since the great fire has any Mayor of Chicago faced responsibilities more burdensome, obstacles more stubborn or tasks more serious than those which have fallen to the lot of Mayor Cermak. And no Mayor ever toiled more diligently to extricate the city from its difficulties and to provide for the security and welfare of its people.
>
> Not the least ominous thing about the November election in Illinois is the possibility that blind party adherence on the part of the voters will return Big Bill Thompson to power. He is the Chicago manager of Len Small's campaign for Governor. In the event of the latter's election, Thompson will share largely in the control of the State government. It is because of Thompson's record and Small's record that leading Republican newspapers in Chicago, like the Daily News and the Tribune, have repudiated the Small candidacy and are supporting Judge Horner, the Democratic nominee, a man of marked ability.
>
> The question is not whether the Republicans or the Democrats shall control the Illinois administration. It is whether proved bad government shall be permitted to carry on to ruin.

UNDER NEW POWER.

Wrecking a Continent

South America lies in economic prostration, due largely, first to a flood of loans from U. S. bankers, in many cases irresponsibly extended, and second, to a tariff policy which deprived South America of export trade and, therefore, of means to pay back the loans; U. S. obligated to go to South America's assistance.

From the New Republic.

SINCE the depression began, 57,000,000 people in seven South American countries have violently overturned their governments. The current Chilean revolt (Chile's third revolution in less than 12 months) is a symptom of continent-wide unrest. For this, we in the United States are partly to blame. South America's troubles, to a great extent, are due to ignorant, irresponsible banking and tariff policies in this country.

Last winter the Senate Finance Committee inquired into the methods by which during the flush years of 1926-29 loans were forced upon South American countries. The most startling evidence came from two partners in J. & W. Seligman & Co., who told of paying $415,000 to Juan Leguia, son of the former dictator of Peru, for arranging three Peruvian bond issues. Apparently the only criterion for South American loans during these years was whether they could be sold at a profit to investors.

A number of highly placed Americans, including Mr. Hoover, foresaw the dangers in this indiscriminate lending. In 1928, Mr. Hoover publicly demanded that no further loans be made to South America except for immediately productive purposes. Almost simultaneously the Chase National Bank and Dillon, Read & Co. arranged a loan for Bolivia, by which the Bolivian Government was enabled to make heavy arms purchases from Vickers, Armstrong Co. in England. It is absurd to say that Mr. Hoover and the leaders of the New York banking community could not have prevented this transaction and others similarly wasteful.

The panic on the New York Stock Exchange in October, 1929, put an abrupt stop to further South American lending. During 1926-28, loans from the United States had permitted South America to import foreign manufactures in great volume. Certain imported manufactures (for example, textiles and machinery) formed an essential part of the South American standard of living. The sudden cutting off of loans from the United States meant that this standard would have to be curtailed.

The South American countries, however, had no notion of the catastrophe which had been prepared for them. They sought, naturally enough, to defend their standards of living and continue the import of foreign manufactures. Since loans from the United States had become unobtainable, they sought to pay for their manufactured imports by increasing their exports of raw commodities. But in 1929-30 world markets were shrinking, not expanding. The South Americans flung their raw commodities upon world markets and prices broke precipitously.

South America was then defenseless. Nearly every country, thanks to the bankers of the United States, found itself burdened with a needlessly inflated foreign debt. South America rapidly began giving up its gold to the New York Federal Reserve Bank and within a few months the continent was sucked nearly dry. Deprived of a gold backing, South American currencies became the sport of speculators. Finally, in the summer of 1931, the majority of South American nations were forced into open default on their external obligations.

Governments in South America depend largely upon customs receipts and export taxes for their revenue. As these dropped off, governmental salaries had to be reduced. With this, the circle of unrest was complete. Producers of raw commodities, city commission merchants, political jobholders and army officers were united in discontent and anger. Governmental upsets were inescapable and, since 1929, revolutions have taken place in Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Ecuador and Peru.

Not all South American nations, of course, fit this broad pattern with exactness. Argentina, by savagely restricting imports, has managed to cling to part of its gold. Brazil, after unsuccessfully attempting to force increased coffee exports on the world market, has embarked on a fantastic valorization scheme, which involves the destruction by burning of 16,000,000 bags of coffee, the equivalent of one year's crop. Venezuela, partly because of its intimate relations with oil companies in the United States and partly because of the spy system of old Gen. Juan Vicente Gomez, has had no serious revolutionary outbreaks.

* * *

There was one moment in the South American debacle when the United States might have intervened with great effect. On June 25, 1931, in the midst of feverish negotiations for the German moratorium, it was announced at the White House that Antonio Planet, the Chilean Finance Minister, had proposed a conference of all South American states in Washington, and that Mr. Hoover was inclined to favor a moratorium for South America. Nothing more was ever heard of this plan. Had a South American moratorium been granted, however, and had it been followed by a minimum amount of assistance from New York bankers, it might have been of incalculable benefit.

The tariff policy of the United States has been similarly selfish and short-sighted. In the autumn of 1929 we first shut off South American loans, compelling each South American country for the sake of its financial equilibrium to increase its exports; then, in the spring of 1930, Congress approved the Hawley-Smoot tariff. To countries like Argentina, the Hawley-Smoot tariff was a major calamity.

We have an obligation to the South American countries which we have helped to ruin. It will not be met merely by giving them more money; a country, an institution or a person in the long run is hurt rather than assisted by loans given when operating at a loss. A combination of types of assistance is needed—in some cases additional funds, in many instances a moratorium on present payments, and most of all, a reconsideration of our tariff policy to aid commerce rather than to paralyze it.

New Biographies for Old

From the New York Times.

WHEN one goes through the books on his shelves, casting out unwanted volumes to make room for new, he is often surprised to find that his literary tastes have changed. In a public library, the business of weeding out little-used books reflects the trend in wider preferences. The Newark Public Library reports that the present boom in biography has caused a tremendous upheaval on its shelves.

Most of the tomes carried off to a secluded fourth-floor retreat belong to the class described by Lytton Strachey: "Those two fat volumes with which it is our custom to commemorate the dead—who does not know them, with their ill-digested masses of material, their slipshod style, their tone of tedious panegyric, their lamentable lack of selection, of detachment, of design!" The biographies taking their place are shorter, livelier, nearer to the novel. They exploit the human qualities of their subject rather than his fame.

Most conspicious among the missing on the superannuated list are "memoirs and biographies of titled Englishmen who served in Parliament or in the administration of affairs of the Empire." Who was the last plucky soul to plow through six volumes of the "Recollections of a Long Life," by Lord Broughton, before he was trundled off to the upstairs stacks? Royalty went with him in force.

The second largest of the retreating companies is made up of English and American divines. There are no more eager inquirers for the life of Dean Hook or of the Rev. J. G. Wood. Savants and military heroes have also slumped. Wellington and Napoleon still hold their inexpugnable positions, but Gen. Roeliff Brinkerhaff and Vice Admiral Jahleel Brenton have joined the ranks of oblivion.

The field of biography has shifted. Before 1900, "a General, a Minister or a pious lady (with a title)" was considered a prize. Nowadays, the biographer with one eye on his public goes gunning for scientists, captains of industry, "bosses," or indiscreet ladies. Instead of "A Belle of the Fifties, Memories of Mrs. Clay of Alabama," we have "Better Left Unsaid," by Daisy, Princess of Pless. "Orestes H. Brownson's Middle Life" must make way for "The Peerless Leader: William Jennings Bryan."

The technique of the new biography runs to debunking or romanticising, spiced with irony and sardonic comment. The writer who has a flair for it can pick his subject where he will. A new biography by Strachey or Guedalla or Maurois is pretty certain to be a one-week book, not renewable.

RADIO CONTROL NEEDED.

From the Baton Rouge (La.) Times.

THE legitimate future of radio is in the cultural field. Radio's proper sphere is in the diffusion of art, education, science and music in daily more defined as the national radio audience is tired of dialing from one jumbled advertising blurb to another. The "empire of the air" is the domain of the American people, and their right to hear programs commensurate with their investments in radio equipment is asserting itself.

Perhaps the ultimate solution of radio will be some modified plan of control by which the interests of American education and amusement will be protected and the intellectual level of programs raised. It certainly does not lie in the present path of haphazard operation, which has resulted in enormous losses to radio companies, and the deprivation of the radio audience of the best that could be offered.

LITHOGRAPH EXHIBIT AT CITY ART MUSEUM

Wood Engravings To Go on Display Tomorrow; 14 Countries Represented.

Wood engravings and lithographs by artists of 14 countries are to be shown in City Art Museum in Forest Park beginning tomorrow. The collection, which will remain until Aug. 28, was selected from the third international exhibition of lithography and wood engraving at Chicago Art Institute.

The first prize print, "Wagons of the Heath," a woodcut by the English artist, Muriel Jackson, is among the examples in the exhibition here. Other prize winning artists whose works are included are Honore Guilbeau, Ian A. J. Cheyne and Jose M. Pavon.

Critics have commented that this exhibition more than those of other years indicates the wide variety and individual quality of these two mediums, wood engraving tending toward decorative effect and lithography developing the subtle values and rich texture of painting.

England, France, Germany and the United States contribute most to the exhibition and each group is marked by recognizable national characteristics.

The prints of France and Germany reflect the painter, rather than the illustrator. Typical is Georges Rouault's "Circus Rider," which in its strong rhythm of blacks and grays suggests one of his own paintings, taken over to another medium. The German prints, as the painting of artists of that country, are powerful rather than subtle or decorative.

The American artists are less eager to do decorative work or to set down deep human qualities, but are concerned with immediate impressions. They are interested, too, in the humor of the scene as is exemplified by the lithographs of Peggy Bacon, Doris Rosenthal and Francis Cranmer Greenman. In contrast there is a group of serious wood engravers occupied in presenting their material through carefully laid design and finish.

CURTAILS AID TO VETERANS

U. S. Eliminates 33 Beds at Jefferson Barracks Hospital.

Thirty-three beds provided for the Veterans' Hospital at Jefferson Barracks last summer have been eliminated in accordance with an order of the Veterans' Administration, reducing the number of beds to 276, the regular capacity of the hospital.

The reduction was made necessary by the failure of Congress to appropriate funds for the extra patients. There is a waiting list of about 600 veterans who have applied for treatment at the hospital.

LITHOGRAPH EXHIBIT AT CITY ART MUSEUM

Wood Engravings To Go on Display Tomorrow; 14 Countries Represented.

Wood engravings and lithographs by artists of 14 countries are to be shown in City Art Museum in Forest Park beginning tomorrow. The collection, which will remain until Aug. 28, was selected from the third international exhibition of lithography and wood engraving at Chicago Art Institute.

The first prize print, "Wagons on the Heath," a woodcut by the English artist, Muriel Jackson, is among the examples in the exhibition here. Other prize winning artists whose works are included are Honore Guilbeau, Ian A. J. Cheyne and Jose M. Pavon.

Critics have commented that this exhibition more than those of other years indicates the wide variety and individual quality of these two mediums, wood engraving tending toward decorative effect and lithography developing the subtle values and rich texture of painting.

England, France, Germany and the United States contribute most to the exhibition and each group is marked by recognizable national characteristics.

The prints of France and Germany reflect the painter, rather than the illustrator. Typical is Georges Rouault's "Circus Rider" which in its strong rhythm of blacks and grays suggests one of his own paintings, taken over to another medium. The German prints, as the painting of artists of that country, are powerful rather than subtle or decorative.

The American artists are less eager to do decorative work or to set down deep human qualities, but are concerned with immediate impressions. They are interested, too, in the humor of the scene as is exemplified by the lithographs of Peggy Bacon, Doris Rosenthal and Francis Cranmer Greenman. In contrast there is a group of serious wood engravers occupied in presenting their material through carefully laid design and finish.

CURTAILS AID TO VETERANS

U. S. Eliminates 33 Beds at Jefferson Barracks Hospital.

Thirty-three beds provided for the Veterans' Hospital at Jefferson Barracks last summer have been eliminated in accordance with an order of the Veterans' Administration, reducing the number of beds to 376, the regular capacity of the hospital.

The reduction was made necessary by the failure of Congress to appropriate funds for the extra patients. There is a waiting list of about 600 veterans who have applied for treatment at the hospital.

MUNICIPAL OPERA TO PLAY 'LOVE CALL' NOT 'KATJA'

Augustus Thomas Invited to Attend Operatic Version of His Play "Arizona."

Augustus Thomas, playwright and former St. Louisan, has been invited by Henry W. Kiel, president of the Municipal Theater Association, to be the guest of the Municipal Opera at its presentation during the week of Aug. 15 to 21 of "The Love Call," an operetta based on Thomas' play, "Arizona."

"The Love Call," which has been substituted for "Katja," was presented by the Municipal Opera at the opening of its season in 1929. In the coming production the original costumes and properties of the New York production of 1927 will be used. The cast will include Charlotte Lansing, Clifford Newdahl, George Houston, Allan Jones, Manila Powers, Jack Sheehan, Harry K. Morton, Hope Emerson, and Lorraine Weimar.

NEW OFFICERS FOR SHRINERS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The Imperial Council, governing body of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, balloted on officers yesterday. In accordance with custom, each officer except the recorder and secretary was moved up one step.

The one vacancy at the bottom, the post of imperial outer guard, was filled with election of Thomas C. Laws of Atlanta, Ga. In ordinary progression, he will become imperial potentate in 1944. Earl C. Mills of Des Moines, Ia., was advanced to imperial potentate, and George F. Olendorf, Springfield, Mo., imperial captain of the guard.

JAMES J. BARRETT DIES AT POLITICAL MEETING

Former State Labor Commissioner Had Just Introduced Dearmont Speaker.

James J. Barrett, State Labor Commissioner under former Gov. Major, died suddenly last night while presiding at a Fourth Ward Dearmont-for-Governor meeting at 2608 Cass avenue.

Death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage, according to Dr. August Henke, Mr. Barrett's physician.

Mr. Barrett had taken his seat after introducing a speaker at 9:15 o'clock when he was seen to raise a hand to his head. A moment later he fell to the floor. He was dead when Dr. Henke, who was called from his home at 2206 Howard street, reached the hall. The body was removed to a mortuary at 1710 North Grand boulevard.

Born in St. Louis 62 years ago, Mr. Barrett studied law. An active Democrat, he entered the State Legislature 30 years ago, serving one term. Appointed State Labor Commissioner by Gov. Major, Mr. Barrett became Commissioner of Conciliation for the Federal Department of Labor during the World War. In recent years he had been an insurance adjuster, with offices in the Wainwright Building.

Mr. Barrett resided at 5048 Northland avenue with his wife, Mrs. Mary Barrett. A son, Patrolman Edward Barrett, and a daughter, Mrs. V. A. Widbelsman of Boston, also survive. Funeral arrangements await the arrival of Mrs. Wibdelsman.

Mr. Barrett has been one of Senator Dearmont's most active supporters. Last week he suffered a severe attack of indigestion, necessitating medical treatment, but he continued without interruption his activity in behalf of Dearmont's candidacy.

Progressive G. O. P. Club Meeting.

A meeting of the Tenth Ward Progressive Republican Club will be held tomorrow night at Swiss Hall Garden, Iowa avenue and Arsenal street. The club is supporting Leo F. Kechler, wet candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. Oliver Kratz, Tenth Ward Republican Committeeman, and Mrs. Louis W. Schneider, Committeewoman, will be in charge of the meeting.

William McFee Weds Again.

By the Associated Press.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 28.—Six months after obtaining a divorce from his first wife, William McFee, writer of sea stories, yesterday married Miss Beatrice Allender of West Port. McFee, a West Port marine engineer, gave his age as 51 years. The author in 1920 married Pauline Khondoff, whom he met in Smyrna during the World War. She deserted him in 1927, McFee said.

Virginia Woman Author Dies.

NORFOLK, Va., July 28.—Mrs. Kate Langley Bosher, 67 years old, author, died here last night. "Mary Carey" and "Miss Gibbie Gault," published in 1910 and 1911, were Mrs. Bosher's best known books, although she published seven others between 1911 and 1918.

PUBLIC MEETINGS AND ENTERTAINMENTS

A minstrel show by a group of young women of the Peters Memorial Presbyterian Church will be presented at the weekly roof garden meeting at the Y. W. C. A., 1411 Locust street, at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow evening.

The Independent Voters' Association will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at Rubicam Hall, Grand boulevard and Potomac street. Candidates whose ideas on taxation are in accord with the policies of the association are to be indorsed.

An open air meeting sponsored by the Twelfth Ward Republican precinct organization will be held at Alabama avenue and Blow street at 8 o'clock this evening. Political candidates will speak. The meeting will be postponed until tomorrow in case of rain.

Women Win July Bridge Cup.

Mrs. Robert Hafferkamp Jr. and Mrs. Ruth Luehrman won the July cup in the contract bridge tournament conducted by Miss Nellie Robnett at North Hills Country Club. This team was high out of 154 entrants. The August session will open next Wednesday at 10 a. m.

F. J. Falk Promoted.

E. J. Falk of St. Louis has been appointed assistant general freight agent of the Missouri Pacific Railroad. He has been chief clerk to the freight traffic manager, having held various positions in the road's traffic department since 1912. He obtained the chief clerkship in 1927.

APPEAL FOR 15,000 FAMILIES NOT PLACED ON RELIEF ROLL

Unemployed Councils Telegraphs Gov. Caulfield; Also Suggests $50,000,000 Loan.

The Unemployed Councils of St. Louis telegraphed Gov. Caulfield yesterday demanding "immediate relief for the 15,000 families who have not been placed on the relief roll."

The telegram, signed by J. Lawson, secretary of the organization, urged that $10,000,000 be obtained from the Federal Government for emergency relief and that a $50,000,000 loan be negotiated for repair and construction in "workers' neighborhoods."

"Your delay in applying for Federal relief," the message concluded, "is directly responsible for increase in starvation and mass hunger among the unemployed of St. Louis."

Parachute Jump Exhibits.

There will be a parachute jump at Curtiss-Steinberg Field, south of East St. Louis, on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday nights, and Sunday afternoons for two weeks starting Saturday. There will be no admission fee to the field, which is reached by way of the Municipal Bridge and Illinois Highway No. 3.

Samuel B. Ball Funeral.

Funeral services for Samuel B. Ball, an insurance broker in St. Louis for 29 years, who died Tuesday after a long illness, were conducted this morning at his residence, 4559 McPherson avenue. Burial will take place at Portsmouth, Va., his family home. Mr. Ball is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lulu Blair Ball.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

A SOUTHERN cruise is being planned by a group of prominent St. Louisans for the late summer. Lewis M. Rumsey Jr., 4372 Westminster place, his daughter, Miss Margaret Rumsey, and his son, Lewis M. Rumsey III, with Miss Helen Heissler, daughter of Mrs. Alice Orthwein Heissler, who are now living with Miss Heissler's grandmother, Mrs. William D. Orthwein, 15 Portland place, and Mr. Rumsey's brother, Col. Horace S. Rumsey, will comprise the party. They will leave St. Louis Aug. 15, and will sail Aug. 17 from New Orleans on the Heridia for Puerto Barrios, where they will take a train to Guatemala City. A stop will be made at Havana, and after a two weeks' stay in Guatemala they will continue to Honduras and will return in September by way of Havana and New Orleans.

Mrs. Rumsey plans to leave St. Louis Aug. 6 for Hot Springs, Va., to join her brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Stoner of St. Louis, to spend the remainder of the summer at the Homestead. Mr. and Mrs. Stoner recently arrived in Hot Springs from England, where they have been visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Tom de Beton Carling and their baby daughter, Diana, at their home in Sussex for about five weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Garrett, 29 Kingsbury place, are occupying their summer home in Edgarton, Mass., as is their annual custom. Their daughter, Mrs. Stanley Tuthill of Evanston, Ill., has a house near by, where she is also spending the season, and Mr. and Mrs. Garrett's married daughters, Mrs. Robert Perkins Brown of Providence, R. I., and Mrs. Rensselaer Lee, Princeton, N. J., are making summer visits with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Holderness, 17 Wydown terrace, are spending the summer in Nashville, Tenn. They will remain a month longer.

Letters to members of their family tell of the European travels of Mrs. Amedee Valle Reyburn, 4634 Lindell boulevard, and her daughter, Miss Mary Reyburn. They attended the Eucharistic Congress in Dublin, and at its conclusion began a tour of Ireland. They will visit in Scotland and in England before their return. They are making part of the trip by motor.

The Rev. John P. Spencer of St. Roch's Church, who accompanied the members of the tour to Dublin, is on the way to St. Louis.

Mrs. Edward P. Hall, 5705 Cates avenue, with her daughters, Miss Eleanor and Miss Betty, and her young son, are spending a month at Douglas, Mich., where they are occupying a cottage. In August Miss Eleanor will go to La Jolla, Cal., to spend a month as the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Guilford Duncan of St. Louis, at their cottage. Miss Hall will be a debutante this fall, as will Mr. and Mrs. Duncan's daughter, Miss Winifred Duncan.

The large St. Louis colony at Douglas will be further augmented by the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. George Clayes, 4452 Maryland avenue, and their daughter, Miss Catherine Clayes, who will leave St. Louis Saturday to motor North. Mr. Clayes will remain two weeks, and Mrs. Clayes and Miss Catherine will spend the remainder of the summer there.

Mr. and Mrs. Valle Reyburn, 366 Walton avenue, and their family, already have arrived in Douglas and will occupy a cottage.

Mrs. Brenton G. Van Cleave, 26 Kingsbury place, will leave Aug. 10, for Salt Lake City, Utah, to visit her father and sister, Richard Savage and Miss Pearl Savage for the remainder of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson B. Gatch, 5086 Westminster place, and their four children will leave tomorrow for White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Mr. Gatch's father, Elias S. Gatch, 5266 Westminster place, has taken one of the Greenbrier cottages and Mr. and Mrs. Gatch and their family will be with him. His daughter, Mrs. Lockwood Hill, 4915 Argyle place, and her two children joined him a week ago.

Mrs. William D. Orthwein, 15 Portland place, and her daughter, Mrs. Arnold Stifel, Ladue road, departed yesterday for Chicago for a summer visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Lambert Jr., have taken an apartment in the Chesterfield for the summer. They have lived in Florida for several years.

Mrs. R. Fullerton Place, 58 South Rock Hill road, Webster Groves, with her children, Beverly and R. Fullerton Jr., will return home in about two weeks from Crystal Lake, Mich., where they are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Van Schoiack, 56 Crestwood drive, and their daughter, Patricia, at their cottage. Mr. Place will go North and accompany them home.

The summer players of the Toy Theater will entertain their friends tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock with a group of one-act plays. The performances will be open to the public. The program the first evening will consist of a group of playlets and sketches and the second evening will be given over entirely to playlets.

The out-of-town members of the cast in the two productions are as follows: Joe O'Neil, Staunton, Ill.; Audrey Leber and Kathryn Farquar, East St. Louis; Lois Boyle, Pinckneyville, Ill.; Kathryn Wade, Memphis, Tenn.; Henrietta Smith, Dupo, Ill., and Ruby Boettler, Warrenton, Mo.

LUNCH STAND OWNER IDENTIFIES TWO MEN AS ALLEGED ROBBERS

One of Them Admits Striking Him, but Denies Holdup Was Motive.

After Bud Bise, proprietor of a barbecue stand at 604 North Beaumont street, reported he had been robbed of $8 last night by two men in an automobile, one of whom struck him in the face with a revolver, the license number of the machine was broadcast and two men were arrested. Bise identified them.

They denied robbing him, although one admitted striking him in the face with his fists. One prisoner said Bise had driven him out of the barbecue stand two weeks ago with a revolver and that when he saw Bise standing on the sidewalk near his place of business last night he decided to even their differences. No revolver was found in the automobile nor on either man arrested.

Private Watchman John C. Brady of the Missouri Theater Building turned over to police early today two boys who he said had broken into a confectionery stand at the building. Police say they admitted breaking into the same stand last Saturday, taking $21.80 worth of ice cream and candy because they were "hungry."

Four boys arrested yesterday are said to have admitted burglaries at nine restaurants, four stores and the employes' building at Frisco Hospital. A case of root beer, two cases of milk bottles, cartons of cigarettes and articles of small value were stolen.

BODY OF MALCOLM TRIBBLE, DROWNED IN MERAMEC, FOUND

It Will be Sent to Parents at Centralia, Mo., Today for Burial.

The body of Malcolm O. Tribble, manager of a drug store at 284 North Skinker boulevard, who was drowned in the Meramec River at Morschels early yesterday, was recovered yesterday afternoon. It will be sent today to the home of his parents at Centralia, Mo., for burial.

Tribble, who was 28 years old and a Washington University graduate, and Finley Smartt, manager of another drug store of the same company, the Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., closed their apartment at 280 North Skinker boulevard last Sunday to make their home for the summer in a cabin at Morschels. They did not know how to swim but went wading at 1 a. m. yesterday, soon after closing their stores for the night. Tribble was drowned as Smartt was walking towards shore.

This was the tenth drowning of the season in the Meramec.

GASOLINE TANKS INTACT AFTER FATAL GARAGE BLAST

Police Still Seek Cause of Explosion Which Wrecked Pickwick-Greyhound Building Monday.

The gasoline tanks of the Pickwick Greyhound Lines garage at 1409 Howard street, wrecked last Monday by a violent explosion which killed one man and injured 17 other persons, were found intact when workmen reached them through the debris yesterday.

The discovery eliminated the possibility that the explosion was due to accidental ignition of one of the four tanks. Detectives and workmen found one 8000-gallon tank full, the other almost empty. The other tanks, of 2000 gallons capacity each, were also intact.

The police are continuing their investigation on the theory the explosion was caused by a concentration of gasoline vapor, possibly in a closed room near the front of the building.

Killing Over Sale of Speakeasy.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Police announced Clare Lyngen, 26 years old, Chicago, confessed he and two other men shot and killed George Sanders, 55, Friday night in a dispute over sale of a speakeasy. The body of Sanders, although weighted with a concrete post, was found floating in the Illinois-Michigan Canal Monday night. It was not identified until Lyngen's confession.

STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING

PLAZA NATIONAL BANK OF ST. LOUIS NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS TO BE HELD ON AUGUST 27, 1932.

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to a resolution of its board of directors, a special meeting of stockholders of the Plaza National Bank of St. Louis will be held at its banking house on Saturday, Aug. 27, 1932, between the hours of 9 o'clock a. m. and 12 o'clock noon on said date, for the consideration of, and voting upon, the following propositions:

(1) To authorize the deposit of stock in this bank as set out in "Agreement for the Deposit of Stock of the Plaza National Bank of St. Louis," under which agreement the stock of this bank is deposited with F. P. Johnson, R. C. White and J. F. Oberwinder, as trustees, and which agreement is hereinafter referred to as Deposit Agreement and is dated as of July 5, 1932, and any extension thereof, and which Deposit Agreement is to be submitted to this meeting.

(2) To authorize the directors and officers of this bank to do, or cause to be done, any and all things which may be necessary and proper to carry into effect said plan and agreement as set forth in said Deposit Agreement, including, but not thereby excluding any other things to be done, the execution, acknowledgment and delivery of all conveyances, assignments, agreements and other instruments necessary or expedient in connection therewise.

(3) To authorize and direct the directors and officers of this bank to transfer, assign and set over to a new trust company to be organized for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of said Deposit Agreement, the assets of this bank as contemplated under the terms of said Deposit Agreement, excepting, however, the corporate franchise of this bank, in consideration for which assets said new trust company is to assume all the outstanding liabilities of this bank, including its liability to its depositors but not including its liability to its stockholders as such, and further, to authorize the directors and officers of this bank to carry out said Deposit Agreement.

(4) To distribute to the stockholders their pro rata share of the stock of the trust company to be formed by this bank with the Guaranty Bank and Trust Co., as set out in the Deposit Agreement, and to liquidate and dissolve this bank and surrender its charter and to publish notice thereof in the manner required by law.

Dated at St. Louis, Mo., this 28th day of July, 1932.
J. W. REINHOLDT JR., President.
Attest: C. A. REINHOLDT, Cashier. (c8)

SUBSTANTIAL NEW ADVANCE RECORDED BY STOCK LIST

Turnover Swelled to 2,723,325 Shares, Making It One of the Most Active Sessions Since Last December.

STOCK PRICE TREND.	Thurs.	Wed.
Number of advance	508	416
Number of declines	101	92
Stocks unchanged	126	106
Total issues traded	735	614

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 28.—The stock market took another forward spurt today and closed substantially higher, although final prices were somewhat under the day's best. A number of prominent issues were up 1 to 4 points, and the turnover swelled to some 2,723,325 shares, making it one of the most active sessions since last December.

An upswing in the dollar in the foreign exchange markets, further gains in commodities and expectations that a reduction in the Federal Reserve rate might be announced after the close, accompanied further aggressive buying, in the face of a large volume of profit taking. The list fluctuated uncertainly in the morning, bulged in the middle of the day, and sagged a little in quieter trading in the last hour.

Extreme gains of about three to five points in such issues as American Telephone, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Delaware & Hudson, du Pont, Allied Chemical and American Can were shaded by about a point in the late sag. United States Steel lost most of a gain of a point, and the preferred lost all but a major fraction of an advance of nearly three. In the oils, Standards of New Jersey and California closed up major fractions. General Motors finished up about a point, and General Electric a fraction. Public Service of New Jersey lost about all of a rise of 1½.

Wheat had a further substantial rise, but reacted somewhat from the best, along with stocks. Final prices were up ⅝ to 1 cent a bushel, net. Corn closed unchanged to ⅝ lower.

Sterling cables ruled more than 2 cents lower, close to $3.51. The French franc declined to close to the point at which gold might be drawn to New York from Paris.

What Chart Readers See.

Chart readers pointed out that the rebound would shortly reach a testing area, as it approached the half-way point between the peak of the preceding rally, recorded early in March, and bear market low touched on June 1. Each succeeding phase of the major bear movement has been followed by a temporary recovery of roughly half of the ground lost. The March-June decline was the seventh down swing since autumn of 1929, and the usual rebound was somewhat slow in getting started. If the market is able to carry on beyond the limits of a normal technical rebound, market theorists will be greatly encouraged. Much may depend, they contend, on the autumn recovery in business and the avoidance of any unexpected shock to confidence.

Bradstreet's Weekly Food Index showed a slight recession for the first time in weeks, but the way a number of commodities have been up in the last two days indicated that it was temporary.

Call money renewed at 2 per cent.

The vigorous upturn of the previous session has made a total appreciation in values (as measured by averages, of extraordinary extent of nearly 30 per cent in about three weeks. Of course, some brokers thought that the advance had been too fast, and that a temporary corrective reaction might be in order.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 28.—The New York Federal Reserve Bank announced no change today in the rediscount rate of 2½ per cent.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 28.—A good undertone developed on the Stock Exchange on cheery Wall street news which helped improve trans-Atlantic issues. Steady purchases of war loan issues and other gilt-edged securities, including Indian shares, continued. Iron, steel and oil shares were prominent features and the close was firm.

PARIS, July 28.—The firm closing in New York and the rise in metals stimulated prices on the Bourse which were firm despite monthly settlement liquidation. French rentes and international issues were steady and bank shares strong. The market closed firm.

BERLIN, July 28.—Trading was inactive and prices uncertain on the Boerse due to the coming elections.

TODAY'S NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

BETHLEHEM STEEL OMITS PFD. DIVIDEND

Second Quarter Deficit After Interest, Depletion, Depreciation Was $4,671,266.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Bethlehem Steel Corporation today omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on its cumulative preferred stock. Payments on the common shares were dropped six months ago.

Omission of Bethlehem's preferred payment had been expected in several quarters in Wall street. Some quarters had felt that something might be paid, since United States Steel ordered its preferred payment on Tuesday.

Eugene Grace, president, said he was glad to see some improvement in sentiment generally but that the present condition of the steel business did not warrant the declaration of a dividend which would necessarily come from surplus. The board of directors was unanimous in its opinion that the dividend should be omitted at this time.

As to whether there was any indication of a pickup in business next fall, Mr. Grace said "I do not know, but everybody hopes that the situation will change. Thus far automobiles, building and other lines have not reflected any change in orders."

"Although there has not been anything to indicate improvement in volume of steel production, I believe the industry in time would get help from projects which are to be publicly financed," he added.

"The steel producers are making good progress in their campaign against dumping of foreign products in the American market. There has been no discussion regarding a further wage reduction."

For the second quarter of 1932 the company had a deficit, after interest charges and depletion and depreciation allowances, of $4,671,266, against loss of $3,685,069 in the first quarter and net income of $1,452,743 for the second 1931 period.

Income before charges was $271,174, against earnings of $1,331,657 in the first three months of this year and $6,394,057 in the quarter ended June 30, 1931.

Operations averaged 18 per cent of capacity in the second quarter against 23.4 per cent in the first and 41.5 per cent a year ago.

Orders on hand June 30 were valued at $28,724,004, compared with $35,372,318 on March 31 and $57,334,794 on June 30, 1931. Current operations were placed at 13 per cent.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 2 HIGHER TO 2 LOWER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Sharp advances in cotton today from a steady opening reflected increased speculative buying from Wall street and commission house sources promoted by strength of stocks and rains in the Eastern belt which led to renewed talk of prospective boll weevil damage. October sold up from $5.87 to $6.09 and the general market advanced to net gains of 15 to 19 points. At the beginning of the last hour, prices had reacted 7 or 8 points from the best under profit taking.

The market lost most of its early gains during the late trading under active profit taking and futures closed barely steady, 2 higher to 2 lower. Oct. 5.91@93; Dec. 6.08; Jan. 6.15; March 6.31; May 6.43 @45. Spot quiet; middling 5.95.

ANOTHER CENT ADDED TO PRICE OF WHEAT HERE

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, July 28.—The wheat market added another cent to the upturn today. No sales of corn took place.

Dry weather reported in Northwest was cited and good export business from North America over night and today was reported.

Liverpool was 1⅝d to 1¾d higher in one cable. The close was 2⅛ to 2⅝d higher.

Winnipeg wheat closed unchanged to ⅛c net lower.

September wheat opened at 51⅝c and December wheat 54⅝c.

There was good demand for cash wheat, red winter being up 1⅛@2c. Cash corn was ⅛@⅝c higher, and cash oats ½c better.

Local wheat receipts which were 107,800 bu., compared with 204,400 a week ago and 350,000 a year ago included 65 cars local and 12 through. Corn receipts which were 42,000 bu., compared with 9800 a week ago and 19,600 a year ago, included 25 cars local and 5 through. Oats receipts which were 55,000 bu., compared with 35,200 a week ago and 81,400 a year ago, included 17 cars local and 8 through. Hay receipts were 1 car local.

Oats—No. 2 white, 18⅝c; No. 3 white, 17½c; No. 2 mixed, 15½c; red oats, 17½c.

WHEAT CLOSES UNSETTLED AFTER FURTHER ADVANCE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 28.—For the third day in succession, wheat prices went sharply upward today, and dealings were much enlarged, more than double those of a week ago.

Active buying of wheat futures in Chicago was done against sales at Winnipeg.

After an upturn to about 7c a bushel from last week's low, wheat closed unsettled ⅝@1c above yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to ⅝c off, oats ⅝@⅝c up, and provisions unchanged to 5c down.

Despite laggard action of Liverpool wheat quotations, grain prices here scored fresh upturns early today, influenced by dry weather Northwest.

Opening unchanged to ¾c up, Chicago wheat later rose all around, but then reacted somewhat. Corn started at ⅛ decline to ⅝c advanced and subsequently sagged.

Quick rallies from transient setbacks in wheat prices soon carried the market a cent or more above yesterday's finish. Temporary downturns, attributed to a sharp break in British exchange rates, failed to have lasting effect. Good export business in North American wheat last night and today was noted and speculative buying here was of fairly broad volume, including further purchases reported for Eastern account.

Summaries of domestic spring wheat crop conditions said that until threshing returns were obtained it was impossible to estimate accurately damage from hot dry weather.

Corn and oats tended to decline owing to forecasts of showers over some of the corn belt.

Provisions were easy, responsive to downturns of hog values.

GENERAL ADVANCE IN THE BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 28.—The bond market resumed its upward trend today and all classes of listed securities participated in the accumulation of gains. Trading also was in large volume compared with recent sessions.

While the low-priced rails generally held the center of the speculative stage, loans of communications companies developed strength. American Telephone issues were up around a point, as were Western Unions and some of the international telephones. Consolidated Gas 5½s were in demand but other power and light company bonds were quiet.

Gains of 2 or more points were registered by several of the industrials. Chile Copper 5s advanced more than 4 points at one time, but relaxed somewhat under realizing. Substantial gains were recorded by Dodge Bros. 6s, Shell Union 5s, Sinclair 6½s and Goodyear 5s.

Leaders among the carriers included some of Chicago & Northwestern, Chesapeake Corporation, Erie 5s, Pennsylvania 4½s, Nickel Plate 4½s and Southern Pacific 4½s.

The United States Government section eased slightly, after most of the Treasuries had again reached new 1932 highs, but still held around top prices.

German Government loans declined around a point and the Argentines again displayed weakness. Austrian and Belgian bonds firmed.

NEW YORK, July 28.—The St. Joseph Lead Co. reports that 400 tons of pig lead was sold yesterday at $2.70 per 100 pounds St. Louis and 1200 tons at $2.80 per 100 pounds New York.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Increasing demands for lead, stimulated by the record low prices at which it has recently been selling, brought another advance in the quotation for that metal today. American Smelting & Refining Co. lifted its price 15 points to 2.95 cents a pound. A similar advance was made by the same company yesterday.

LONDON, July 28.—Standard copper, spot £26 5s; future £25 17s 6d. Electrolytic—spot £28 15s; future £29 5s. Tin—spot £129 10s; future £131 5s. Lead—Spot £10; future £10 2s 6d. Zinc—spot £12 2s 6d; future £12 5s.

COOL WAVE

Hits NEW YORK CENTRAL and PENNSYLVANIA trains

Before the principal trains of these two systems leave their main terminals, all cars will be pre-cooled with fresh, filtered air, affording full ventilation en route. Dining cars of principal trains will be completely air-conditioned.

The very second you step aboard, you will feel it—a refreshing wave of delightfully clean, cool air will greet your overheated forehead. Stroll to your seat—the cool wave has reached it ahead of you. Touch the pillow and the fresh, white sheets on your berth—the cool wave has touched them first—promising you a peaceful, restful, comfortable ride. Air-Conditioned Dining Cars on Principal Trains . . . For the added comfort of those who travel the principal trains of these two systems, dining cars are completely air-conditioned. Dust, soot, smoke and heat are now locked out. Only crisp, clean air circulates about you—fresh, live air—invigorating—and blissfully cool—like dining at a snow-white table in the quiet of a shady lawn. Just one more luxury for those who ride the Pennsylvania and New York Central!

PARAGUAY AND BOLIVIA CONTINUE WAR PREPARATIONS

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, July 28. — Steps to arbitrate the latest flare-up in the old Chaco boundary dispute between Paraguay and Bolivia were taken in two neutral capitals yesterday, but this activity did not stop warlike preparations in both countries.

At Asuncion 10,000 persons paid homage to the Paraguayan soldiers slain last week when Fort Lopez was recaptured from Bolivia. Women's welfare and patriotic organizations drafted plans to marshal the women of the nation, and the press published arrangements for patriotic rallies in 25 cities and towns.

Salta, Argentina, dispatches told that Bolivian contingents were moving into the Chaco enroute to Villamonte. The dispatches added that volunteer regiments were forming in Lapaz, Tarija, Potosi, Cochscamba and Uyuni, Bolivia.

Advices from Asuncion said one of the jackets worn by a Bolivian officer slain in the battle of Fort Lopez bore the buttons of a United States Army uniform. Unable to explain the buttons, authorities may possibly make friendly inquiry about it.

CHAPTER FOUR.

AMBOUYNA, according to her usual custom, paced the deck for half an hour before dinner, her maid in attendance to discourage any attempts at companionship. Ned Belmore, the international polo player, and one of Moran Chambers' oldest friends, who was always a privileged person, joined them. He knew better than to take anything for granted with Ambouyna.

"May I walk with you for 10 minutes?" he asked.

She gave gracious but not enthusiastic consent and dismissed her maid. He plunged at once into the middle of things.

"Look here," he said, "Charlie and I—the whole gang of us, in fact—are feeling just a little bit hurt seeing you so much with Reuben Argels."

"Really!" she exclaimed. "And what business do you think it is of yours, or Charlie's, or any one's?"

SYNOPSIS.

REUBEN ARGELS, haunted by the smile of Moran Chambers, his former "fellow worker" in Wall Street, stays in his stateroom until his third day out across the Atlantic. Chambers was in the prisoners' dock when he smiled. He began serving a 15-year sentence simultaneously with Argels' departure. Argels' testimony convicted his former partner of a crime in which Andrew Pulwitter was also involved as the third partner.

Argels ventured on deck, armed and expecting trouble. His first encounter is with Pulwitter which passes off peaceably. The next is with Ambouyna Kotinsi, noted film actress. She joins Argels in the dining salon but, after a pleasant meal, warns him that death is at his heels and scores his renewed attempts at friendliness. Jealousy over Ambouyna inspired Argels' perjured testimony against Chambers.

"Don't take it like that," he remonstrated. "We are all friends of Moran Chambers. We know how he felt about you. Of course, one can't expect you to remain a grass widow forever, but, on the other hand—it is a bit thick, isn't it, for you to be so friendly with the man who let him down? You understand the effect of his evidence at the trial? Lying evidence it was, too!"

"Of course I did. I was in court."

"Then choose one of us to play around with you," Belmore suggested a little irritably. "You can take your choice among us and we're not a bad crowd. As for Reuben Argels, it's easy enough to see what he's after. He hates Moran like poison and nothing would give him more pleasure than to have another dig at him through you."

"Insinuating, I suppose," she remarked sweetly, "that my attractions count for nothing, and that Reuben Argels' attentions to me are purely a matter of revenge."

"Don't be awkward, please," he begged. "Any man in the world on whom you smiled would think he was in luck, but Reuben Argels isn't in your class to begin with, and he knows, as you must know, that it would make poor Moran furious if he could see you two drinking cocktails together."

Ambouyna considered the matter.

"I did not invite Mr. Argels upon the boat," she pointed out.

"You knew that he was coming," Belmore put in quickly.

"Yes, I knew that he was coming," she admitted. "So did Andrew Pulwitter; so did Julian Franks—he is down in the second class."

"Julian Franks?" Belmore repeated.

"You might not know him," she reflected. "He was a cinema gymnast, but he has been one of Moran's men for the last five years. All three of us knew that Reuben Argels was on this boat. That is why we came."

"I see," Ned Belmore commented doubtfully. "You have something on, eh?"

"We have something on."

* * *

"IN THAT case, there's no more to be said about it," he conceded, as they paused to look over the rails for a moment. "Except perhaps this," he added. "Don't be cross with me, will you? Argels has the name of being a great fellow with the ladies. Good-looking chap, in a way, too, and I suppose he can be quite attractive when he chooses."

"He is Moran's enemy," she said, looking steadily out seaward. "That disposes of him, and, if it is any satisfaction to you and Charlie, and the rest of them," she added, "you can tell them that we have met with some success. Andrew Pulwitter that dear, cautious old Scotchman, has turned amateur burglar, and he thinks that he has discovered enough among Argels' papers to secure a new trial."

"Gee, that's good news," Belmore declared enthusiastically. "We'd all give a good deal to see Moran out again, and more still to see Argels in his place."

"I do not suppose," she observed, "that there is any chance of that."

"I should like to have a few words with Pulwitter," he meditated. "I'm not in Wall street myself, of course, and I'm pretty well outside the whole of the money-making lot, but I know something about Argels. He's clever, I'm telling you, Ambouyna, he's just as clever as a man can be. He plays for safety, too. He doesn't take risks. Pulwitter wants to move carefully in anything he does."

"Here he is," she pointed out. "You can talk to him for yourself."

Andrew Pulwitter, very long and spare in his not too well-fitting dinner clothes, had issued hesitatingly from the companionway and was looking around. Ambouyna summoned him.

"You know Mr. Belmore?" she asked.

"We have met," Andrew acknowledged. "Our ways in life are rather far apart, but we come across each other now and then at the Lake View Country Club."

"I remember meeting you on several occasions," Belmore agreed courteously. "We have a great friend in common, Mr. Pulwitter—a great friend who is in bad trouble. This dear lady tells me that you haven't given up hope of helping him yet."

"Not yet," Andrew assented. "There's not much to be talked about at present," he went on, glancing cautiously around, "but we've made a move.

"We've made a move within the last 24 hours. I've been in communication with the lawyers most of today. It's on the cards that an application will be made before long for a retrial."

"I am delighted to hear it," Belmore said heartily. "Is it too much to ask upon what grounds?"

* * *

ANDREW PULWITTER considered the matter carefully.

"There were certain documents," he confided, after a somewhat prolonged pause, "which had a very direct bearing upon the case, but which could not be found at the time of the trial. There was an agreement, too, which could not be produced, and some letters which were missing. It is just possible that these may be traced."

"Have they actually been discovered?" Belmore asked bluntly. "It's barely a fortnight since the conclusion of the case."

Andrew stroked his long chin.

"You'll excuse me, Mr. Belmore, but the less said about this matter the better, until the right moment comes. I'll go so far as to let you know, however, that this is no pleasure cruise I'm taking to Marseilles. I came because I knew that Reuben Argels was on the boat. I believe I may say that it was the same with Mme. Kotinsi."

Belmore reflected for a moment. Then he nodded pleasantly.

"Well, it's good to hear that all Moran's friends haven't deserted him," he remarked. "If you need any help that I can give at any time, dollars or adventure, remember that I'm on your side. See you later."

He drew Ambouyna away and they walked almost the entire length of the deck in silence.

"Shrewd fellow, Andrew Pulwitter, I should imagine," Belmore observed at last.

"I have not much of his acquaintance," Ambouyna replied. "They tell me that all Scotchmen are shrewd. I know that Moran trusts him absolutely. You heard what he said. You think that things are moving? You think that Moran will be free soon, yes?"

Belmore's expression was a little troubled.

"My dear, I don't know," he admitted. "Moran got in wrong with some very high authorities. There were powerful influences working against him at the trial. As I daresay you heard, they were willing at any time to drop the case against the others if they could get Moran. Every one in the inner circles knows that Reuben Argels' evidence was given on a pledge that the prosecution would not cross-examine and that the remainder of the case in which Pulwitter and he figured should not be opened up."

She sighed.

* * *

"IT DOES not seem fair," she complained. "I do not see how anyone could dislike Moran. He was fair to everyone and he is very, very lovable."

Belmore paused in their promenade and led her once more to the side of the ship.

"Tell me," he asked, "do you love him?"

"Of course, I do," she answered. She was suddenly excited, as though she resented his question. There were tears glistening in her eyes, an angry little quiver of the lips.

"Why am I here?" she demanded. "Tell me that. Is it not for his sake? Is it not, because I hope to help him? It is an insult that you doubt my love for him."

"I have not doubted it," Belmore told her gently. "I think that it is splendid that you are working for him. I have just had a sort of feeling, though, if you want the truth, that a man of Moran's type was scarcely likely to hold you forever."

"What do you mean?" she cried, with indignation trembling in her tone. "Do you want me yourself? Are you proposing yourself as my lover now that your friend is safe in prison?"

"Never dreamed of it," he assured her hastily. "I know, my dear Ambouyna, that I wouldn't have a dog's chance. Never had any luck with women since I was born. I was thinking more that Reuben Argels might make himself unpleasant."

"I thank you," she said proudly. "I can protect myself. Mr. Argels is the ordinary type of boulevardier, from whom I have suffered all my life and with whom I know how to deal. There are a few things Mr. Pulwitter wants me to discover if I can. Otherwise I will see little of him."

"Don't take him too lightly," Belmore begged, as they stood in front of the companionway. "Argels will let you find out just as much as he wants you to find out."

She shrugged her shoulders.

"I am not vain," she rejoined, "but I am possessed of some intelligence. For the rest, cannot you believe that the man has no attraction for me?"

In the very beautiful dining salon, with its satin wood paneling and gayly designed walls, dinner was already in full progress when Ambouyna entered. Many people watched her passing through the room and regretted the obstinacy which led her to insist upon a table to herself. A good many, too, envied Reuben Argels, as she paused at the table where he, also, for other reasons, sat alone.

"You would like it that I move my place—that I take my dinner at your table tonight?" she asked. "After this evening I have ordered my meals to be served in my salon. Even a cinema star becomes tired of curious people."

"It would give me great pleasure," he acknowledged, keeping his tone as even as possible.

He called a steward and the matter was quickly arranged. She ate strangely chosen food, consisting chiefly of fruit and vegetables, but she shared his champagne.

* * *

"TONIGHT," she told him, "I have been warned against you. That is why I changed my table. That is why I chose to dine here. I object to interference from anybody."

"Belmore?" Argels surmised. "He never liked me. I don't see why he should. We were born differently and we live differently."

"He is afraid," she continued, "that you may wean my affections away from Moran."

He drank the whole of the contents of a glass of champagne, with the stem of which his fingers had been playing. He knew that he would require all his self-control, and all his nerve, to hold his own in a conversation like this. Ambouyna was radiantly beautiful, and the glamour of her eyes, their changing lights, her sensitive lips, and the unfamiliar but very sweet perfume which floated over to him, enthralled his senses.

"Well," he observed, "fifteen—even 10 years—is too long a time in this world for any woman to wait for her lover."

The flush in her cheeks slowly faded.

"You speak very plainly," she murmured.

"It prevents misunderstanding," he pointed out. "If"——

He paused to control his unsteady breathing.

"If by any evil chance I were to lose my heart to you, I should look upon you as free."

"And I not," she rejoined haughtily. "Long before that time Moran will be back with me."

He bowed courteously. His self-restraint was such that the matter did not appear to greatly interest him. Nevertheless, if she had known him better, she would have been suspicious of that queer sparkle at the back of his eyes.

"I have been warned this evening," she went on, "that your attentions to me are simply paid in the hope that Moran Chambers will hear of them and that that hearing will add to his unhappiness."

"You have strange acquaintances who tell you such things," Argels remarked. * * * "You find this asparagus good, I hope? They have very little of it upon the ship. It comes from an island near Toulon."

"It is not an affair of the asparagus," she said angrily. "I wish to know whether my acquaintance spoke the truth."

"Well, considering all things," he reflected, "I should scarcely say that I had paid you any remarkable attentions. I do not think that there is a man upon this ship who could have resisted as completely as I have the temptation to say foolish things to you."

"But have you been tempted?" she asked swiftly.

He looked at her with quizzical eyes. She was, after all, very much of a child.

"Every one puts on their armor when they come near you, Ambouyna Kotinsi," he assured her. "Mine, I seldom have to use. Women have never been much in my world, but if it gives you any gratification to hear me say so, I realize my danger all the time."

"That is something," she admitted, with a satisfied little sigh. "You should, indeed, be in danger. I have been very nice to you."

SURPRISING CRASH of TWO ROMANCES

The Conservative Maurice Chevalier Suddenly Demands a Divorce, and Natalie Talmadge, Whose Marriage to Buster Keaton Set a Hollywood Record, Has Left Him Flat.

By NIE

BUSTER KEATON . . . mentally cruel, says his wife.

HOLLYWOOD, pretty generally, registers surprise at its divorce announcements. Everybody knows that the press agents' blurb about Mr. and Mrs. Blotz—she being Evelyn Vanhoosgow of Perfect Pictures—living happily in Beverly Hills where Mrs. Blotz is raising orchids and even hinting at raising a few children when she can get around to it, is the purest bunk. Everyone knows that what Evelyn is raising is Hell along Sunset boulevard. Every one knows, too, that Mr. Blotz, who drew a sober breath back sometime in 1922 and then found it didn't agree with him, is deeply interested in the newest blonde at the Ideal studios. But when it is announced that, for the sake of art, Mr. and Mrs. B., loving each other deeply but refusing to stand in the way of each other's career, are about to fly over to Reno everybody professes never to have heard such a thing hinted.

Occasionally the surprise, if Hollywood can be surprised at anything, is on the up and up. Take the two cases which stand out this week for instance, the parting of the Maurice Chevaliers and the bust-up of the Joseph Francis Buster Keaton home. If anybody thought such things were going to happen they kept their thoughts close to their vests.

For here were two ideal couples. Chevalier, the idol of the Paris boulevards, and Yvonne Vallee—no relation to Rudy—were married in Paris in 1927, a year before the French star heard the jingling of many pieces of Hollywood silver. They appeared together in the vaudeville halls of Paris and when Maurice came to America on his latest trip over here Yvonne came with him as his devoted wife and admirer. The couple were in St. Louis last winter. Chevalier appeared here for two days at the American Theater in a one-man show and he and Mlle. Vallee spent their spare time together out at the Zoo and appeared to be very much in love. Then she sailed for home and Maurice followed her there. A few days ago he—not she—filed suit for divorce in the French capital charging desertion. The rumor is that Mrs. Chevalier will contest the suit when the time comes.

Buster Keaton married about a dozen years ago one of the then famous movie trio of Talmadges, Norma and Constance Talmadge were ranking screen favorites at the time. Natalie, their sister, seemed headed for the same sort of fame, but she gave up her chances in that direction to marry Keaton, a knockabout graduate of the varieties, and settle down to a happy home life. At least it was happy for a good many years. There was some suggestion of a rift last year, when Kathleen Kay, a movie actress, attacked Keaton in his dressing room on a studio lot. The public never found out just what the row was about, but there was some talk of Miss Kay having demanded $25,000 and scratching Buster's face when he refused to come across. Mrs. Keaton probably went into the causes leading up to that encounter deeper than the general public did, and she may have found out some things of interest.

At all events, Buster presented Mrs. Keaton with a $100,000 yacht as a peace offering.

THINGS are a little different in the Chevalier combination. Maurice and his wife are both artists, and last winter, when they were here in St. Louis, there were indications that he was inclining toward the temperamental and becoming thoroughly satisfied with the greatness which was being thrust upon him. Whether or not Mrs. Chevalier came in contact with this burst of grandeur too often and decided to leave, is not known, but the report is that she will fight, in the Paris courts, Maurice's charge that she deserted him. When she sailed for France, some months ago, ahead of her star-husband, he was at the dock to see her off, and the pair posed for any number of happy-looking photographs together.

If Chevalier had acquired any other romance since his rise to fame and fortune in this country, it has been kept very much under cover. There have been no bouts with chorus girls, no suits for damage to broken hearts or anything of the sort, although Chevalier, with his tremendous personality and his engaging style—to say nothing of his enlarged bank roll, which, after all, does make some difference—could have the pick of the Hollywood beauties.

Chevalier's bank roll, just remarked upon, has been one of the seven wonders of the latter-day world for starting from nothing at all the former French music hall artist—and the music halls of France never heard of the big money paid performers in this country—has run his bank account up to more than a million dollars net in a very few years.

Right now he draws down something over $5000 a week from the picture company which puts out his films; he can pick up half that amount most any evening for a half hour on the radio and there are other thousands handy for personal appearances and other things.

And Chevalier, a French soldier, came out of the war a youth broken in health and pocketbook. Before he was called to the colors he had been a performer in the Paris varieties, his main claim to fame coming from the fact that he had been the dancing partner of the famous Mistinguette. A severe wound in battle and many months in a German prison camp had left him in poor shape to return to the stage, but he fought his way back and became the best known entertainer in Paris.

MR. AND MRS. CHEVALIER . . . he wants a divorce.

MRS. CHEVALIER . . . not as happy as she looks.

THERE were many efforts made to get Chevalier to come to this country to work in the films, but he was shy of the American movies. He had tried, with the most indifferent success, the New York vaudeville stage and he wanted to remain in Paris where his fame was assured.

Jesse Lasky, of Paramount, met him in Paris a few years ago and offered him a contract. Chevalier did not want to try his luck in this country again so he tried to think of some salary which Lasky would not, and could not. He hit upon $5000 a week. Lasky, much to Chevalier's amazement, drew up a contract on the spot and almost before he knew what had happened he was an American movie star and his success in this country was immediate and tremendous.

Chevalier speaks English fluently, although with a most attractive French accent. He learned the language from a fellow prisoner, an Englishman, during the time he was held by the Germans during the war. Mrs. Chevalier, on the other hand, knows little of English. She is a pretty and charming woman and, like her husband, is a favorite on the French musical comedy stage.

It has been a long time since Buster Keaton has been seen in St. Louis in a professional way but in the old days of the Columbia Theater down on Sixth street where a five and 10-cent store now blooms, he was an annual visitor making up, with his father and mother—Joe and Myra—the vaudeville known as The Three Keatons.

Buster, who was born in Kansas in 1896, got used to punishment in those days of the vaudevilles, for, as a little fellow, he used to be thrown all around the stage by his father. Part of the act consisted of Joe picking Buster up by the seat of his trousers and tossing him from the footlight all the way to the "back drop." The slack in that curtain would break the force of Buster's landing but when the act came to St. Louis the first time old man Keaton didn't know that the Columbia's stage was very shallow and that the back drop was right up against a brick wall. Buster found it out though and was in the hospital for a week as a result.

The Keatons, Buster and Natalie that is, have two children, both boys. Also they have plenty of the world's goods for although Buster has never set the world on fire with his screen antics he has been a big and consistent money maker almost ever since the motion pictures began.

Following the little incident of Buster's battle in his dressing room with Miss Kay, things began to move less evenly in the Keaton family out in Hollywood and at Malibu Beach, where they have a summer home. Even the peace offering, the $100,000 yacht, caused some friction, Mrs. Keaton and Buster charging each other with back-seat driving—or whatever the yachting equivalent is for that pastime. Then, a few weeks ago, Buster announced that he was going to take his two sons on an airplane jaunt down to Mexico. Mrs. Keaton said he wasn't going to do any such thing, but Buster and the boys did their flying. The party flew to San Diego, accompanied by the boys' governess, Connie Consuelo, whereat Mrs. Keaton called upon her sister, Mrs. Constance Talmadge Netcher, and saw the District Attorney.

* * *

THE prosecutor got in touch with the San Diego authorities, who took Buster into custody, and held him for more than an hour. It looked like the final break again—but Keaton and his sons, with the governess, returned home.

"Any report that Buster and I have separated is nonsense," said Mrs. Keaton, following the return. One doesn't separate over such disputes. Keaton pronounced the affair "trivial."

Keaton's mother, however, admitted there had been domestic troubles, and her admission was borne out when Mrs. Keaton filed suit for divorce. She mentioned the "trivial" airplane trip in her petition as having caused her great humiliation and mortification. Up to the time of the Battle of the Dressing Room last February the Keatons were looked upon as a happily and safely married pair by the movie colony, for 11 years of married bliss is quite a record out along the gold coast. Now look at 'em.

WHEN THINGS WERE DIFFERENT . . . the Keatons with their small son.

Velvet Skull Caps

Velvet skull caps are one of the newest tricks. They are about the size of a cardinal's cap, made of velvet to match the evening wrap and worn perched on one side of the head.

If you ask my Opinion

by Martha Carr

MY DEAR MRS. CARR: I get up at 6 a. m. (usually) for a 7 o'clock class. I am at school until 11 (I go to Teachers' College). At 12 I go to work. I work in an office and retail room. I stay until they close, which is 7:30 or 8 o'clock. By the time I take a bath and eat my supper it is 8:30. Then I must study, get my clothes ready for the next day and do all the other small things a girl must do. With all this work I feel I need eight hours' sleep. This means I have little time in which to have any recreation, but I do not mind this a great deal, since next winter I will have to work only until 6.

But, Mrs. Carr, my mother is always displeased. And adds to that the habit of not speaking, not only to me, but to my father, when she gets mad. Her objections are only about the smallest matters—things like the way I do my hair. I keep my room very well, but once or twice have not had time to make my bed. All my clothes she has to inspect and usually disapproves. I pay for everything except my food and room—tuition, clothes and everything.

Mrs. Carr, I can't go on like this. I want to tell my mother everything and wish so much I could. Until a year ago, I had nothing to complain of but now I know I am getting desperate. Please answer as soon as you possibly can. Life is miserable right now. DEJECTED.

Your mother is in a nervous state, which, probably, she is not able to control. Of course, she may not be very hard, that being her disposition, but I should talk over the matter with my father and urge him to have your mother go to a nerve specialist. You must know, when such a change has taken place, that she is out of health in some way. But of course with your industry and plans for the future you can see a way out; that hopeful vision of the future often helps us to "carry on," and, temporarily, that is what you must do. Use your judgment and follow your own taste, but sometimes yield in these small things.

* * *

MY DEAR MRS. CARR: A friend of mine and I would like to join the Christ Cathedral Girls' Club. I have forgotten where you said it was located. And will you tell us the age limit? LONESOME.

The club meets in the Bishop Tuttle Memorial at 1210 Locust street. Telephone CEntral 0247 and Mrs. Brodix will tell you all about it.

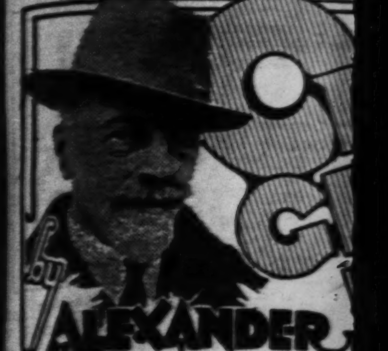
Comtesse de Munoz is among smart Parisians sponsoring the new two-toned evening frocks. Among her evening gowns is one designed with a bodice of white satin and a high-waisted, clinging skirt of purple-blue satin. It is worn with a very long scarf of white satin with deep ends of purple blue.



CHAPTER TH

THE absence of news constitute upon us by our imprisonment. city of food. We laughed at recipe for preparing a "Wiener s hage, but with all the sense of hum press the gloom spread by the re columns describing vociferous spe failed to mention whether the Bre a veritable cessation of hostilities, the writers in their references to us suspect that the soviets had en identity in Kieff and Odessa. Zado but the frequency with which he ta suggested anxiety on his part.

The Yalta Soviet found a new argument in their correspondence with the Central Government. We were accused of hiding Gen. Orloff, who had suppressed the revolutionary outbursts in Esthonia in 1907, and a warrant arrived from Moscow authorizing a search under the supervision of our regular visitor, enemy of Zadorojny.

The truth was that we did have with us a former aid-de-camp of the Czar by the name of Orloff but he had nothing in common with Gen. Orloff. Even the fiery Yalta speaker, considering our Orloff's age, agreed he couldn't have been a General in 1907. Nevertheless, he wanted to take him away for thorough identification by the Esthonian comrades.

"You'll do nothing of the kind," yelled Zadorojny, irritated by this intrusion. "The Moscow order mentions former Gen. Orloff, but it gives you no right to arrest former Prince Orloff. I wouldn't let you pull this trick on me. I know you. You'll shoot him outside and claim afterwards that he was Gen. Orloff and that I tried to hide him. Get out of here!"

The young man in leather coat and breeches turned pale.

"Please, Comrade Zadorojny," he begged in a trembling voice, "let me do it or something awful will happen to me. My boys are so sore at these continuous trips to Dulber that unless I produce a prisoner of some description they'll get nasty with me."

"That's your lookout," said Zadorojny sneeringly. "You've tried to ruin me and have dug a grave for yourself. Out you go."

* * *

HE opened the heavy gates and nearly threw his enemy out. Around midnight Zadorojny knocked on the door of the bedroom and called me outside. He spoke in harsh whispers:

"We are in a jam. I've got to think fast. These Yalta bandits did shoot him."

"Shoot whom? Orloff?"

"No, Orloff is in his bed. He is all right. They killed the talkative guy. Just as he said, got sore at him for coming back empty-handed and shot him on the way to Yalta. There's hell to pay. Sebastopol just rang up and told me to be prepared for a big attack. They are sending five trucks of men right away, but Yalta is nearer this place than Sebastopol. I am not afraid of machine guns, but suppose Yalta should send artillery? Don't go to bed, better stick around. If worst comes to worst you can reload the guns for the boys."

I could not suppress a smile. My wife was right.

"I know it sounds queer," agreed Zadorojny, "but the point is I've got to keep you alive till morning. If I succeed you'll be saved for keeps."

"What do you mean?" Did the Government decide to release us?"

"Don't ask me any questions. Just stick around." He walked away rapidly, leaving me in a state of bewilderment.

I sat on the veranda. The April night was warm and the strong odor of lilacs permeated the air. I knew that the odds were against us. The walls of Dulber would never be able to withstand an artillery bombardment. At best, the Sebastopol reinforcements could arrive around 4 in the morning, while the slowest truck would cover the distance between Yalta and Dulber in slightly more than an hour.

My wife appeared in the doorway and asked what was the matter.

"Oh, nothing in particular. Zadorojny simply asked me to go and see about the searchlights. They have gone out of order again."

I jumped up, thinking I heard the distant noise of a motor.

"Tell me the truth," she said. "I can see you are worried. What is it? Is it something about Nicky? Did you receive bad news from the north?"

I repeated word for word what Zadorojny had explained to me. She breathed a sigh of relief. She did not believe any harm would come to us that night. She sensed the approaching end of our sufferings. I did not contradict her. I admired her faith and her courage.

* * *

TIME dragged on. The clock in the dining room struck 1. Zadorojny passed by the veranda and said they could be expected now any minute.

"I am sorry," remarked my wife, "they have taken mother's Bible. I would have liked to open its pages at random, as we used to do in our childhood, and read the passage fate would put under our finger."

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE.

THE absence of news constituted the greatest privation imposed upon us by our imprisonment. We grew accustomed to the scarcity of food. We laughed at the hundred per cent vegetarian recipe for preparing a "Wiener schnitzel" out of carrots and cabbage, but with all the sense of humor in the world we could not suppress the gloom spread by the reading of soviet newspapers. Long columns describing vociferous speeches made by Trotzky and Lenin failed to mention whether the Brest-Litovsk treaty was followed by a veritable cessation of hostilities, and the roundabout way used by the writers in their references to the events in the Southwest made us suspect that the soviets had encountered an enemy of mysterious identity in Kieff and Odessa. Zadorojny pleaded complete ignorance but the frequency with which he talked on the phone with Sebastopol suggested anxiety on his part.

The Yalta Soviet found a new argument in their correspondence with the Central Government. We were accused of hiding Gen. I went to the library and brought her a pocket edition of the Bible overlooked by last summer's raiders. She opened it and I lit a match. It happened to be verse 28, chapter 2, of Revelation: "And I will give him the morning star."

"You see," my wife said. "Everything will be all right."

Her confidence was transmitted to me. I fell asleep in the chair. When I opened my eyes again I saw Zadorojny. He was shaking me by the shoulder. A broad smile played on his face.

"What time is it, Zadorojny? I must have slept a few minutes."

"A few minutes?" He laughed boisterously. "You mean three hours. It's 4 o'clock. The Sebastopol trucks just rolled in, guns and everything."

"How about Yalta?"

"I can't make it out They should have been here long ago. Unless" . . .

"Unless what?"

He shook his head and went back to the gates.

At 6 o'clock the telephone rang. I heard Zadorojny's loud voice repeating excitedly? "Yes, yes, yes. I shall do just as you want me to."

Once more he came on the veranda. For the first time in all these five months I saw him in a state of panic.

"Your imperial highness," said he, lowering his eyes, "the German General will be here in an hour."

"The German General? You are insane, Zadorojny. What has happened to you?"

"Nothing has happened to me as yet," he answered, "but it looks like something may happen, unless you protect me."

"How can I protect you? I am a prisoner."

"Not any more. The Germans occupied Yalta two hours ago. They just telephoned threatening to hang me if any harm should befall you within the next hour."

My wife gave him a sharp glance. She thought the man had lost his mind.

"Now, come, come, Zarodojny. Don't talk such nonsense. The Germans are more than a thousand miles away from the Crimea."

"Well, I succeeded in keeping at least this secret from you, your imperial highness. The Germans occupied Kieff last month and since then have marched from 20 to 30 miles daily. But will you please remember, your imperial highness, that I never caused you any unnecessary suffering. I had to obey orders."

• • •

IT was too pathetic for words to see this giant tremble at the thought of the approaching Germans and hear him address me by my full title.

"Don't you worry, Zadorojny," I said, patting him on the shoulder, "you were awfully good to us. I have nothing against you."

"But how about Grand Dukes Nicholas and Peter?"

We both laughed and my wife reassured Zadorojny that she would see to it that neither one of the elder grand dukes made a complaint against our former warden.

I shall never forget the stupefaction of the German General, who arrived at 7 o'clock sharp, when I asked him to leave the detail of sailors headed by Zadorojny on guard at Ay-Todor and Dulber. For a moment he felt sure that the long imprisonment had affected my brain.

In accordance with the terms of the armistice, the Germans were to evacuate the Crimean Peninsula and all other parts of the former Russian Empire occupied by them during the spring of 1918.

The British fleet arrived at Sebastopol and its commander-in-chief, Admiral Calthorpe, conveyed to us the offer of His Britannic Majesty to put a ship at our disposal for our voyage to England. My mother-in-law thanked her royal nephew for this kind attention but was unwilling to leave the Crimea, unless permitted to take along several scores of friends who figured in the so-called "black lists" of the Bolsheviks. King George consented to it with his usual thoughtfulness, and everybody began to make preparations for the voyage.

Extremely anxious to see the heads of the Allied Governments, then gathered in Paris, in order to present to them a report on the situation in Russia, I wrote a letter to Admiral Calthorpe and asked him to arrange for my departure ahead of our party, which was to sail in the beginning of March, 1919. He sent a destroyer to Yalta to bring me to Sebastopol, and it had been agreed that I would leave the very same night aboard H. M. S. Forsythe.

It was strange that after fifty years spent in unsuccessful efforts to escape from the life of a grand duke, I shoud win freedom aboard a British battleship.

Behind the Screens
by Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD, July 27.

THEY are the most popular pests on the movie lots. They have bulldog tenacity, bizarre inventive genius, oratorical persuasion and Royal Northwest Mounted persistence—sooner or later, they always get their picture.

CONSTANCE BENNETT

They are pests because they pop in and out of sets in pursuit of their business; directors dread their appearance and stars frequently, actively, resent the requests they make of them. But they are popular, these pests, because (aside from the admirable personal qualities they may possess) everybody, not excepting Garbo, likes to see photographs of himself or herself, preferably in magazine or newspaper.

• • •

THESE "still men" lead adventurous lives. They are paid to take pictures of the studio's personalities, and it is their business to get those pictures. They sometimes are defeated, when their ideas don't click with those of the stars, but they have ways and means of getting around objections, and nine times out of ten they return with not only the picture they want, but a dozen others.

Besides ability as a photographer, the chief requisites of a studio "still man" are nerve and resourcefulness. Let's take Irving Lippman, one of them, as an example. Able first of all, he has nerve, resourcefulness, and a thick skin.

On every lot it is regarded as a major sport to make the still men as miserable as possible. A thick skin is a necessity. It enables them to rush in and set up a camera where studio bosses would dread to tread.

• • •

LIPPMAN specializes on "tough customers," those notoriously difficult to persuade to pose. George Arliss doesn't mind posing, but believes there should be a reason behind every picture taken. Lippman agreed with him, and returned to the studio with all the pictures he wanted besides those Arliss wanted.
